RENEW CZECH BORDER FIGHT

ROOSEVELT TALK WIDENS SPLIT IN RANKS OF PARTY

Garner Bloc Ready for Finish Fight.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt's Jackson day speech, proposing to purge the Democratic party of its conservative members, was accepted today by the conservative Democrats in congress as a declaration of war. And they declared themselves ready for the battle.

Upon the outcome of this struggle between the conservative wing led by Vice President John Nance Garner and the New Deal wing led by the President depends the control of the Democratic national convention in 1940 and the nomination of the Democratic candidate for President. It bids fair to be such a political battle as has not been witnessed since the standpat and progressive factions of the Republican party went down in fratricidal combat in 1912.

Ready to Part Company.

Mr. Garner and most other conservative and middle of the road Democrats in congress were grim and tight lipped in discussing for publication the situation produced by the President's challenge.

It was apparent, however, from what they said off the record that they recognize they have come to the parting of the ways with the President. They are preparing for the first round of the battle, which will take place in this session of congress when they seek to modify New Deal legislation and put the brakes on the Roosevelt spending policy.

Several conservative Democratic senators whom the President unsuccessfully sought to purge in the Democratic primaries last year have taken the position that the true liberals are those Democrats who defeated Mr. Roosevelt's attempt to pack the Supreme court. The real reactionaries, they contend, are the President and the other New Dealers who would have subordinated the court to the will of the executive.

Van Nuys Again Defiant.

Senator Frederick Van Nuys [D., Ind.], whose defiance of the presidential purge proved so popular that the Indiana Democratic organization deserted Mr. Roosevelt and capitulated to the senator, said that the Democrats the President now is attempting to read out of his party are the Democrats who have made New Deal theories practicable.

"I join," said Senator Van Nuys, "in the President's plea for party solidarity—not, however, to the extent of eliminating all who do not see eye to eye with him on present day controversial issues.

"I suppose I am classed among the so-called conservative bloc in the senate, but that does not mean that I am not a liberal in my viewpoint.

"I am a lifelong adherent of Jeffersonian, Jacksonian, and Wilsonian democracy.

"It is this element in the Democratic party of today which has held its poise and made workable most of the objectives of the present administration. It will be a sad day for the party and for the country when that element of our party is eliminated."

Holds Up Veto Club.

In his Jackson day speech, President Roosevelt served notice by implication that he would veto legislation decentralizing relief administration and returning it to the states. It is upon this question that the first clash between the President and the conservatives is likely to occur.

Mr. Garner, who, in a recent cabinet meeting, declared himself somewhat explosively against reckless spending and politics in relief, is actively directing the opposition to the President in this controversy. He is collaborating with Senator James F. Byrnes [D., S. C.], chairman of the senate committee on relief.

The formula sought by the committee is one similar, if possible, to the one by which federal highway aid to the states has been allocated for years with great success and little controversy. This formula takes into consideration the state's population, its area, and the condition of its highway system.

According to Senator Bennett Champ Clark D., Mo.] the same formula, with a substitution of general economic needs for the last item, might work out for allocating relief funds to the states.

PASTORS REVEAL NAZIS' NEW WAR ON LUTHERANS

Church Begins Fight for Freedom.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 8—"A nation must perish when preachers of God's word are forbidden to speak the truth," said a proclamation which was read today in Confessional [Evangelical Lutheran] churches of Germany.

The proclamation revealed that the Nazi government is preparing to attain the aim it has steadily pursued since 1935, namely to impose state rule over the entire church through government officials.

"For that purpose," the message said, "a mock synod is being created which is to merge all elements within the church by state compulsion. The church has its authority from God and cannot approve such a development, and the German people who walk in the darkness are beginning to see the great light."

Calls for Church Unity.

The proclamation deplored dissensions within the church itself at a time when "unity is so essential." It said "in prayer we must summon all our strength and work for true church unity."

The message disclosed that pastors have been disciplined by the Nazi régime because they had protested anti-Jewish excesses. They had previously been punished for calling church goers to prayer and repentance during the September war scare over Czecho-Slovakia.

In Dahlem, suburb of Berlin, the proclamation was read in the church of the Rev. Martin Niemoeller, imprisoned Confessional leader and submarine commander in the world war, by his brother, the Rev. Wilhelm Niemoeller.

Salaries of Pastors Stopped.

In his sermon Niemoeller said: "Because in the face of threatening war the Confessional church preached profession of faith and repentance, its leadership has been subjected to charges of treason.

"And because the pastors felt compelled in the face of the persecution of Jews to preach observance of the Ten Commandments they have been forbidden to preach and their salaries have been stopped [by the government]."

Niemoeller said four members of the administration of the Confessional church, which opposes Nazi domination of church affairs, were in protective custody, including his brother who is in a concentration camp.

Niemoeller declared that eight more pastors were under arrest, 130 were removed from their posts, forty were forbidden to preach, and eleven were expelled in Berlin alone.

Henlein Warns Priest.

Konrad Henlein, governor of Sudetenland, in a speech at Znaim, warned that "if priests do not know enough to keep out of politics they will soon find their churches empty."

Speaking at the formal annexation of South Moravia he said: "South Moravia formerly was under the dominance of the clergy, but now it constitutes an integral part of the German nation." The territory was ceded to Germany by Czecho-Slovakia.

Posters appearing outside Nazi party offices in Vienna attacked the Catholic church and especially the Jesuits for alleged anti-German propaganda. The posters said the propaganda was sent from Amsterdam and was financed by the Vatican. They named the former Viennese priest, Father Munkelmann, as editor of the "propaganda sheet" and insinuated there was a connection between the "Vatican's financing of anti-German propaganda" and "international Jewry."

THE RAKE'S PROGRESS

Assassins Kill Policy King on Michigan Ave.

Walter J. Kelly, colored, known as the policy gambling king of Gary, was shot to death by gang gunmen early last evening in front of 3035 Michigan avenue. He was the brother of Ira Kelly, reputed head of the policy racket on the south side.

Investigators theorized that Kelly probably was killed by men who wanted to muscle in on his rackets. They said he had been high handed in the suppression of rivals in Gary, and that he and his brother had made numerous enemies in Chicago.

Kelly was seated in an automobile when the killers approached. They also were in an automobile. As they drew near, a shotgun was thrust through their rear window and fired four times. Two of the charges struck Kelly in the head. He died on the way to the Michael Reese hospital. A companion who was with him was unharmed and fled on foot.

New Mayor Fights Policy.

After the shooting the slayers drove north, rounded a corner and disappeared from the sight of witnesses. It was not determined whether they were white or colored.

Kelly, who was 38 years old, lived at 1989 Delaware street, Gary. He went to the Indiana city four years ago to take charge of the policy lotteries, a favorite form of gambling among Negroes.

Last week, when E. L. Schaible, the new mayor of Gary, took office, he ordered policy games suppressed.

This order was carried out, and Kelly's business was cut to small proportions.

Acknowledged as Boss.

Kelly was the acknowledged boss of the colored underworld in Gary. He operated a hotel and a tavern and owned a weekly newspaper. Some of his friends recalled that he conferred with two strangers in the tavern early yesterday. These men are being sought.

The victim's widow said he left Gary in the afternoon with Sonny Williams, a bodyguard. Williams is believed to have been the man who fled from the car.

Police records show that Kelly formerly was a narcotics seller and that in 1932 he was sentenced to two years in Leavenworth penitentiary for his activities. Recently, however, he had abandoned this line of endeavor. Several of the Kelly brothers' lottery offices were raided recently by State's Attorney Courtney's axmen.

127 CHURCH DOLLARS EARN $477; GO BACK ON COLLECTION PLATE

Walton, N. Y., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Last Oct. 30 the Rev. Grant Robinson had the collection plate passed to each member of his Methodist congregation and urged each to take a dollar bill, invest it and return it and the profits to the church treasury.

The members took $127 and today they returned this sum plus $477 for a total of $604, which the Rev. Mr. Robinson said will pay for the winter's coal at the church.

The members invested their dollars in various ways. Some made candy and pillow slips, others sauer kraut and cake. Some used the money in their business and on their farms.

CITY POPULATION AT DAWN OF 1939 PUT AT 3,677,700

Chicago's population was officially estimated at 3,677,700 on Jan. 1. This is an increase of 301,262 since the last federal census in 1930.

And if you like figures—the present population is 873 times greater than when the city was incorporated in 1837; 122 times greater than in 1850; 34 times greater than in 1860, and 11 times greater than at the time of the Chicago fire in 1871.

Frederick Rex, municipal librarian, included these comparisons in his annual report issued yesterday. The library serves as a statistical clearing house for the city. Each year Rex estimates the population from the trends of previous years.

FAN CHALKS UP A BULL'S-EYE—ON BULLFIGHTER

LIMA, Peru, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Spanish Matador Laserna received one of the noisiest jeerings in the history of the 150 year old arena, Plaza de Acho, today when he appeared to lack courage and art in encountering the second bull of the afternoon.

So infuriated was one bleacherite that he hurled an ice cream cone which struck Laserna on the head. Laserna was so mortified he cried.

Then becoming angry at the jeers he rallied to such effect in fighting the fourth bull that he was cheered and awarded one of the bull's ears.

2 Ton Problem Child Goes on Hunger Strike

BY MARCIA WINN.

Korongo, the big black rhinoceros at the Chicago Zoological park in Brookfield, is one of those animals it is very hard to love. His beauty is purely rhinocerine, which isn't much, and his disposition matches it. Heart, body, and soul, he seems ugly.

But Korongo, it was learned yesterday, is capable of loves ordinarily reserved for man. He loves Eli Mark, his keeper, and he loves carrots.

This last is strange, for in Tanganyika where he was captured as a year old calf in 1931, he ate only leaves. But at Brookfield he eats red beets, onions, boiled rice, bran mash, boiled Irish and sweet potatoes, alfalfa, and garlic. And half a dozen raw carrots for dessert.

Insists Upon Eli's Cooking.

Korongo will do much for Eli. He will let Eli put his cheek next to his. He will lift up his massive legs that Eli may groom his toe nails. He will lumber willingly forward when Eli calls his name. And if Eli doesn't prepare his food, he won't eat.

So dogmatic is he on this matter that Eli, when ready to take a day off, fixes Korongo's food twenty-four hours in advance and places it on ice. Ordinarily, he is off on Tuesday, but this week he was also away on Thursday. And Korongo refused to eat.

This was bad enough, because an angry rhino, as Korongo was, has a temper exceeding human imagination. But Saturday night matters became even worse: The zoo's carrot supply ran out.

Eli prepared the meal all right, and placed it before his charge. Korongo took one look at it with his baleful eyes that curve upward like his snout, and began to rage. He stormed about his stall, stamping and trampling the food to bits. Not a bite did he eat.

He's Zoo's Problem Child.

"Now you might expect that in a little lapdog," Robert Bean, assistant director and curator of mammals, sighed, "but he's too big a lummox to be persnickety about six little raw carrots. We just didn't have any. That's all.

"Everybody looks at him and thinks him stupid, but he's very smart. He's too smart. He's become a problem child, but of course he's about 4,000 pounds of child, which makes it difficult."

All of which explains why Eli, in person, made a special Sunday shopping expedition yesterday. He bought six raw carrots.

Chicagoland's 24 Hour Auto Toll Is 11 Dead

The motor toll in and near Chicago leaped startlingly yesterday. In the twenty-four hour period ended last midnight eleven men and women died as victims of the highway massacre. Only two of the deaths were from old injuries.

The worst accident occurred last night in North avenue, one-half mile east of Main street, Glen Ellyn, in Du Page county. Two men were killed and three other persons were injured when a huge transport truck crashed into their stalled automobiles. The dead were Henry Partenheimer, 50 years old, and Harold Forsythe, 27, both of 4750 West End avenue.

Standing in Highway.

Partenheimer and Forsythe were towing in the disabled car of their friends, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McGuire, and Miss Elizabeth Duddleston, all of 33 North Lockwood avenue, when the towing connection slipped. Everybody alighted, and stood in the highway to examine the cars. Just then the transport truck, driven by Allen Blackwell, 35 years old, of 6527 Kimbark avenue, crashed into them.

The McGuires, Miss Duddleston, Partenheimer, and Forsythe were thrown in all directions. The car being towed was crushed. The car doing the towing was shunted 200 feet into a ditch.

Truck Driver Held.

The injured were taken to the Elmhurst hospital, where Partenheimer and Forsythe died. McGuire, 51 years old, received an arm fracture; his wife, 50, a leg fracture, and Miss Duddleston, 60, arm and leg fractures. Blackwell was held by Du Page county authorities. He said the cars standing in the road had no tail lights.

Raymond Colins, alias Collins, 35 years old, 625 Willow street, was held by Hudson avenue police last night as a hit and run driver. Early yesterday he ran down and killed Raymond Leinen, 33, of 1129 Drummond street, a chauffeur, at Wells and Eugénie streets. The accident was witnessed by Sergt. Herbert Preston and his squad.

Captured in Chase.

Colins drove away. Preston's squad chased him two miles through north side streets and alleys before curbing him at Wells and Menomonee streets, back near the scene of the accident. When captured Colins said he did not know he had struck any one. With him at the time was Stanley Larszalek, 1401 Huron street. Police said that Colins was sentenced to a year and a day at Sioux City, Ia., on a charge of violating the Dyer stolen automobile act.

Miss Muriel Filley, 19 years old, 9906 Calumet avenue, died last night in the Woodlawn hospital of injuries suffered in a motor accident yesterday. As a member of motorcycle club, she was riding on the back seat of a motorcycle when it collided with an automobile at 148th and Halsted streets, Harvey. Miss Filley was thrown to the street, but her only injury appeared to be a blackened eye, and she was taken home. She became ill later, and was taken to the Woodlawn hospital, where she died.

Fred Stephens, 76 years old, 7242 South Artesian avenue, was fatally injured last night when he was struck

BOMBARDMENT SETS HUNGARIAN HOUSES ON FIRE

Budapest Rushes Up More Troops.

BUDAPEST, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Fresh fighting broke out today on the uncertain borders of Hungary and Czecho-Slovakia. Czecho-Slovak troops were declared to have bombarded a Hungarian village with incendiary shells.

The Hungarian telegraphic agency said three Hungarian houses were set on fire in the village of Nagygejoce, near Ungvar, by the Czecho-Slovak shells. No loss of life was reported.

Charge Czechs Kept Up Fire.

The fighting, said the agency, started last night and continued intermittently this morning. The Czecho-Slovaks were reported to have kept up an irregular fire even after officers on both sides began an inquiry into the incident.

[Reports from Chust, capital of Carpatho-Ukraine [Ruthenia], the eastern province of Czecho-Slovakia, told of two other border clashes at Dovhe (Ungvar) and at another village between Vysni Koropec and Munkacs. One Czecho-Slovak officer was reported wounded.]

The Hungarian account of the Ungvar clash said the Hungarians gave no ground. The commander of the Hungarian frontier patrol said his front was first attacked by a mixed formation of 200 Czecho-Slovak soldiers and Carpatho-Ukrainian irregular infantrymen. The patrol took up defensive positions and asked for reinforcements from Ungvar.

Infantry Attack Repulsed.

The infantry attack was repulsed, according to the Hungarian version, but then artillery began to fire incendiary shells which started scattered blazes in the village. One regular Czecho-Slovak officer was reported captured.

Ungvar is about twenty-five miles west of Munkacs where Hungarians said forty-seven persons were killed in an eight-hour battle and bombardment Friday. Ungvar and Munkacs are located in separate indentations of territory, each about ten miles across, with Czecho-Slovak territory on three sides.

Both towns are located on the border of Carpatho-Ukraine to which Hungary has been reluctant to give up her claims in her desire to achieve a common frontier with Poland. Germany has opposed her ambitions.

Ungvar, 160 miles northeast of Budapest, formerly was the capital of Ruthenia, now called Carpatho-Ukraine. It was ceded to Hungary after the Vienna award of Nov. 2 by Italy and Germany, and Chust became the Carpatho-Ukraine capital.

Hungary Strengthens Border.

As a result of the tension Hungary strengthened her frontier forces.

Troops bound northward, equipped for campaigning in the snowbound region of Carpatho-Ukraine should the need arise, crowded the few highways leading to the border. Forces were strengthened both near Munkacs and Ungvar.

At Munkacs seven persons who were killed during fighting Friday were buried. High officials spoke at the funeral service at the city hall. A wreath from the municipality of Munkacs bore the legend: "Thank you for saving us."

Hungarian light artillery arrived in Munkacs and the city was full of soldiers. Holes in the roofs and broken windows testified to effectiveness of the Czecho-Slovak artillery in Friday's attack.

Border observers presumed that an inquiry of the bombardment would result in dividing the village of Oroszveg, northwest of Munkacs and the scene of some of the bitterest fighting Friday.

Agrees to Withdraw Troops.

PRAGUE, Czecho-Slovakia, Jan. 8.—(AP)—The Carpatho-Ukranian [Ruthenian] government today agreed to meet partially a demand by the Hungarian government that Czecho-Slovak troops be withdrawn from the border area.

Czecho-Slovak members of a mixed commission investigating last Friday's Munkacs battle said their military would withdraw a mile and one quarter from the border if Hungarian troops did likewise.

The Czecho-Slovak officials also called upon the Hungarians to liquidate "irregular" Hungarian detachments which they regarded as the principal cause of the border strife.

Czecho-Slovak sources said the mixed commission placed blame on both sides for the Munkacs skirmish.

Says Hungarians Started Firing.

It was said here that the commission's report declared the firing was started by the Hungarians, and that Hungarian volunteers and military patrols advanced into Carpatho-Ukraine territory.

A Czecho-Slovak commander ordered his men to counterfire, the report said. It added that during this operation a Czecho-Slovak tank crossed into Hungary and shells from an artillery battery landed in Munkacs itself.

Czecho-Slovaks said a Hungarian note presented earlier in the day to Premier Msgr. Augustine Volisin of Carpatho-Ukraine demanded that military forces be withdrawn by 8 o'clock tonight.

The Carpatho-Ukrainian government in a reply at 7 p. m. agreed to have the soldiers drop back from the frontier in the Munkacs district leaving only police and customs officials.

Intends to Hold Border.

Its note declared, however, that Czecho-Slovak troops would hold all other parts of the border established in the Vienna award by Italy and Germany. The government at the same time demanded that Hungarians fall back 1.5 kilometers [.93 of a mile] along the entire boundary but no answer had been received late tonight.

Meanwhile, it accused Hungarians of provoking Friday's fighting at Munkacs. It declared Hungarians took pains to use the incident as "propaganda" in order "to cover up that their own provocations and boundary violations by terror bands and military detachments were the order of the day."

BRITON SEIZED BY REBELS WHILE TRYING TO FLEE

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain, Jan. 8.—(AP)—The Spanish rebel newspaper Diario Vasco said today that Ernest Golding, British pro-consul suspected of complicity in a spy plot, was arrested while trying to escape on a British boat from a northern port.

Golding and his wife were reported held for investigation by the rebels on Jan. 2.

Claim He Returned Voluntarily.

LONDON, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Foreign officials said today that Ernest Golding, British pro-consul at San Sebastian, returned voluntarily to rebel territory from France upon learning of the discovery of alleged espionage documents in a British mail bag.

BRITISH FOE OF 'HUMAN LEOPARD' CULT DIES AT 80

LONDON, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Sir William Brandford Griffith, who gained fame by stamping out a cult of "human leopards" in Africa, died today at the age of 80. He was president of a special court which in 1912 captured and hanged members of the cult in Sierra Leone, British West African protectorate. The cultists ate parts of human captives in the belief it made them young and lithe as leopards.

King Carol and Jugo-Slav Regent Hold Secret Talk

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Jan. 8.—Prince Paul, regent of Jugo-Slavia, today had a long conversation with King Carol of Rumania on the estate of Princess Elizabeth of Greece at Balcik. It was strictly a private, although political, meeting and neither ruler was attended by his foreign minister. The conference was requested by Carol, who is anxious to learn as much as possible about the forthcoming "diplomatic hunting party" at Belje on the Jugo-Slav frontier. Galeazzo Ciano, Italian foreign minister, and Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, German air minister, are expected to take part in the hunt.

Pianos Just So Much Dirt to N. Y. Rubbish Haulers

New York, Jan. 8.—[Special.]—Officials of the sanitation department today insisted it was all part of the day's work for rubbish haulers to remove a full size piano, a discarded safe, or a heating boiler from some householder's doorstep. Last year 200 pianos and several hundred safes and boilers were carted off by the garbage trucks, but such heavy objects must be carried out to the rubbish heap by the owners. The city draws the line at going into homes to get them.

Five Killed, 20 Hurt When Fight Ends Political Rally

BOGOTA, Colombia, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Five persons were killed and more than twenty injured in nearby Gacheta today when a Conservative party rally ended in a fight with Liberal party adherents.

Czechs Shell Hungarian Town

New fighting broke out yesterday along the border of Czecho-Slovakia and Hungary. Czech troops were reported to have bombarded a Hungarian village with incendiary shells near Ungvar (Dovhe) as shown on larger map. Another clash was reported near Munkacs, scene of fighting last Friday. The lined area on the larger map shows part of the territory ceded to Hungary by Czecho-Slovakia and where the fighting occurred. The black rectangle in the smaller map locates the area covered in the larger map. All the ceded territory is identified by vertical lines.

FRENCH WARSHIPS REACH DJIBOUTI TO GUARD COLONY

Tension with Italy in East Africa Rises.

DJIBOUTI, French Somaliland, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Two French warships made a naval base of Djibouti today amid rising tension between this French colony and Italy's neighboring East African empire.

The newly arrived craft were the 1,969 ton dispatch boat D'Iberville and the destroyer Epervier. They were sent to this port on the Gulf of Aden from France's eastern Mediterranean fleet. Detachments of troops also are enroute from France to reinforce Somaliland garrisons.

The latest evidence of French-Italian tension was an attack last Thursday on a station of France's Djibouti-Addis Ababa railway at Diredawa in Italian Ethiopia. Many Italian posters proclaiming Fascist intentions to occupy Djibouti have reached here from Ethiopia.

Daladier Warns France.

PARIS, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Premier Edouard Daladier today returned to the French capital from his tour of France's Mediterranean possessions with the warning of "great tasks" ahead if her empire is to be kept intact.

His arrival marked the beginning of what may be a momentous week in the budding controversy with Italy raised by Fascist press tumult for Corsica, Tunisia, and other French territories.

A cabinet meeting with President Albert Lebrun presiding has been called for Tuesday, when Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of Great Britain and his foreign secretary, Viscount Halifax, will stop in Paris for a conference on their way to Rome for appeasement talks with Premier Benito Mussolini.

Parliament to Meet.

The French parliament will reconvene the same day with a full dress debate on foreign affairs as its first business.

The return of Daladier ended brief country sojourns of Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet and other cabinet members.

The premier, who left Paris New Year's day, had toured Corsica and Tunisia, prime objects of the Italian press clamor, as well as Algeria. A throng of government officials, army officers, and citizens who had followed his addresses on the tour voicing France's determination to relinquish none of her soil cheered him at the railway beflagged station.

"I am very happy to have established during this voyage the profound attachment of all natives of Algeria and Tunisia to France, their close union and their collaboration," Daladier said in a brief statement.

"I also noted with the greatest satisfaction the desire to see all Frenchmen more and more united for the accomplishment of great tasks which await them."

Daladier's first act was to report to President Lebrun at the Elysee palace on his Mediterranean inspection. After hours of conversation a palace statement said the premier had informed Lebrun of the "triumphal reception which populations unanimously reserved for him." It said the president expressed "the gratitude of France."

Uneasy Over Future.

Daladier's earlier references to "great tasks," however, reflected widespread uneasiness over the future. Newspapers published excerpts from Italian and German newspapers to show increasing force of Fascist demands on France as a prelude to Chamberlain's visit to Rome.

Observers said the government faced two immediate necessities. First, it had to impress on Chamberlain during his stopover that he must not take the rôle of mediator between France and Italy as he did between Germany and Czecho-Slovakia. Second was the task of maintaining its slim conservative majority in the chamber of deputies against Socialist and communist attacks.

Policeman Fires at Purse Snatcher in 6 Block Chase

Mrs. Marie Moreth, 4217 North Damen avenue, screamed last night when a thief snatched her purse at Damen and Montrose avenues. She was heard by Policeman William McKinzie, who was half a block away. He hurried to the scene and pursued the robber. The robber distanced him after a chase of six blocks, in which several shots were fired by McKinzie. Mrs. Moreth said the purse contained $10.

2 Flyers Hurt in Crash on Start of Miami Trip

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Two youthful flyers who had started out tonight on an attempted non-stop flight to Miami, Fla., were injured an hour later when their plane was forced down on the Minnesota river bottoms fifteen miles south of here. A. C. McInnis, 23 years old, flying instructor at Wold Chamberlain airport here, and his student, Harley B. Jobe Jr., also 23, were cut and bruised.

SHOT FIRED AT SHOP FOREMAN.

After trying to force their way into his car at 70th street and Union avenue early yesterday, two men threatened Leo Stevens, 6709 South Green street, a foreman for the Crane company, and one of them fired a shot at him, he reported to the Englewood police.

FILM COMIC MOVES OUT HIS COWS; PASTOR AND FLOCK MOVE IN

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Film Comedian Edward Everett Horton's barn became a church today. Horses and cows were moved out of the barn on his sixteen acre Encino estate and the Rev. Harley Wright Smith moved in with his congregation. The Episcopal pastor formerly was rector of St. Andrew's church in Stamford, Conn. He said Horton gave permission for use of his barn free until the congregation can build a church.

BRITISH PREMIER READY TO MATCH WITS WITH DUCE

Europe Enters Another Decisive Week.

LONDON, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Europe today entered what may prove its most decisive week since Munich with both the dictatorships and democracies anxious for peace, but each at its own price.

Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of Great Britain, who will go to Rome for "exploratory" conferences with Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy, will be the central figure in a week packed with negotiations.

Chamberlain will stop in Paris Tuesday to confer with Premier Edouard Daladier of France. Daladier's resolution not to surrender an inch of French territory to Italian colonial aspirations was fortified by his triumphal swing around France's loyal Mediterranean empire.

"Great Tasks" Face France.

Daladier, upon his return to Paris today, warned Frenchmen of "great tasks" to come to preserve France's empire intact. French newspapers published excerpts from the German and Italian press to show growing Fascist pressure on France to meet Italy's expansionist demands.

When Chamberlain reaches Rome Wednesday it will be his second meeting with Il Duce. Mussolini invited him to make the visit when they first met at Munich during the "big-four" conferences over Czecho-Slovakia last Sept. 29.

Their conversations are expected to cover broad political, economic, and humanitarian fields. But before Chamberlain entrains for home next Saturday it is certain he will have plumbed as deeply as possible the spirit of peace in Rome's populace. For it is his unshaken conviction that the people of Germany and Italy want peace as much as any one.

No Intercession by Premier.

Chamberlain can give Mussolini France's precise point of view on Fascist clamor for Tunisia, Corsica, and other French territory. But he will not offer to help settle the issue directly.

The French do not want his intercession. Besides, he will have too many British-Italian issues to clear up in four days, among them the Spanish civil war, the growing strength of Germany—Italy's axis partner—in southeastern Europe, and closer business and political coöperation between Rome and London.

Germany's economic minister, Walther Funk, already is in Rome talking trade, but he will have left before Chamberlain arrives. Thus, Mussolini will know what Germany can offer and he will be able to bargain sharply on any British proposal as, for example, expanded British-Italian trade facilitated by generous credits in London.

Ready for Parley on Jews.

While Chamberlain is in Rome another, but less spectacular, series of conversations will be held in Berlin. Beginning Wednesday, George Rublee, executive director of the intergovernmental committee for refugees, will discuss with Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank, plans for helping Jews leave Germany.

The Jewish problem, it is believed, may be tied in with the general appeasement program arising from the Chamberlain-Mussolini talks. Chamberlain, it is known, stands ready to give his backing to President Roosevelt, a prime mover of emigration plans in which Mussolini has been asked to coöperate and which he is understood to be considering favorably.

MUSSOLINI SUMMONS HIGH FASCIST COUNCIL FOR MEETING ON FEB. 4

ROME, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini today summoned the Fascist grand council to meet on Feb. 4, possibly to fix Italy's 1939 course of action in Europe. Some Fascists said they believed the meeting would be devoted to international affairs. Others thought it might consider further the position of Jews in Italy along with other internal questions.

In view of President Roosevelt's proposal last week that Il Duce contribute to the settlement of the European Jewish refugee problem, there is a possibility the council might say something on the suggestion of Jewish colonization in Ethiopia. The Italian government is sympathetically considering the Roosevelt suggestions, it was learned yesterday.

Significance was attached to the fact that the council meeting will follow closely the visit of British Prime Minister Chamberlain to Rome this week and the trip Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano intends to make to Jugo-Slavia on Jan. 19.

PRESS GAG HALTS GET-TOGETHER OF LATIN NEWS MEN

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

PANAMA CITY, Jan. 8.—Apparently government interference spoiled a New Year's party of Guatemalan and Salvadorean newspaper men at a meeting planned on the border between the two countries, a report just received here disclosed.

Elaborate plans had been made in both countries, but the Guatemalans did not arrive at the frontier and eighty Salvadoreans were left to eat and drink without their colleagues.

It is reported the Guatemalans were prevented from participating because the Salvadorean newspaper "Diario de Hoy" stated editorially that a campaign for democracy in both countries would be discussed at the meeting. "La Prensa" criticized the statement, and "Diario de Hoy" corrected it, but the chief editorialist, Celio Humberto Barreto, lost his job.

Students' Car In Fatal Crash.

One man was dead and three of six injured Northwestern university students were in a serious condition yesterday as the result of an automobile crash earlier in the day at Skokie highway and Wadsworth road, ten miles northwest of Waukegan. The students had driven to the Illinois-Wisconsin line for sandwiches after a dance and were returning to Evanston.

The crash occurred when a car driven by Robert Hildebrandt, 26 years old, of 2443 North Kostner avenue, came out of Wadsworth road into the highway. He was killed. A companion, William Nolan, 34 years old, of 1538 Menard avenue, was unhurt. Both cars were demolished.

GREEN TO SPEND 42D BIRTHDAY GETTING VOTES

Young Republicans to Fete Candidate.

Dwight H. Green, candidate for the Republican nomination for mayor, will speak at a ward workers' meeting in the 11th ward tonight after a full day of other campaign and social activities. During the afternoon he will be fêted at the Hotel La Salle where his 42d birthday will be celebrated. Then he will make a radio address.

The ward meeting will be held at 1032 West 31st street. William S. Finucane, Republican ward committeeman, will preside. Green has previously spoken on the north side and has announced that before the primary, Feb. 28, he will speak in every ward in the city.

Running Mates to Speak.

Green's running mates, John William Chapman, candidate for city clerk, and Clement A. Nance, candidate for city treasurer, will speak tonight at a meeting in the 4th ward under the sponsorship of Charles Krutckoff, Republican ward committeeman. The meeting will be held at 4905 Cottage Grove avenue. Chapman and Nance are former aldermen.

Green, who won fame as United States attorney for the northern district of Illinois and as the prosecutor of Al Capone, said he expects to be kept busy every day until the primary and that he will accept as many invitations to speak as possible.

Accepts Citizens' Invitation.

He will speak at a dinner Jan. 30 arranged by representatives of all civic and fraternal groups in Chicago. All other candidates for mayor are to be invited, spokesmen for the citizens' group stated.

This afternoon's program in honor of Green's birthday will be under the auspices of the young Republicans. Green will be in the reception line between 2 and 5 o'clock. The Green headquarters will hold open house all day.

Capone Finds Life Easier After Move to New Prison

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—Al Capone, former Chicago gangster, was settled today in prison of the federal correctional institution on Terminal Island, where he was brought secretly last week. Capone found the routine softer than that at Alcatraz prison, from which he was transferred. Discipline at Alcatraz is said to be the strictest in the United States.

Goodspeed Warns Republicans of City to Stay in Own Primary

BY PARKE BROWN.

Chicago Republican leaders, including some of national prominence, who have urged members of the party to forget party lines in the approaching mayoral primaries and election were rebuked emphatically yesterday by the treasurer of the Republican national committee, C. B. Goodspeed.

C. B. Goodspeed.

In addition to performing his duties as custodian of party funds, Goodspeed has taken an active interest in Republican welfare locally, but always with emphasis on the national viewpoint. He was one of the original sponsors of Dwight H. Green's candidacy for mayor. In that, he told associates, he was guided as much by thought for party success as he was by consideration of the municipal situation.

Puts Ideas Into Statement.

As treasurer of the national committee, Goodspeed is considered the peer of any midwesterner in the field of national activities. For that reason what he said about the appeal for nonpartisanship was considered of first importance.

Goodspeed's statement follows:

"The mayoralty election in Chicago will probably be the most important political event in this country during the year 1939. It is important not only to the citizens of Chicago, who desire honest and efficient city government, but to the entire nation because of its bearing on the presidential election in 1940.

"If we are to elect a Republican President, we must carry Illinois. To carry Illinois, the power of the Democratic machine within the city must be destroyed.

"This can be accomplished by nominating a Republican candidate for mayor whose character, experience, and ability will inspire faith and confidence in the party. Republicans cannot build up the morale of their party, so that we will carry the state in 1940, by voting for Democrats either in the primary of in the election.

Republicans Are Disillusioned.

"Many good Republicans were seduced into voting in the Democratic primary last April in the belief that by so doing they would destroy the Democratic machine which controls the city of Chicago. With their help, the candidates of the faction opposing the machine were nominated, but these Republicans were sadly disillusioned immediately after the primary when the two factions of the Democratic party buried the hatchet and united for the purpose of electing the straight Democratic ticket in the congressional elections in November.

"These Republicans were further disillusioned when they learned that under our election laws a voter who votes in a primary of one party cannot vote in the primary of the other party for two years. They are, therefore, barred from voting as Republicans in this year's primary, although the election of a Republican President in 1940 may depend upon the type of candidate we nominate for mayor of Chicago.

"In spite of these facts, Republicans again are being urged to vote in the coming Democratic primary for the purpose of destroying the Democratic machine in the city of Chicago. They have been told that the candidate of the opposing Democratic faction is a nonpartisan candidate and will not build up a partisan organization. This is pure deception. He has always been a partisan politician and would build a Democratic organization for the purpose of electing a Democratic President in 1940, just as he made every effort to elect Democratic congressmen in 1938.

Warns of 1940 Primary.

"He has filed for the nomination of mayor on the Democratic ticket. If he is nonpartisan, why did he not file as an independent candidate, which the law permits him to do?

"Republicans should also bear in mind that as the law is now interpreted, if they vote in the Democratic primary this year they cannot vote in the Republican primary in 1940. It is true that the Democratic county judge can change his interpretation of the law, but this would only be done, as it has been in the past, if it is to be to the advantage of the Democratic party.

"The restoration and preservation of the American form of government depends upon the nomination of public officials by responsible political parties. Patriotic Republicans should not be misled again. They should vote in their own primary and choose the type of Republican candidate for mayor of Chicago whose very nomination will instill such faith and confidence in our party that we will carry Illinois in 1940 and elect a Republican President of the United States."

REBELS ADVANCE 12 MILES DEEPER INTO CATALONIA

Pierce Defenses on East Bank of Segre River.

SARAGOSSA, Spain, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Rebel commanders reported a twelve mile advance and the capture of ten villages today in a powerful thrust against government lines on the central Catalonian front east of Balaguer.

The attack was aimed at government defenses along the Villagrasa road toward Cervera on the highway to Barcelona, less than seventy air miles away. Villagrasa is nine miles west of Cervera.

Hard fighting Navarrese troops southeast of Lerida reported another gain, driving beyond the Lerida-Tarragona road between Borjas Blancas and Vimbodi.

Behind heavy air and artillery bombardments, rebels broke through government entrenchments on the eastern bank of the Segre river and drove the enemy back past Alcoletge, which is northeast of Lerida and near the main highway to Barcelona. Another force struck southeast to broaden the Segre bridge head by joining forces already based at Artesa de Lerida.

Completes Conquest of Lerida Sector.

The attack completed the rebel ccnquest of the Lerida sector, driving government forces from positions they had occupied since April 3, 1938, and which had held Franco's troops on the western side of the river.

Rebel officers said their engineers had strung two bridges across the Segre to reach the strongly fortified government line. They said a general advance along the whole Catalonian front rapidly was straightening the line which the rebels steadily have been pushing eastward toward Barcelona in the campaign which began on Dec. 23.

Southwest of Montblanch, on the highway to Tarragona, rebels said they had captured Ulldemolins in a surprise attack and branched into two columns to cut around Mount de Montsant down the slopes of the Llena mountains.

Attempt to Split Rebels.

HENDAYE, France [At the Spanish Frontier], Jan. 8.—(AP)—The Spanish government reported today that its southwestern offensive had swept beyond the Zujar river almost within artillery range of the main railroad line connecting Seville with northern rebel Spain.

The ultimate goal of Gen. José Miaja, government commander in the Estremadura drive, appeared to be to split rebel Spain in two by driving west to the Portuguese border. Its immediate strategy was to compel Franco to withdraw troops from Catalonia and weaken the rebel northern drive.

Powerful government forces, moving swiftly through the rich Penarroya mining region, last night captured Fuenteovejuna, an important road center, and by dawn today were closing in on Azuaga, another road hub about fifteen miles farther west.

Quick Drive in Southwest.

They were also within fifteen miles of the main Seville-Salamanca railroad, government dispatches said, and only about seventy miles from the Portuguese frontier.

In three days, Barcelona reports said, the government's southern drive has conquered about 250 square miles of rough country with attacks fanning out from the severed Cordoba-Almorchon railroad.

Bombs Kill 32 in Valencia.

MADRID, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Thirty-two persons were killed and forty-seven injured in a swift raid by five rebel bombers on Valencia today. Twenty-five bodies were found soon after the noon attack on the government held seaport and seven other bodies were found later in the ruins of twenty-one houses.

Discuss City Manager Plan at Luncheon Today

H. Barry McCormick, chairman of the Chicago city manager committee, will discuss city manager plans at a noon luncheon today of members of Ad Men's post, No. 170, of the American Legion. The meeting will be held in the Tavern club. Herbert H. Beck is commander and Harold C. Wright adjutant of the post.

McHenry County Slot Machines Go Into Hiding

Slot machines disappeared from McHenry county last night. In most taverns and other places where they were installed they were merely removed to rear rooms for future pickup by the syndicate. It could not be learned where the order for the removals originated.

SWITCHMAN DIES OF INJURIES.

Alfred R. Campbell, 60 years old, died yesterday in the Illinois Central hospital of injuries suffered Dec. 30 when he fell in the railroad switching yards at Pinckneyville where he was employed.

Both Spanish Foes Make Gains

(Story in adjoining column.)

Each side in the Spanish civil war yesterday claimed extensive gains. Rebels (No. 1) crossed the Segre river north of Lerida and drove twelve miles deeper into Catalonia. Loyalists (No. 2) reported their southwestern drive was within 15 miles of the Seville-Salamanca railroad, the main connecting link between northern and southern rebel Spain. The loyalists seek to force the rebels to shift troops from the Catalonia front.

SOVIET TOILERS FACE DISMISSAL IF LATE FOR WORK

Decree Demands More Work for Less Pay.

MOSCOW, Jan. 8.—(AP)—The Moscow radio broadcast a new decree today ordering automatic dismissal of any soviet Russian worker who arrives on the job more than twenty minutes late.

The decree, which emphasized the seriousness of the government drive against labor slackers, directed district prosecutors to see that factory managers enforce the rule strictly.

The government also demanded more work for less money from workers in the machine building industry.

Cut Piece Work Pay.

Victor Lvoff, young commissar of machine building, ordered production to be increased by 25 per cent before workers would be given the normal wage.

He also reduced their piece work remuneration by 14 per cent and explained that in 1938 the "salary and wages fund has been considerably overspent."

The new work-wage scales must be enforced by Feb. 1.

If a worker produces more than 10 per cent above the new minimum he will get a 30 per cent pay increase, if he produces more than 40 per cent above the minimum his pay will be doubled.

Aimed at Floaters.

Lvoff's order follows a decree issued Dec. 28 which tightened discipline imposed on workers in both offices and factories.

It was aimed especially at "floaters" and habitual absentees.

It provided that vacations would be given only to workers who have been on the job at least a year. Downward revisions were provided for disability pensions, and maternity vacations were reduced.

FLYING ROMEO LEARNS LONDON LOVES A LOVER

Brings Home Russian Wife After Madcap Trip.

LONDON, Jan. 8. — (AP) — Bryan Grover, the daring young Romeo of the flying machine, today brought home to a romantic minded England the beautiful wife for whom he made an audacious, unauthorized flight into soviet Russia.

All the world loves a lover, so it made no difference to England that the Lochinvar engineer was in the unromantic position of being broke. England insisted on a fairy story ending to the dashing romance and England got it.

The home folks had read all about Grover's madcap flight in a dilapidated, second hand sport plane from Stockholm to Russia to claim the Russian born wife he hadn't seen in five years.

Flew into Prison.

They also had read how Grover flew right into a soviet prison where he spent six weeks before soviet authorities became touched by the romance of his escapade and let him off lightly for the one man "invasion." Officials fined him $300 and confiscated his plane.

Crowds followed Grover and his wife, the former Eleana Petrovna, everywhere they went — first to a London hotel and then to their new apartment in the city and later to his parents' home outside London.

Grover obligingly kissed his wife for the photographers but kept insisting "I can not very well speak of our love. It is too strong an emotion to express."

The Briton said he was in the air six and a half hours on the flight which ended in a pasture 100 miles from Moscow, on Nov. 13.

Adventure Costs $1,500.

Grover, a one time oil engineer in Russia, said the adventure cost him $1,500—and was worth every cent.

Bryan and Eleana were married in Russia in 1933 when he was working for the soviet oil industry. He left the country shortly thereafter and when repeated efforts to reenter were rebuffed he decided upon the aerial junket to find his wife.

Eleana, who speaks nothing but Russian, wore a dark coat with an Astrakhan collar and a fur hat. Bryan was hatless and still wore his airman's lether jacket.

Tomorrow he plans to go around and see if he can get back his old job as engineer.

Jack Benny Will Tell U. S. Jury About Smuggling Case

Glendale, Cal., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Jack Benny, film and radio comedian, left tonight by airliner for New York, where he said he would appear voluntarily before a federal grand jury investigating jewelry smuggling.

"I'm going back to find what it's all about," he said, declining to discuss details.

FLAMES DESTROY 15 BUILDINGS AT PLOW FACTORY

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Jan. 9.—[Monday.]—(AP)—Firemen redoubled their efforts today to keep a spectacular blaze in the abandoned Moline Plow company plant here from sweeping into several occupied manufacturing plants nearby.

Poughkeepsie fire fighters, recruited from six other Hudson valley communities, sprayed long streams of water on nearby plants. Fifteen of the fifty-nine wooden structures which formerly comprised the Moline plant have been destroyed. Only one was occupied—by the American Chemical Fertilizer company—and that was among those leveled by the flames.

"The plant is obsolete and, save for the fertilizer plant, onoccupied," said Fire Chief Chris Noll. "The blaze, however, is one of the worst in the history of the city and probably will be burning well into the morning."

ITALY WANTS TEN MILLION CITIZENS TO RETURN HOME

Seen as Move to Bolster Territorial Claims.

ROME, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Italy, the land of teeming population which once sent a half million emigrants yearly to foreign countries, now is calling them back.

Premier Mussolini wants to get as many as possible of the Italians living abroad—Italy estimates the number at 10,000,000—under the Italian flag once more.

A repatriation commission has been established and given a half million dollars to start the work. The machinery of the Fascist party, which has units among Italians in other countries, has been put to work to assist the great anticipated homeward migration.

100 Return from France.

One hundred Italians from southern France were the first to be brought home. They arrived for Christmas and were given a festive dinner by officials at the frontier.

If the call of the mother country were heeded by a large number, many eventually would be settled in the new Italian empire. But, at the start, plans call for absorbing them in the home territory. Like the Fascist campaign for more babies and the law against further emigration, the repatriation would make Italy's population even denser than it is.

This in turn would give greater strength to Mussolini's argument for territorial expansion—and give him more man power to call upon if war were necessary to achieve the expansion.

Deluge of Responses.

Units of the Fascist party and the Fascist workers', industrialists', and agriculturalists' syndicates have been ordered to get ready for the economic absorption of those who come home.

The summons to return has brought a deluge of responses from Italians abroad, the repatriation commission has announced, but it is proceeding slowly at first to prevent the labor market from being glutted.

The figure of 10,000,000 Italians abroad does not take naturalizations into account and includes the children born to Italians abroad, whom Italy considers Italian citizens though most of them never have seen Italy.

Claim 3 Million in U. S.

According to this figure there are 3,749,000 Italians in the United States, 1,837,000 in Brazil, 1,826,000 in Argentina, and 992,000 in France. The United States census of 1930 shows only 1,790,000 natives of Italy in the United States. Many of these had renounced allegiance to Italy through naturalization and their children, in most cases, are American citizens.

Nevertheless, some Italian commentators consider that the figure of 10,000,000 Italians abroad is far too low. The newspaper Il Popolo di Roma recently produced statistics designed to show that 5,100,000 rather than 1,826,000 of Argentina's 12,000,000 persons were really of Italian blood.

If the same discrepancy holds good for Italians in other countries, the newspaper said, the total of persons of Italian blood abroad would be 28,000,000 rather than 10,000,000. Added to Italy's present population of 44,000,000, this figure would give the nation almost as many persons as greater Germany has.

"For us it is not citizenship that counts, but race," said Il Popoli di Roma. "Each one carries his nationality in the blood that he inherits from his forefathers, and not on a piece of paper that the pressure of authorities in the country in which he resides has induced him to accept."

Among the speakers were Zelig Tygel, national executive director of the American committee making the appeal for help; Rabbi Joshua I. Goldberg, Max M. Korshak, Sigmund W. David and Albert H. U. S. BOLSTERED BY LIMA PARLEY, HULL DECLARES

Given Backing for Stand Against Dictators.

ABOARD S. S. SANTA MARIA, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Secretary of State Cordell Hull, on the eve of his arrival in New York from Lima, Peru, believed today the United States would face imminent world problems with greater authority because of the approval given by the twenty other American republics to the general lines of his foreign policy at the eighth Pan-American conference.

Hull, with other members of the American delegation, will reach New York tomorrow afternoon. He will go directly to Washington, D. C., which he left on Nov. 25 for the Lima conference, which was held from Dec. 9 to 27.

Hull then will begin preparation of an important public address, to be made after some weeks, in which he will place the Lima parley in full relief against the general background of the world situation.

Returning to Washington at a time when United States' troubles with totalitarian states seemed on the increase, rather than decrease, Hull believed the Pan-American conference would aid him in two directions, as follows:

1. With the approval formally given by the twenty other American republics to the eight fundamental points of foreign policy he laid down in previous speeches he will be able to speak with added weight to the totalitarian states.

2. The same approval will strengthen the attitude of the large European democracies, Great Britain and France, and the smaller nations, such as Belgium, the Netherlands, and the Scandinavian countries, and induce them to continue along the same lines of international conduct, which briefly means the rule of order under law rather than rule of force or threat of force.

[Among the principles repeatedly emphasized by Hull in a program to avert armed conflict on a gigantic scale are: Limitation and reduction of armaments, economic reconstruction, adherence to the basic principles of international law, observance of treaties, abstention from the use of force in pursuit of policy and from interference in the internal affairs of other nations, and international cooperation.]

Counts on Strong Effect.

Hull is satisfied that the Lima conference will have far reaching effects. He summed these up as follows:

1. The declaration on continental solidarity and defense, which he maintains is far stronger than decisions reached at any previous Pan-American conference, should bind the nations of the western hemisphere closer together and also serve as a warning to totalitarian states in the eastern hemisphere.

2. The same declaration also should make the American republics more cognizant of danger of political penetration from totalitarian states and more disposed to take measures to protect themselves.

[In the declaration the American republics proclaimed their decision to defend their continental solidarity "against all foreign intervention or activities that may threaten them."]

Example for Other Nations.

3. The declaration based on Hull's program for a world order based on law should keep the American republics moving along the right lines and, at the same time, prove a powerful example to other nations to adopt the same principles.

4. The extensive declaration for reduction of trade barriers and removal of commercial restrictions should tend to make trade move more freely among the nations adhering to liberal principles in commerce in contrast with nations using barter methods and artificial systems.

5. The American republics, realizing the world was becoming ever smaller through improved communications, will be disposed to work with the rest of the world in an effort to bring stability rather than to place themselves upon a shining but isolated plateau.

Will Oppose Several Issues.

Hull is looking forward to a busy period after his return to Washington. In addition to tackling German and Japanese problems he probably will throw his influence against several issues before congress.

These include the bill by Senator Bennett C. Clark [D., Mo.] and Representative Louis Ludlow [D., Ind.] for a popular referendum before a declaration of war, to which he is thoroughly opposed as tying the government's hands, and the bill by Senator Pat McCarran [D., Nev.] requiring the senate's consent for trade agreements. He believes this measure would revive the old system of log rolling for tarif increases in place of the trade agreement system of reductions by experts.

He also faces long and involved discussion of the new neutrality bill. The delegation will arrive without four of its members.

Alf M. Landon of Kansas flew home from Lima, Laurence Steinhardt is the ambassador to Peru and remained at his post, the Rev. John F. O'Hara, president of Notre Dame university, is visiting Buenos Aires, Montevideo, and Rio de Janeiro, and Emilio del Toro Cuevas, chief justice of the Porto Rican Supreme court, left for home from Panama.

AVALANCHES KILL 8 SKIERS IN ALPS DURING WEEK-END

GRENOBLE, France, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Avalanches thundering down slopes of the Alps crushed eight skiers to death during the week-end. Sixty Alpine troops, guides, and volunteers labored up Galibier Pass and recovered the bodies of five of seven persons buried yesterday under a mass of snow, stones, and frozen earth near Valloire, on the French-Italian border. Another avalanche north of Davos, in eastern Switzerland, overtook five skiers. An Englishman, Merton Stebbing, was killed; his companions escaped.

YOUNGEST MAYOR FINDS THAT LIFE ISN'T ALL GLORY

Boys' Town, Neb., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—It isn't all glory for the youngest mayor in the United States, Sam Turner, 17 years old, who was elected chief executive of the community which is composed of Father Flanagan's Boys' home. Because of his office, Sam must be first up in the morning, to awaken the six city commissioners. They in turn awaken boys in the dormitories they govern. And he's the last in bed at night, after making sure every one else has retired.

STELLE TO READ MESSAGE BEFORE ASSEMBLY TODAY

Paper to Express Attitude of Horner Advisers.

BY PERCY WOOD.

Acting Governor John Stelle will read the executive's biennial message to a joint session of the Illinois senate and house in Springfield today.

John Stelle.

The document, which is understood to consist of about fifteen pages, will express Mr. Stelle's attitude and the attitude of Gov. Horner's advisers, toward the problems facing the state. The governor's prolonged illness and absence in Florida made Stelle the temporary head of Illinois, but he has been coöperating with Horner leaders in running its affairs.

Final Corrections Made.

Last minute corrections were being made in the message last night, according to word from Springfield. Stelle, James M. Slattery, chairman of the Illinois commerce commission; Charles K. Schwartz, member of the tax commission, and S. L. Nudelman, director of finance, were the coauthors.

Advance reports on its contents were that the message would advocate no increase in taxes, but would recommend continuance of the third cent of the sales tax for relief purposes. Bills to this effect were the first proposed legislation introduced in the senate last Wednesday. Final action on them must be taken before Feb. 15, after which inaction would mean that the tax would drop to 2 cents.

Differ on Oil Legislation.

The message is understood to contain no controversial recommendations—that is, no proposal over which the two Democratic factions might split.

Mr. Stelle has not lined up with Gov. Horner politically in the last three years. For example, the governor wanted the legislature to consider the regulation of Illinois' new oil industry during the special session last June.

Acting Governor Stelle is said to oppose any regulation of the fields at this time; therefore, predictions were that the subject would be avoided in the message.

Seek Budget Balance.

There was doubt also that the message would contain a flat proposal for consolidation of school districts. The subject may be treated in some fashion, but most statehouse observers felt that creation of a state school board—another Horner proposal—would not be included.

Continuance of a balanced budget is certain to be advocated in the Stelle message.

Announcement of senate committees will be made today by George M. Maypole, president pro tempore of the senate. House committees are being selected by Speaker Hugh Cross.

The speaker announced last night that Representative Robert J. Branson of Centralia would be the majority floor leader. Branson was close to the candidacy of Cross for speaker.

Representative Edward P. Saltiel of Chicago, one of the Cook county leaders for Cross in the fight between Cross and Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg of Chicago for the speakership, will become chairman of the judiciary committee, Cross said last night. The appropriations committee will be headed by Representative Hugh Green of Jacksonville.

CHICAGO BOUND TRAIN WRECKED; TWO ARE INJURED

Logansport, Ind., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—Six cars of the Chicago bound Florida Arrow of the Pennsylvania railroad were derailed today half a mile south of Cutler, Ind. Two sleepers and a dining car turned over, injuring two persons. The track was torn up for more than a quarter of a mile and trafic was halted more than fifteen hours. A broken rail was blamed. Those injured are Mrs. Warren Lee, 60 years old, of Winnipeg, who was taken to the Logansport hospital suffering from shock, and Louis W. Morris of Logansport, a brakeman, who incurred cuts on the head. The passengers were brought here in three coaches that remained on the track.

New Furniture

Something new for children is this sandbox boat with sail exhibited at Furniture Mart show.

If you worry about how to get harmony in your new room, heave a sigh of relief. Complete rooms furnished in perfect harmony are now sold in packages.

Called "ensemble groupings," the new rooms are a feature of the international home furnishings market opening today at the Merchandise Mart. They come complete with furniture, rugs, draperies, and lamps, and in various styles, modern, colonial, and American modern.

More than 10,000 out of town buyers are expected in the city for this market and the National Home Furnishings exposition, which similarly opens a two weeks' run at the American Furniture Mart, 666 Lake Shore drive.

A new bedroom note is introduced in flowerized curtains which waft out a gentle perfume in the night's breezes. Curtains with a leaf pattern have a pine scent; those with a rose pattern, a rose scent; those with a vine pattern, an exotic, oriental scent.

COL. L. M. LOGAN, ARMY OFFICER, IS FOUND DEAD

Lieut. Col. Leon M. Logan, assistant superintendent of the inspector general's office of the 6th corps area, United States army, was found dead yesterday in his room in the Lake Shore Athletic club, 850 Lake Shore drive.

He had been dead 20 to 24 hours. Medical examination indicated that death was caused by a heart attack. However, after a conversation with army officials, Police Lieutenant Thomas Brennan of the Chicago avenue station arranged for an inquest to be held at 1 p. m. today in the undertaking rooms at 200 East Superior street. No reason was given.

Col. Logan was 55 years old and a native of England.

Army Aviator Is Killed in Crash of Airplane

Trinidad, Colo., Jan. 8.—(AP)—An army plane crashed nine miles south of Trinchera, Colo., today and killed the pilot, Lieut. Wallace A. Nau, who was alone. A rancher, George Dardinas, and members of his family happened upon the wreckage four miles from their ranch home. At Denver Col. Jacob Rudolph, commandant of the army air corps technical school, said the plane left Denver for Amarillo, Tex.

ASK TEN MILLION MORE NEXT YEAR FOR STATE RELIEF

IERC Also Says 11 Million Must Be Raised Now.

Illinois will need $10,700,000 more for relief in the coming fiscal year than it spent in 1938. This prediction was made by the Illinois Emergency Relief commission in a report to the governor and the general assembly on the problem of how to support one of every six persons in the state with public funds.

The report, submitted to Acting Governor John Stelle two weeks ago, was not made public until yesterday. It said that local and state relief expenditures last year totaled more than $65,700,000. It estimated needs for the fiscal year beginning in June at $76,400,000.

New Emergency Arises.

In addition, to setting forth the long range problem in relief financing, the IERC dropped a new emergency in the lap of the legislature.

The state will run $11,300,000 short of the estimated need for the five month period from February to June, unless the legislature acts, the report said.

The legislature last spring increased the state funds for relief from $2,900,000 to $3,800,000 a month.

On Feb. 1 the amount reverts to $2,900,000. The IERC estimated that local taxes will furnish $1,500,000 a month throughout the state, leaving a need of $5,160,000 a month from February to June. The shortage would be $2,260,000 a month.

"The commission cannot emphasize too strongly that additional funds must be made available for the five month period if extreme suffering and distress are to be avoided," the report said.

The IERC also pointed out that the 3 per cent sales tax will be reduced to 2 per cent automatically on Feb. 15 unless legislative action is taken. This would eliminate the one-third of the tax set aside for relief, which amounts to about $2,000,000 a month.

Transfer Power Also Expiring.

The balance needed to make up the $3,800,000 relief fund is at present taken from the general revenue fund, but the power to make this transfer expires on March 15, further complicating the problem.

The second problem of the biennial session of the legislature is to provide state relief funds for the two years from June, 1939, to June, 1941.

The IERC estimated that $153,000,000 will be needed, including $117,000,000 from the state. This, it said, would mean a monthly expenditure or $4,900,000 by the state, or $1,100,000 a month more than is now being spent.

The report showed that state and local funds provide for a little more than 25 per cent of Illinois relief, the remainder coming from federal funds. The total relief bill in 1938 was set at $270,000,000, of which the state spent $65,700,000.

During November, according to the IERC, there were 1,400,000 persons in Illinois on relief, including the WPA and old age assistance. This is 18 per cent of the population. In that month the state and local funds provided for 512,133 or 6.7 per cent of the population.

The report was signed by John C. Martin, who will resign as IERC chairman today, and Leo M. Lyons, executive secretary.

At 3:30 a. m. yesterday James Perry and Norman Oatman robbed Mr. and Mrs. John Carrigan of $10 in front of the latter's home at 1245 Newport avenue. At the showup yesterday both men were identified by their victims. Oatman, who is 2. years old and lives at 1214 Fletcher street, said the robberies were their first. LABOR ACT UNFAIR TO EMPLOYERS, SAYS BAR GROUP

House of Delegates Will Get Protest Today.

The one-sidedness of the national labor relations act should be remedied to give employers a defense against illegal and unfair tactics of labor organizations. This recommendation will be made today to the American Bar association's house of delegates by the association's committee on labor, employment, and social security.

The house of delegates, which is the legislative and policy making body of the association, opens its annual midwinter meeting this morning in the Edgewater Beach hotel.

Indorse Collective Bargaining.

The committee report, announced by William L. Ransom of New York, past president of the bar association, deals mainly with collective bargaining, labor legislation, and industrial relations. Although it indorses collective bargaining and the use of labor tribunals to settle labor disputes, it states:

"A labor relations act is one-sided and contrary to the American spirit of fair play and proper structure if it outlaws unfair practices of employers but not of employés and if it is a tribunal for employé organizations and not for employers."

The report recommends that the association urge amending the labor act "to define and forbid as illegal and unfair certain specific and clearly defined practices by labor organizations and groups of workers, including practices directed against employers and against free choice by individual workers."

Condemns Sitdown Strikes.

The committee also condemns sitdown strikes.

"The forceful occupation or holding of employer property in the form of a sitdown or stay-in strike, is a usurpation of property which jeopardizes the very existence of a society in which property and rights are respected," it states.

"Such occupation should be outlawed as an unfair labor practice by labor organizations and by employés under the national and state labor relations acts."

A resolution condemning Nazi persecutions also will be offered the delegates by Judge Ransom. The resolution's sponsors include District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey of New York, Henry L. Stimson, former secretary of state; Frank J. Hogan, present head of the bar association; Homer Cummings, former United States attorney general; John W. Davis, former ambassador to Great Britain; and several former presidents of the association.

LAWYER NAMED REPRESENTATIVE OF FRANKFURTER

Cambridge, Mass., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Felix Frankfurter, President Roosevelt's newest nominee to the United States Supreme court, today designated Dean G. Acheson, Washington lawyer, as his representative before a senate subcommittee hearing on confirmation of the appointment.

Frankfurter, Harvard law professor, sent a telegram to Chairman Neely [D., W. Va.] of the subcommittee advising that Acheson would appear for him when the hearings open Tuesday, but that "I, of course, hold myself in readiness to respond to any call by you."

Acheson, a long time friend of Frankfurter, was secretary to Justice Louis D. Brandeis from 1919 to 1921.

"I am sure," Frankfurter told Senator Neely in his telegram, "the committee fully understands that I have no wish to make any statement in support of my own nomination."

MRS. FREIDA EDSON.

Lebanon, N. H., Jan. 8.—(AP)—The nude body of Mrs. Freida Edson, 28 years old, a divorcée, was found today in the back room of Henry Gedeon Begin's barbershop and Police Chief James F. O'Neil of Manchester said Begin confessed shooting her twice through the head because she laughed at him.

The body was found covered with barber towels after O'Neil notified Lebanon police that Begin, 35 years old, a hairdresser, had surrendered in Manchester.

O'Neil quoted Begin as saying he had known the woman since last summer and had tried to break with her. Begin said he "went crazy" when she scoffed at him, shot her twice with a revolver purchased shortly before Christmas, tore off her clothes in an attempt to stop the bleeding, and fled when she died.

SEEK TO SPEED LAWRENCE TRIAL IN PENN FRAUD

Officials of Court Move for Quick Action.

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Court officials tonight said they would set a date early this week to bring State Democratic Chairman David L. Lawrence to trial on charges of blackmail, conspiracy to cheat and defraud the state, and violation of the election laws.

Lawrence, secretary of the commonwealth in the cabinet of retiring Gov. George H. Earle, was indicted yesterday by a grand jury which has been investigating charges of graft and corruption against fourteen top Democrats, including Earle, in last spring's primary.

Earle Quiz to Continue.

The indictments were based on the grand jury's inquiry into the Erie gravel case, involving charges that inferior gravel was used on highways in northwestern Pennsylvania.

The jury said it intended to inquire further into Gov. Earle's connection with the case.

The governor was defeated for the United States senate in November, when the Democrats lost control of the state administration in a Republican landslide.

Named in Three Bills.

Lawrence was named alone in two bills. In the third he was linked with the late John J. Verona, a former Pittsburgh political leader and contractor, in a conspiracy to obtain unlawful contracts from the state.

Verona represented the firm which sold the gravel for the Erie district roads to the state.

Lawrence retained Attorney Oliver K. Eaton to defend him.

DIES DEMANDS NEW DEAL SHOW HAND ON RED QUIZ

Declares Congress Will Back Committee.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Representative Dies [D., Tex.] called upon the administration today to "quit pussyfooting" and make known its attitude toward continuing the life of the house committee on un-American activities.

"If they are going to oppose us, why don't they come out in the open and make an issue of it?" he asked. "Then we can come to grips and settle it. They know they can't beat us."

Dies has asked the house to recreate the committee, of which he was chairman and appropriate $150,000 for the investigation.

Target for Sharp Attacks.

His reference to "pussyfooting" was prompted by reports that the administration might not oppose continuation for a limited time. The committee has been the target for sharp attacks by President Roosevelt and administration leaders.

The Texan said he did not know why Secretary Ickes had canceled a scheduled radio address on the subject, "playing with loaded Dies." The talk had been announced as another attack on the committee by Ickes.

Dies was inclined to take lightly the president's announcement that the justice department would look into failure of some foreign groups to register with the government.

Only Limited Inquiry.

"I don't know whether they think that that kind of a hunt would take some of the steam out of our request for recreation of the committee or not," Dies said. "But of course, such an investigation would be limited only to the registration act and would not touch upon the main point of our work—studying every activity of such groups as communists, Fascists, and Nazis."

Dies contended that "an aroused public" had prompted introduction of a long list of bills to curb aliens the first week of the new congress."

DIES OF RABBIT FEVER.

Thomas Dause, 40 years old, colored, of 1351 North Leavitt street, died in the County hospital of rabbit fever last night. When he entered the hospital Jan. 4 he told attendants that he had cut his hand while dressing a rabbit on Dec. 17.

M'NUTT BACKER TO OPEN BATTLE FOR NOMINATION

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Frank McHale, Democratic national committeeman and confidant of Philippine High Commissioner Paul V. McNutt, said tonight 1940 Democratic presidential nomination headquarters for the former Hoosier governor would be opened here "within a week or ten days."

While McNutt remains undecided when he will return to the United States, McHale indicated he might sail from the islands Feb. 7.

ADUCATION

By CALEB

THE educative effect of advertising on individuals and on populations is not always appreciated as it deserves. Yet it is so definite a reality in current affairs as almost to warrant a special name—a word by which it would gain recognition in its own right. Such a word, perhaps, as Aducation, might at least be nominated.

Every service, product or movement familiar to patrons and users today—sometimes so familiar, in fact, as to be "good dictionary" (like kodak, aspirin and vaseline) —was once new, and utterly unknown. That their names have, in hundreds of instances since, become household references, is the direct contribution of Aducation to common knowledge and the common welfare.

Seldom has this broad, comprehensive influence of the American advertisement been more forcefully and succinctly stated than in the address of former Governor Roosevelt of New York before the Advertising Federation convention of 1931, when he said: "Because it brings to the greatest number of people actual knowledge concerning useful things, it is essentially a form of education; and the progress of civilization depends on education." And in a later passage, he presents the whole matter even more strongly, declaring that "the general raising of the standards of civilization among all groups of people during the past half-century would have been impossible without the spreading of the knowledge of higher standards by means of advertising."

It is obvious, of course, that any educational program can be abused—just as a chronometer might be used for a paperweight. Certainly no serious advertising man condones any abuse whatsoever of this basic function of it called Aducation—for its responsibility is that of being as truthful as it is timely, and as constructive as it is extensive.

With research and invention, engineering and distribution, multiplying the enhancement of all living —Aducation will more and more become a dominant feature of what used to be called "Salesmanship in Print." As a force for progress and permanence, moreover, it will affect the public through every imaginable publicity channel. It is to be hoped, therefore, that in respect to discretion and believability the vigilance of its producers will at least equal the magnitude of scope and materials with which they operate.

ROW OVER REDS IN AUTO UNION FLARES UP ANEW

Martin Charges Plot to Upset Purge Plan.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—Internal warfare that has threatened for six months to smash the United Automobile Workers of America flared anew tonight after three months of armed truce. The fight revolves around alleged efforts of communists to get control of the auto union—second strongest affiliate of the C. I. O. — away from Homer Martin, international president.

Homer Martin.

Martin yesterday raided the Plymouth local, No. 51, U. A. W., one of the largest units of the organization, ousted all its officers, seized the records and appointed two co-administrators to take charge until an election can be conducted in ten days. He said he ousted the officers because they were under communist domination.

Martin charged tonight that the officers of the international are planning to upset his efforts to clean the reds out of the local unions. He said that the executive board of the U. A. W. had been called to meet shortly without his knowledge, in order to take action to restore the ousted officers of the Plymouth local.

Insists He Is Misquoted.

Martin also said he had been deliberately misquoted by U. A. W. officials on the prospects of organizing the Ford plants The U. A. W. president denied saying that he expected to make an arrangement with the Ford company and he said U. A. W. officials had issued such a report for the purpose of making trouble in the union.

A month ago Martin testified in Washington before the Dies committee investigating un-American activities that the U. A. W. was overrun with communists. "When I went to Flint headquarters of the U. A. W.," he said, "I thought I was in headquarters of the communist party. He also told the committee that John Brophy, executive director of the C. I. O., had surrounded John L. Lewis, the dictator, with communist aids.

Fires 3 Vice-Presidents.

The U. A. W. internal fight flared into the open last July when Martin fired George F. Addes, international secretary-treasurer and followed this action two weeks later by firing three international vice-presidents, Richard T. Frankensteen, Ed Hall and Wyndham Mortimer. He charged the three vice-presidents were communists and were plotting to unseat him.

Two months after the vice-presidents were discharged a C. I. O. arbitration committee ruled they should be restored to office. Two months ago the executive board discharged Martin's research director, his administrative assistant and the head of the women's auxiliary. This action was the first indication that Martin was losing control of the board.

BOY OF 4 KILLS BROTHER WITH FORBIDDEN GUN

A 50 cent rifle in the hands of a boy only 4 years old caused the death yesterday of the boy's brother, George Brincka Jr., 13 years old, of Downers Grove. George bought the gun a few weeks ago from a school chum at the Westmont school. His parents forbade him to use it, and hid it.

Yesterday George found the rifle and took it into the yard. Apparently he thought it unloaded. He put it down. His little brother, James, picked it up. He pressed the trigger. There was an explosion and George fell with a bullet near his heart. He died on the way to the Hinsdale sanitarium.

JEW VETERANS RENEW BATTLE ON COMMUNISM

Atlantic City, N. J., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—Jewish war veterans of the United States today pledged an unremitting fight against communism. Six hundred delegates to the midwinter conference readopted in substance the resolution against communism and in defense of Americanism that has been passed at each previous convention of the organization.

William Berman of Brookline, Mass., past national commander, told the delegates not to forget the dangers of Nazism and Fascism, but to remember particularly that communism continues to threaten all things which mean liberty and democracy for Americans.

NOT EVEN MAGICIAN CAN FIND RABBIT; BOY PATIENT DIES

Boston, Mass., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Blackstone, the magician, learned a trick today.

Displaying his legerdemain at Children's hospital, the magician staged an act in which a rabbit, after being pulled from a hat and wrapped in newspapers, disappeared completely—so completely that even Blackstone couldn't find it. He finally left without it.

A little later Bobby McConnell, 8 years old, of Brookline, pulled the rabbit out from under the covers of his bed. The children named it Henry, but nurses decreed it could not live in the ward.

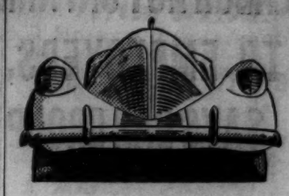

5,000 SPECTATORS WITNESS TWELFTH NIGHT PAGEANT

More than 5,000 persons yesterday attended the Epiphany pageant, "The Coming of the Wise Men," and open house at the St. Mary of Providence institute, 4242 North Austin avenue. The journey of the three Wise Men to the stable where Christ was born was portrayed in afternoon and evening performances. The pageant, sponsored by Men of Good Will, an interdenominational committee of prominent Chicagoans, celebrated Twelfth Night, traditionally the end of the Christmas season.

ALLEY BANDIT ROBS MOTORIST.

A young robber yesterday took $79 from Jack Leon, 45 years old, an agent for the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, as he was putting his car into the garage behind his home at 5324 Drexel avenue.

SKIING IS EXCITING!—"But don't let nerve tension spoil your fun . . .
LET UP—LIGHT UP A CAMEL" advises HANS THORNER
Skiing expert and director of the Mount Washington (N. H.) Swiss Ski School

HUNDREDS OF SKIERS have made their début to this fascinating winter sport under Hans Thorner's expert guidance. One skiing principle he stresses is: "Don't let your nerves get tense, keyed-up." His advice to pupils: "Pause regularly —LET UP—LIGHT UP A CAMEL."

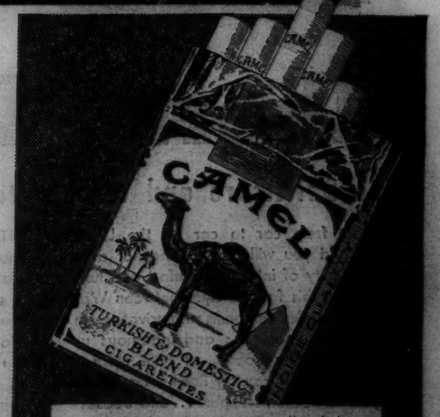

MODERN SKIING is a telling test of skill, stamina, and nerve-power. Judgment must be keen, balance perfect, for a single slip may mean quick disaster. Nerves simply must not waver. Skiers, particularly, know how well it pays to protect their nerves—to rest them frequently—by letting up—lighting up a Camel.

BETWEEN ORGANIZING CLASSES, checking up on equipment, giving exhibitions, and arranging a host of other activities, there's plenty of nerve strain in Hans Thorner's day too! Above you see him taking his own advice about the way to avoid getting tense, jittery. He's letting up to light up a Camel. "It's a grand way to break nerve tension," says Thorner. "I find Camels quite soothing to the nerves."

"AN ACCOUNTANT'S WORK calls for absolute accuracy," says Mr. C. W. McArthur, "and that means long, hard concentration with plenty of nerve strain. My rule to avoid tension is to ease off now and then—to let up—light up a Camel. I find Camels are soothing."

DOROTHY LEWIS, featured at the Iridium Room, Hotel St. Regis, New York City, skates brilliantly on a room-size sheet of ice. She says: "Whirlwind spins, turns, twists are nerve straining. I soothe away nerve tension every chance I get—I let up—light up a Camel."

WHEN BUSY, STRENUOUS days put your nerves on the spot, take a tip from the wire fox terrier pictured here. Despite his almost humanly complex nerve system, he quickly halts after any activity, to relax—to ease his nerves. So often, we humans ignore this instinctive urge to break nerve tension. We may even take pride in our will to drive on relentlessly, forgetting that tiring nerves may soon be jittery nerves! Yet the welfare of your nerves is really vital to your success, to your happiness. Make it your pleasant rule to pause regularly—to LET UP—LIGHT UP A CAMEL. Start today—add an extra measure of comfort to your smoking with Camel's finer, costlier tobaccos.

NEW RADIO GUN CRACKS ATOMS TO AID SCIENCE

Projectiles Fired at Great Speed Smash Nuclei.

Ithaca, N. Y., Jan. 8.—(AP)—A radio gun, a new type of atom smasher, the first 1939 scientific achievement to come from college laboratories, was announced today by Cornell university.

The gun is a glass tube, 8 feet long, 6 inches in diameter, its interior a vacuum in which short wave radio power drives light or heavy atoms so that they attain speeds of thousands of miles a second.

This makes it an atomic cannon, firing projectiles at other atoms for the purpose of disintegrating their nuclei, the inner core of atoms which contain over 99 per cent of the mass of all matter. By studying the resulting atomic explosions scientists hope to understand the nature of the enormous forces holding the nuclear constituents of atoms together.

Heavier Particles Used.

Previous atom-smashing apparatus has been limited to shooting lightweight particles. The heaviest has been deuterium, with twice the weight of a hydrogen atom, the lightest of all substance. Mercury, lead, and many other heavy atoms can be used in the new Cornell gun.

The apparatus was developed by Dr. Lloyd P. Smith, professor of physics, and his assistant, Dr. Paul L. Hartman of Reno, Nev.

The atoms to be speeded up are placed in the form of gas or vapor in the loading end. By means of electrical forces electrons are made to ionize them—that is: charge them positively.

The breech of the gun is a small metal tube, a few inches long. It is negatively charged. Consequently it attracts the positive particles, and they rush into it.

Tremendous Acceleration.

The gun barrel consists of seven more of these metal tubes, fixed end to end. To them are connected the radio apparatus, so that 10 million times a second each tube successively reverses its positive and its negative ends. The result is to keep the positive atoms continuously drawn forward by the negative end of the tube ahead. The final acceleration is tremendous.

A unique value is the ability of this gun to select from the vapors in the breech atoms of any desired weight, to shoot them and only them to the target. This selection has advantages from some atomic investigations. It also makes possible a higher concentration of atomic bullets than other methods.

The radio gun is safe from danger of electric shock to its operators and is cheaper to build than many of the atom-smashers of other types. The present gun cost $7,000 and is in successful operation. Higher energies can be had by making it longer.

Water Turned On

The black line marks the course of the Colorado river aqueduct which will supply water to southern California.

Parker Dam, Cal., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—Engineers of the 392 mile Colorado river acqueduct today prepared to rush the project to completion following ceremonies at the intake pumping plant upstream from Parker Dam. The first water was thrown into the acqueduct in the presence of hundreds of citizens and officials of the metropolitan water district of southern California.

After the $220,000,000 project is completed the water will course across deserts, up siphons, and through mountain tunnels at the rate of 90,000 gallons a minute to Los Angeles and 12 other cities in the district.

MARY ROCKWELL DIES; DESCENDANT OF 1642 SETTLER

Pittsfield, Mass., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—Mrs. Mary Rockwell, widow of Francis Walker Rockwell, one time representative in congress from this district, died today. She was 90 years old. She was the eighth generation in descent from William Davis, who settled at Roxbury, Mass., in 1642. Mrs. Rockwell's father, Deacon Davis, was a Pittsfield merchant who gave Marshall Field, Chicago merchant, his first job. Field had walked to Pittsfield, thirty miles from his father's farm at Conway, looking for work.

Close Michigan Avenue from 45th to 47th Streets

Beginning this morning, Michigan avenue between 45th and 47th streets will be closed for a week while a sewer line is being laid, Otto Jelinek, trafic engineer of the Chicago park district, announced yesterday. Through trafic will be barred, but residents of the stretch may drive in and out and deliveries will be permitted.

CHINESE RETAKE TOWN FROM JAPS ON YELLOW RIVER

Invaders Shelled for Time by Own Artillery.

SHANGHAI, Jan. 9 [Monday].—(AP)—Chinese reported today that their forces in western Shansi province had recaptured Wencheng, on the east bank of the Yellow river, in an attack which also forced other Japanese units to withdraw from the river shore.

Before the town was taken, they said, Japanese artillery at Chungshih mistakenly shelled Wencheng, causing heavy casualties among their own troops.

Capture Japanese Posts.

In three days' fighting at Lishih, in western Shansi, Chinese said they had captured eleven Japanese pillboxes, inflicted 1,800 casualties, and disabled eight cannon.

Japanese planes bombed Ichang in western Hupeh and Taoyuan, in northern Hunan province, and scattered propaganda handbills over Changsha and Nanchang.

Pirates Raid Foreign Ships.

SHANGHAI, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Chinese pirates, raiding shipping within 15 miles of Shanghai, twice tried today to capture foreign steamers.

Three armed junks fired on the Italian steamer Lipari near the confluence of the Woosung and Yangtze rivers, killing one Chinese passenger.

An hour later two Chinese were wounded when the German steamer Hansa was fired on at the same spot. Both ships put on full steam and escaped up the Woosung toward Shanghai.

SLAYING OF HOODLUM ON HIGHWAY LAID TO SLOT MACHINE RACKET

Du Page county authorities looked into the slot machine racket yesterday for a possible clew to the murder of Robert Lewison, alias Lewis, 24 years old, 1301 Independence boulevard. He was found shot to death in 31st street road, a mile north of Hinsdale, Saturday night. He had been shot five times.

Robert Lewison.

Several slot machine master keys were found in his pockets, along with $94. Investigators worked on reports that Lewison operated with a gang that specialized in looting slot machines of their coins. In that connection they were also working to see whether Lewison's murder had any connection with that of John Balma of Joliet, an alleged slot machine hijacker, who was shot to death in Joliet early Saturday.

A notebook found in Lewison's coat contained the names of twenty women. All who can be reached will be questioned. Lewison was considered a minor hoodlum. He was once indicted on a robbery charge, but the charge was dropped for want of prosecution.

Syrians Parade in Protest of French Rule by Mandate

DAMASCUS, Syria, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Throngs of Syrian nationalists marched today in protest against French rule. Demonstrations were called against France's failure to execute the 1936 treaty which would have ended her league of nations mandate over Syria and given the latter independence. Native shops were closed until tomorrow night in a protest strike.

CHRISTMAS GIFT BRINGS A SMILE TO STRICKEN BOY

Raymond Potter Jr., who apparently is recovering from staphylococcus meningitis, usually fatal, wore his Christmas wrist watch yesterday for the first time.

Until then, his family had been unable to give it to him, as Raymond has been in the Municipal Contagious Diseases hospital. Saturday, however, he was transferred to the Roseland Community hospital, that he might be near his family. They live at 11347 Church street. His first request was for his watch. When he left the contagious hospital, all his belongings were of necessity destroyed.

Raymond was stricken more than a month ago with this rare disease. Since then he has had 17 blood transfusions. He was resting well yesterday, his father reported, and was in high spirits, although he seemed weak.

"Thomas brought me new hair beauty" says Soma Byington

Noted Director of American Institute of Human Relations

ONLY a healthy scalp can produce beautiful, thick, lustrous hair. Excessive oiliness or dryness, scalp itch, dandruff, and abnormal hair-fall are danger signals pointing to local scalp disorders which need correction. Don't let these vicious scalp ills rob you of your natural hair beauty.

Do as Soma Byington—and a quarter-million other persons have done—consult a Thomas expert. He'll show you how Thomas treatment effectively overcomes dandruff, normalizes the functioning of the scalp's oil glands, stops abnormal hair-fall, and actually promotes natural hair growth on the thin areas. No charge is made for a complete scalp examination—come in today! Men and women are treated in separate departments.

BATTLE MADMEN IN ARMORY; NAB ONE, TWO ESCAPE

Guard Captain and Wife Injured by Fugitives.

Omaha, Neb., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—Police searched Nebraska and nearby states tonight for two of the five convicts who escaped from the Lima, O., State Hospital for the Criminal Insane New Year's day. One of the felons, a murderer, was captured here last night when three of them were trying to steal pistols and ammunition from a National Guard armory.

In a battle in the dark armory, which resulted in the capture of Willard Brucks, 34 years old, an insane killer from Cincinnati, O., Capt. Earl Kelso of Omaha was injured severely and Mrs. Kelso was bruised in a battle with Frank Haines, 36 years old, of Chicago, the leader of the madmen in their Ohio escape.

Brucks was knocked unconscious by Maj. B. B. Miltonberger of Lincoln, who with Capt. Kelso had entered the armory to inspect guard equipment. Haines escaped during the battle and fled with William Blatz, 32, a native of Maine, who had been left outside as a lookout when the two others entered through a skylight in search of weapons for use in planned robberies.

Caught in Cleveland.

Frank Nuckels, another of the escaped convicts, stayed in Ohio after the escape and was caught in Cleveland; Marion Pierce, colored, the fifth, left the gang in Fort Wayne, Ind., and was sought in Indianapolis, his home.

Maj. Miltonberger said he and Capt. Kelso found a door had been broken open when they entered the armory. They looked into the dark supply room and could see nothing. Then they heard some one move and Miltonberger commanded them to come out. Haines then rushed at Kelso with a knife and blackjack and Brucks attacked Miltonberger with a crowbar.

Mrs. Kelso ran to aid her husband, who was on the floor, and Haines lifted her high into the air and slammed her down beside the injured officer and fled while Miltonberger was knocking Brucks down with a blow of his fist.

Brucks told Omaha police today that he, Haines and Blatz drove to Chicago in the car they stole in Lima. Haines wanted to go to Chicago to keep his threat to kill his divorced wife, her sister, and two policemen.

Guard Home in Chicago.

In Chicago last week police guarded the home of Haines' former wife and her sister and Sergt. Redmond Gibbons and Patrolman Louis Olson, who fought a gun battle that resulted in Haines' capture for robbery in 1931.

Brucks said he, Haines and Blatz rode a freight train from Chicago to Council Bluffs. On Thursday night they robbed a store of liquor, groceries and the blackjack with which Haines slugged Capt. Kelso. They made their way across the river to Omaha Friday and spent the night in a rooming house.

Brucks corroborated a story told in Cleveland, O., last week by Nuckels, who said Haines and the two others planned a series of robberies through the middle west as soon as Haines finished his killing in Chicago.

PHILADELPHIA HIT IN PURSE; REBEL OVER SALES TAX

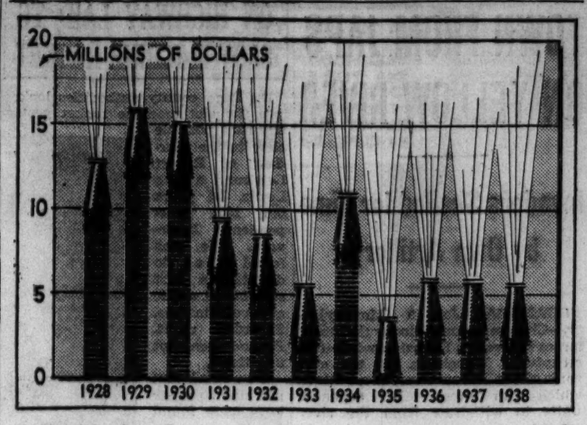

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 8.—(AP)—The city council, after agreeing to kill a 3 per cent sales tax measure, was confronted tonight with the problem of finding additional revenue from other sources or seriously curtailing the functions of municipal government.

A majority of the council members, in caucus yesterday in the face of organized opposition to the sales tax, decided not to override the veto that Mayor S. Davis Wilson has promised for tomorrow.

George Connell, president of the council, said the decision apparently leaves the council with no alternative but to try to operate the city during 1939 on a $73,000,000 budget. The mayor had estimated $88,000,000 would be needed.

"If no other source of income will be available for 1939," said Connell, "a 40 per cent reduction must be made in the budget requests as submitted by the mayor."

Chicago Fire Losses at Low Level

Heights of the fire hose nozzles represent the annual losses by fire in Chicago in the last eleven years. The 1938 loss was the second lowest in the period.

Education Helps

Fire losses in Chicago last year were about $5,700,000, the second lowest annual total in the last eleven years.

Fire Commissioner Michael J. Corrigan announced the 1938 figure yesterday in his annual report and said the estimate probably was high. Insurance company records to be filed within the next few months with the National Board of Fire Underwriters likely will show a lower total, he said.

The lowest annual loss since 1928 was $3,712,000 in 1935; the highest, $15,963,979 in 1929. The peak during Mayor Kelly's term in office was reached in 1934—$11,065,436. This included the $4,500,000 loss at the big Stock Yards fire.

Fire loss figures since 1928 follow:

1928	$12,999,899	1934	11,065,436
1929	15,963,979	1935	3,712,000
1930	15,154,285	1936	6,188,700
1931	9,502,028	1937	6,100,900
1932	8,419,861	1938	5,700,000
1933	5,778,996

"Many factors enter into Chicago's outstanding record in fire prevention," Corrigan reported. "These include education of the public, inspection work, removal of old buildings, prosecution and investigation of arson cases, and continued efficiency of members of the fire department."

During 1938, the department responded to 25,168 alarms compared with 23,181 in 1937. The bureau of fire prevention made 119,767 inspections and gave 745 talks at schools, clubs, and over the radio. Assistant Corporation Counsel Earl Downes inquired into 444 fires, calling 1,776 witnesses to his office for questioning.

The fire department is now divided into the following companies: Engine, 120; fireboat, 2; hook and ladder, 49; squads, 10, and auxiliary, 18. The auxiliaries include such units as pressure wagons, chemicals', high towers, light wagons, and ambulance.

"Our fire department deserves the highest praise," Mayor Kelly said. "It has been responsible for a drastic cutting of the fire insurance rates here—a real saving for all citizens."

COOGAN TO SELL FURNITURE AT AUCTION TODAY

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 8.—(AP)—The separation between Jackie Coogan and his actress bride of a year, Betty Grable, may not become permanent, as she says, but Jackie is placing all his household effects on the auction block tomorrow.

"The kid," who estimates his earnings as a child actor at $4,000,000, but who is now broke and without a job while Betty earns $500 a week, will spare nothing in an effort to recoup something from the costly home he provided for his bride.

Three grand pianos, an entire house of costly period furniture, Persian rugs and a gallery of twenty-five oil and water color paintings by famous European masters are among the objects to go under the auctioneer's hammer at the Beverly Wilshire art galleries at 8 a. m. Coogan is suing his mother, Mrs. Lillian Bernstein, and his stepfather, Arthur L. Bernstein, for an accounting of his earnings.

Well, girls, Robert Taylor was in town yesterday. As he stepped off the Santa Fe Chief in the Dearborn station, a crowd of women descended upon him. Soon there were more and more. All wanted autographs. But most of them were lucky to get a glimpse of the actor. Somehow, Robert got into an automobile and was whisked away. Maybe this was planned, and maybe it was not, but two women suddenly popped up on its back seat, too. Mr. Taylor, handsome movie star, was on his way to New York.

WOMAN IS FOUND DEAD IN CAR FROM MONOXIDE FUMES

Mrs. Thelma Lockwood, 40 years old, 4892 North Clark street, yesterday was found dead in an automobile in the woods three miles west of Deerfield and 800 feet north of Deerfield road. Death was caused by carbon monoxide fumes. A hose connected with the exhaust was found inside the car.

Mrs. Lockwood probably had been dead since Wednesday. She had been separated from her husband, James, two years. She had borrowed the car in which she was found from him on Wednesday. Mrs. Lockwood was clutching a photograph of a boy when she was found.

LIVINGSTON WINS FEATURE RACE AT MIAMI AIR MEET

Pilots Clipped Wing Coupe 156.8 Miles an Hour.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Miami, Fla., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—John Livingston today won the feature race of the All-American air maneuvers here by flying his clipped wing Monocoupe six times around a five mile course at an average speed of 156.8 miles an hour. Livingston, a veteran pilot of Aurora, Ill., recently opened a flying field at Waterloo, Ia.

John Livingston.

The event was the final competition of a three day meeting built around the country's private pilots and their airplanes. It was the first air race in history in which 500 flyers took part and in which—by actual count—more than 500 planes were gathered at the same field.

Livingston was trailed by Tony Levier of Montebello, Cal., and by Steve J. Wittman of Oshkosh, Wis.

Second Place at 151 M.P.H.

Levier, winner of the Grieve trophy race at the last national air races, flew a Beechcraft biplane. Wittman, one of the most daring racing pilots in the country, flew a Cessna monoplane. Their respective speeds were 151 and 145 miles an hour.

There were two other races during the day. The K. K. Culver race for women was won by Miss Edna Gardner of New Orleans, La., at 117 miles an hour. The Firestone trophy race was won by J. H. Woods of Charlotte, N. C. Both were races for stock model planes and were won at relatively low speeds.

Squeek Burnett, a doctor's assistant at Lynchburg, Va., won the stunting competition in a Travelair biplane with a Wright 220 horse power motor.

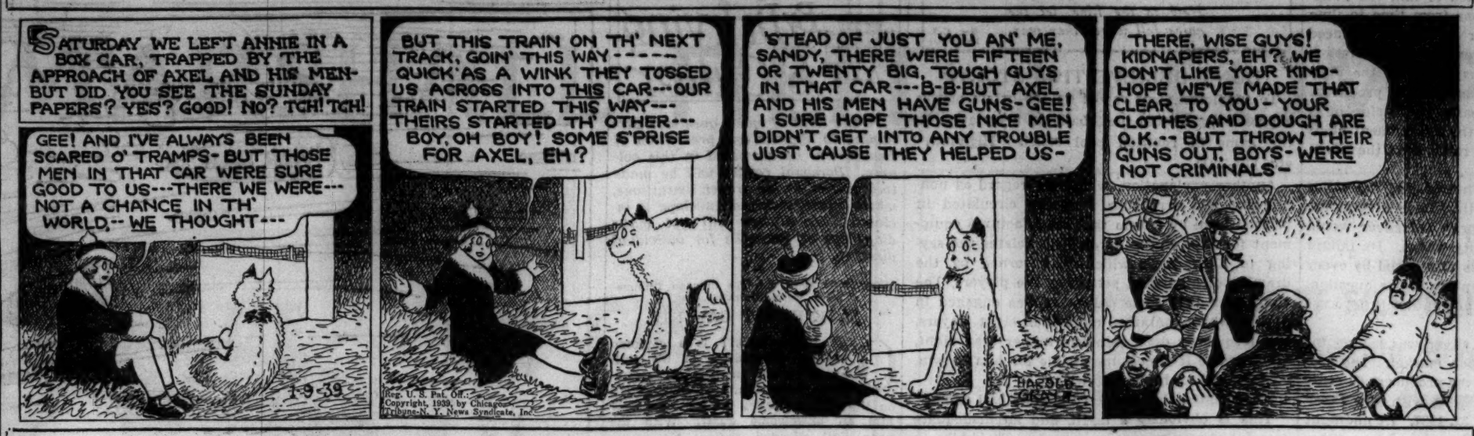

Start Treks Back Home.

While the races are officially over today, the 380 flivver planes that putputted here from places as far away as Maine and Minnesota now begin their long treks home. And for these pilots, the races will continue for at least a week longer.

For these pilots, their cross-country trips are a real adventure. Many of them on their way here experienced forced landings in farm meadows, on highways, and in back yards when head winds prevented them from reaching airports where they were expected.

Similar adventures await them on their way home, and the real test of the success of the races will come in calling the roll to see that no one was injured and no ship damaged on the round trip.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Two Timing Trip

TERRY AND THE PIRATES—RIGHT DOWN HIS RAIN BARREL

BRAVE RAGING SEAS TO RESCUE 12 FROM VESSEL

Storms Lash Grounded Ship Off Philippines.

MANILA, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Eleven passengers aboard the grounded steamer Hoegh Silvercrest were rescued today by men from her sister ship, Silveryew, who dared towering seas in lifeboats.

The twelfth passenger and Chinese members of the crew were landed by breeches buoy on Montufar point where the Silvercrest ran hard ashore Friday night. None was reported injured.

Officers of the Silveryew radioed agents here that after oil had been poured upon the raging waters crewmen succeeded in launching a lifeboat and, without mishap, brought the passengers back to the Silveryew.

En Route to Manila.

The passenger landed by breeches buoy is en route to Manila by train. The others will arrive here on the Silveryew tomorrow. The Silvercrest was bound for Manila from San Francisco.

Crewmen of the Hoegh Silvercrest, apparently despairing of rescue by boat because of the high seas, finally succeeded in getting a line ashore and had landed one passenger when the sister ship's lifeboats came tossing across the waves.

The captain and officers of the Silvercrest remained aboard the ship, which was receiving a severe battering on the exposed point.

Tug Stands By.

Officials of the Roosevelt Steamship company, Manila agent for the Silvercrest, said the vessel's exact condition probably would not be known until the weather moderates. An effort may then be made to refloat her. One tug was standing by and another was en route to the scene from Manila.

No reason for the ship's grounding was given officially but it was believed severe storms threw her off her course as she neared the mouth of San Bernardino strait.

PRELATE WARNS AGAINST RISING STATE CONTROLS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Archbishop John T. McNicholas of Cincinnati said today there was no moral obligation to observe an unreasonable law. He preached at a service at Catholic university invoking divine guidance for the new congress and all civil officials.

"Many of our so-called laws violate the rule of reasonableness, according to the judgment of informed and right thinking men," he said. He added that it was tragic that adoration of the state was growing everywhere.

"Its culmination," he said, "is in the atheistic totallarian state."

ARMY COMMAND AND STAF SCHOOL WILL OPEN TODAY

The army's most advanced training course, a command and staf school, will begin today at the 122d Field Artillery armory, for seventeen selected officers of the Illinois, Michigan, and Wisconsin National Guard. Maj. Gen. Stanley H. Ford, commander of the Sixth Corps area, will welcome the student officers.

Nine of the men are from the 33d Division, Illinois National Guard, and were chosen by Maj. Gen. Roy D. Keehn, commander. They are: Lieut. Col. Arthur W. Howson, Chicago; Maj. Warren Aldrich, Rockford; Maj. Ray Milton, Western Springs; Maj. Fred Rice, Oak Park; Maj. Lester Johnson, Chicago; Maj. Harry Bolen, Cairo; Maj. Carl Meacham, Decatur; Capt. Colin Dixon, Oak Park, and Capt. George Marquardt, Evanston. The school will close on Jan. 21 and Gen. Keehn will present diplomas.

Cupid Stoops to Pot Shot; Bags Four in One Family

Gorham, N. H., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Things haven't been going fast enough for cupid—he's now knocking 'em off in family quartets. Ina, Erma, Leo, and Bernard Thompson announced their engagements at the same time—and are talking of a quadruple wedding.

LICENSED PILOTS IN U. S. INCREASE BY 5,000 IN YEAR

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8.—(AP)—The number of civilian airplane pilots holding federal certificates increased by more than 5,000 in 1938, the Civil Aeronautics authority reported today.

The authority said 22,983 pilots held active certificates on Jan. 1, compared with 17,681 a year earlier. The number of planes recorded with the authority increased from 10,836 to 11,159.

The 22,983 pilots included 675 women and were rated as follows: Airplane transport, 1,159; commercial, 6,834; limited commercial, 1,005; private, 10,676; solo, 3,005; amateur, 304.

DIES OF INJURIES IN FALL.

Mrs. Anna Riess, 58 years old, 1826 South Hamlin avenue, died yesterday in Michael Reese hospital of injuries incurred Dec. 20 when she fell in her home.

MOONEY HEADS PARADE; CROWD CHEERS SPEECH

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Tom Mooney, a free man, marched today at the head of massed thousands up Market street past the historic spots which figured in his life twenty-two years ago. He addressed cheering thousands at a reception in the civic center.

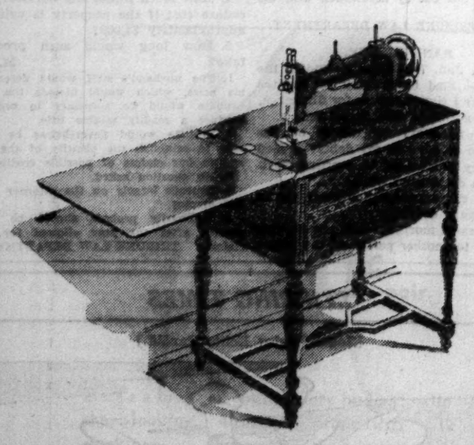

The siren on the old Ferry building sounded a welcome to Mooney. The same siren signaled on July 22, 1916, the start of the preparedness day parade. Mooney was convicted of setting the bomb which killed ten and injured forty persons in that parade. Yesterday California's newly elected governor, Culbert L. Olson, gave Mooney an unconditional pardon and absolved him of all guilt. He had served twenty-two years in prison after conviction of murder.

FOUND DEAD IN AUTO.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—Miss Laura Belle Rauschenberger, 37 years old, owner of a woman's apparel shop on the University of Michigan campus, was found dead of carbon monoxide poisoning in her car in her garage today. The death was pronounced accidental.

THE TRIBUNE announces with profound regret the loss of its managing editor, Robert Morton Lee, whose sudden and untimely death has removed from the newspaper profession one of its ablest and most forceful members.

MR. DIES WINS THE FIRST ROUND.

Mr. Dies of the committee investigating un-American activities some time ago requested the department of justice to take notice of evidence showing a violation of the federal act requiring agents of foreign governments operating in the United States to register with a statement making public their character and their purposes.

Mr. Cummings, then attorney general, did not act on this request and there was nothing to indicate that he intended to. At that time Mr. Roosevelt and his New Deal associates were ridiculing the Dies committee and evidently were persuaded that it could be eased into obscurity by disparagement of its work and discrediting of its evidence.

Although congress has been in session only a few days the administration has discovered that the question of alien and subversive activities in the United States cannot be laughed off or hushed down. Therefore Mr. Roosevelt's new attorney general, Mr. Murphy, has informed his chief that the department of justice is proceeding against organizations which may have violated the federal act by failing to reveal their foreign connections.

The administration is thus forced to change its attitude, but confidence in its purposes will be withheld until more is known. The maneuver at present looks like a scurry to cover and an effort to blanket the Dies committee by phony activities ostensibly in sympathy with the investigation. The administration has not yet dropped its opposition to the extension of the life of the committee and the granting of an appropriation large enough to enable it to continue its work more effectively.

There is no doubt at all that several organizations inspired and subsidized by other governments have violated the registration act. The communist party is affiliated with the Third International, which is the propaganda department of the soviet government, and in that affiliation it acts for Stalin in this country. Its party organ, the Daily Worker, which carries the acknowledgment of the affiliation in its masthead, receives free cable service from Moscow and also from Spain for the press agent releases of the Moscow government. Within the spirit and meaning of the registration act the communist party here is an agent of Stalin. A declaration of its relations with the soviet government would destroy the pretense that it is an American party working within the American democratic form of political action.

The German-American bund is an agent of Hitler. It publicly displays the swastika, organizes uniformed bands, salutes Hitler's picture, and is arrogantly engaged in promoting the nasty ideas of Naziism. The Italian Fascists have not been as conspicuously obnoxious as the Nazis or as politically intrenched and officially favored as the communists, but they have done as much pressure work as they could. Department of justice operatives ought to be able without much difficulty to discover the relationship of these organizations with the propaganda work of the European dictatorships.

The registration law is not an oppressive one. It merely requires that there be an identification of the instrumentalities which, of course, could not exist at all as alien agencies in the countries which they represent here. American doctrins of freedom remain a charity to cover enemy agitation, and the new federal law is so mild that it might well shock the intelligence of Stalin, Hitler, and Mussolini, none of whom permits even patriotic citizens of their own pest ridden lands to express a critical opinion.

Mr. Murphy's sudden display of interest in a question the administration has been trying to smother may be suspected of unrevealed purposes, but perforce it recognizes the value of the Dies committee work and it affords additional reason, if any further were needed, for continuation of the investigation until all the ramifications of subversive alien influence and activity have been uncovered in the United States. A great many New Dealers will not like that, but public opinion will support it.

WHY THE SILVER BOUNTY WAS CONTINUED.

In 1933, when new discretionary powers were being showered upon the President, Senator Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma had tacked on to the farm relief act an amendment authorizing the President to put the United States on a bimetallic money standard, making the price of silver in terms of gold anything which suited the President's fancy. A subsequent amendment extended to June 30, 1939, the expiration date of this particular prerogative of the President.

Under the authority granted to him the President has issued proclamations from time to time fixing the buying price for American produced silver by the treasury at rates having no relationship to what the silver was worth in the open market. Under this arrangement silver producers have been able to sell nearly a quarter of a million ounces of metal to the government at as much as 35 cents an ounce more than the silver was worth.

The argument Senator Thomas and the other silver senators used in getting their proposition across was that a higher price for silver would raise and stabilize commodity prices. Its failure to accomplish its purposes is recognized by every one who has given any attention to the question, a result which every monetary authority forecast in the beginning.

At the end of December silver was selling for 42 cents an ounce in the open market. The government was paying the silver producers 65 cents an ounce for it, in compliance with the President's proclamation of Dec. 31, 1937. At midnight the obligation of the government to buy silver above the market would have expired.

The treasury department, which never has believed in the silver maneuver and has refused to justify it, was urging the President not to renew the buying offer. A resolution was sent to him by the economists' committee on monetary policy, representing many men of international reputation. But a group of western senators served notice upon the President that if he did not continue the silver purchases he need not look to them to support bills extending the life of the 2 billion dollar, unaudited "currency stabilization fund."

The deal was made. The President proclaimed an order to the treasury to pay 65 cents an ounce for domestic silver for six months more, and apparently the western senators are bound to support a bill continuing the authority of the secretary of the treasury to hold 2 billion dollars to do with as he and the President wish, without being subjected to an audit. The transaction, by which votes for a bad measure were obtained in return for a subsidy to a special group, reflects discredit on all who were a party to it.

A PRESIDENT'S SELECTIONS.

The three conspicuous appointments offered by the President for the assent of the new senate make a pretty clear pattern, and it is a pattern which citizens concerned for the welfare of their country must regard with indignation and alarm.

The selection of Mr. Hopkins for secretary of commerce brazenly ignores any considerations of experience or fitness for the important office the President proposes to put into his keeping. There is no observable reason for the choice except to give a close personal friend a salary and to have his services for political purposes, unless it be further to harass commerce through the powers of the department of commerce.

The selection of ex-Gov. Murphy for the powerful office of attorney general is obviously an attempt to rebuke the citizens of Michigan who removed Murphy from office and to reward him for his scandalous failure to protect law and order and his unscrupulous coöperation with the tactics of violence in labor controversy under the partnership of the New Deal with the C. I. O. Mr. Murphy's qualification as head of the legal department of the federal government is suggested by the fact that he has never been admitted to practice in the Supreme court.

Against the selection of Mr. Frankfurter the charge of professional incompetence cannot be made, but among Americans who wish to preserve the American order and prevent its gradual and insidious transformation into a socialist state the Frankfurter appointment is a more serious and dangerous stroke of New Deal strategy than the selections of Hopkins and Murphy. It is urged that Mr. Frankfurter did not assist the President in his proposal to reduce the Supreme court to a mere agency of executive power and politics. But Mr. Frankfurter is not on public record against it. He took no open part in the fight on court packing as other men did to the danger of their careers. He kept his powerful place at the President's elbow and if he deserves any decoration for his discretion it is a white feather. As a producer of the Frankfurter hot dogs from Harvard's Red law school he has had some publicity. The fact that he is foreign born does not in itself imply that he lacks loyalty to the American order, for there are many of our foreign born citizens who show in peace and in war their stalwart Americanism. But Mr. Frankfurter's political activities reveal little respect for our history or our institutions and he has been one of the most insidious schemers for the success of the New Dealers' plans for "making over America" into a socialist state. In the Supreme court his powers will be greatly increased and perpetuated. The very abilities, legal learning, and acumen for which he is applauded equip him to give plausible formulas for encroachments upon American liberties and American principles of government. He will be able to cover and mitigate the crudities of that former member of the Ku Klux Klan who sits with him in the highest tribunal of the land and give to the other advocate of the New Deal revolutionary ambitions the aid of a stronger and more adroit mind.

The wrecking of the Supreme court is well under way.

Editorial of the Day

LANGUAGE, CULTURE, AND RACE.

[Des Moines Register.]

Out of all the high school pupils in the city of Chicago the boys and girls studying Greek are just eighty-six in number. If one wished to be really down hearted about democracy he might dwell on this point. Not only is this a poor time for popular government but also for the beautiful ancient language in which democracy was cradled.

Government by the people was born in Greece and the name is Greek. One would say offhand that a fine gesture of defiance against the dictators now running loose in the world would be for American students to go in for the study of Greek.

As a matter of fact, Greek in our school and college curriculums began to slip long before the advent of the dictators. At the beginning of the century the average college student had two Greek courses in his four years. Ten years later it was down to one course per man. Ten years later, in 1920, it was down to one course for every five college students.

High school students in Chicago studying German have fallen off about 30 per cent since Hitler swung into action. The shrinkage was no doubt greater during the world war, when anti-German feeling swept the whole nation.

And yet, a sense of outrage and disgust at the triumph of anti-civilization in Germany should not really turn people here away from the German language. If anything, people ought to learn German for the purpose of gaining access to the literature of a time when Germany was a cultural stronghold. What better challenge to Hitlerism can there be than to get to know Lessing, Schiller and Goethe?

How can one better escape from the totalitarian murk than with the aid of Bach, Beethoven, Brahms and Mendelssohn?

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U.S. Pat. Office

DON'T BELIEVE THIS STORY.

To supplement our report on the origin of the expression, "Behind the 8 ball," in a variation of the game of rotation pool called "High-low," etc. [1-4-'39]:

Another explanation, which we regard as nonrelevant and erroneous, is being circulated in printed form by a firm that manufactures equipment for pool and billiards. This relates the saying to Kelly pool, which is governed by the drawing of numbered pellets by the players. The story goes that some old timer was engaged in a game which contained more than eight players, and frequently drew numbers higher than eight, which made it almost impossible for him to win. At long last he broke out with:

"I'm behind that blankety blank 8 ball again!"

This is obviously a myth, and an inadequate attempt at an explanation. This player, holding a pellet numbered higher than eight, would have said, referring to his position in the series, "I'm ahead [or in front of] the 8 ball again."

In dealing with folklore, slang, etymology, and any other apparently eccentric subject, it is always necessary to follow a logical course. Fantastic explanations are usually incorrect.

EBB TIDE AT GALWAY.

When the tide is out at Galway,
And the boats are moored at shore,
Just as if they'd not be sailin'
From the Carrib any more;
High an' dry they wait, a-thinkin'
God forgot thim where they lie,
Or a-kneelin' an' a-prayin',
Masts a-reachin' toward the sky:

"Wan more chanct, wan more!" they're beggin',
"Though it bring us calm or gale,
Wan more chanct to ride the sea waves,
Wan more chanct to hoist the sail!"

We are like the ships o' Galway,
Niver dream that high an' dry
We'll be prayin' for another
Chanct to sail beneath the sky.
Whin the tide is in we're happy,
Nothin' much to fret about;
But, we're like the ships o' Galway—
Whin the tide is runnin' out!

A Duke Sues for Libel.

Messrs. Murphy, Cohn, Murphy, Cohn, and Cohn:

Attention: Mr. Cohn [the one on the end]:

I want you shood start a libel suit against a louse who [since he's outa jail] goes under the moniker of Snow-Shoe-Al. I want you shood sue for $10,000 so if we win the case we cood settle for 65 bucks, which is the limit they got on him at the finance co. Also chances are you will get beat in the lower courts so then I want you to take it to the Supreme Court [you know, the place they tried to turn into a packing house]. If they give us the go-bye then I guess I juss gotta kick hell out of the skunk at which time you will hafta defend me, but dont make it a manslaughter charge cause the judge wood throw the case outta court on a error cause the plaintiff [or is the word plainstiff?] aint a man. Maybe the correct charge shood be hog-slaughter.

Said plainstiff called me an anemic [whatever that is] when he knows darn well I'm a Methodist; also he called me a ghost an' I'm in a position to know that he dont know what a ghost is cause the ghost aint walked for him since he got fired in 1929.

Hoping you are the same, Duke Bakrak.

P. S. Please notarize the enclosed auto license blank; a Scotch tightwad had the nerve to ask me for 2 bits to sign it.

SONNET FOR PETER.

Draw close the shutters, love, against this night
Of tossing trees and wind-tormented snow;
There is no world beyond the candlelight
Of this loved room. Here's music and the slow
Wise cavalcade of books; here's laughter etched
On memory's bright steel, and tapestries
Of voices blurred and dim. The setter stretched
Before the fire hunts the field at ease.
Outside, the jealous world pounds at our door
With frenzied hands, with lures that bid us roam;
But here within our arms is all life's core;
Happiness fills this room where love's at home.
Nor harm nor hurt can touch us while endures
The swift havening of my heart to yours!

When Waxworks Were in Fashion.

Whatever became of Willie Tascott, the supposed murderer, in the early '80s, of the west side banker, Snell?

His getaway was the criminal sensation of that period, not surpassed in a later day by the getaway of Big Jim Colosimo's assassin.

The last memory I recall of Willie he was a small, boyish figure in wax in the old Eden Musée on Wabash avenue. He was prominently displayed among such historical figures as President Lincoln, Gen. Sheridan, Gen. Grant, and Napoleon Bonaparte. His countenance [in wax] gave no indication of a criminal tendency. If he is living today he is about 85 years old.

The Eden Musée, at the time of Willie's symbolic appearance there, also had the famous automaton chess player, ready and willing, for a quarter, to take on all players anxious to test its skill. This was a figure of a gigantic, turbaned Turk, sitting crosslegged. It never lost a game.

Mathew Gorman.

RICHARD GROWS UP.

We watch him proudly strutting down the street
Resplendent in his brand new knicker pants,
He pauses once to wave and scuff his feet,
While by my side the cat looks on askance.
This cannot be the creature whose bare knees
She's rubbed against these six long years, for now
They're covered and another child she sees
A man in miniature who's changed somehow.

Dear little brown eyed boy with front teeth missing
And golden freckles on that stubby nose,
How soon now you'll object to mother's kissing
Adopt a worldly and indifferent pose?
Oh son, what labors must I now espouse
Since I've no more a baby in the house?

JACK FROST CAN NIP.

OLD JACK FROST is a common enemy. Regardless of his skill as an artist in painting mountains, valleys, and church steeples on the window panes we must consider him an unwelcome guest. With the body well shielded against his subtle touch we have little to fear. Now and then, however, exposure is so prolonged or the cold so intense that chilling, even freezing, will ensue. The favorite sites are the feet, hands, ears, nose, and cheeks. The danger lies in the fact that blood vessels may be completely destroyed with resulting loss of tissue.

In almost every community an occasional nipped ear or blanched nose tip will be encountered at about zero degrees Fahrenheit. But with pedestrians or outdoor workers, even when well protected, a temperature somewhat above this level—particularly if there is a brisk wind—will bring frozen fingers and toes. It is always a mistake when facing inclement weather to lace shoes and boots tightly, to wear socks that are not large enough or gloves or mittens that are not sufficiently roomy. Again, much depends upon the physical reserve of the patient, as those who are older fail to resist an exposure which will not affect most persons.

Strangely enough, freezing rarely means suffering. This accounts for the fact that the victim may be utterly unaware that some spot on the anatomy has been "bitten." A tingling sensation is followed rather quickly by numbness and this very loss of feeling may prove tricky. It is only when the blood attempts to reënter congealed capillaries that pain is experienced. This appears as a part of the thawing process and is accompanied by swelling. The color of the injured part [white] indicates that the blood has been squeezed out of the vessels. In the course of recovery, if the cuticle looks deeply purple, we may know that a fairly extensive impairment has occurred. Because of the pronounced irritation, watery blisters may form from which fluid may drain.

Treatment consists in allowing the involved regions to warm up gradually—the slower the better. This is the reason that cold water is often effective. While hot drinks may be taken by mouth, warm water should never be applied to the skin. Keep the patient away from the fire and allow cool air only to come into contact with the damaged structures. Stefansson, the arctic explorer, recommends very gentle friction with the dry palm.

The essential thing, of course, is to avoid infection, and during the process of dressing the sites should be cleansed skilfully. We must not add to the hazard by rough handling. All blisters should be opened in a sterile manner and dry, clean gauze put on. Then comes the use of hot wet packs to aid the circulation. In spite of all that can be done, infection and gangrene may result. Whether a finger or toe can be saved will depend upon how much heat can accomplish at this stage. Infra-red lamps may be employed to keep the dressings warm.

But some one may ask about chilblains. After exposure to icy temperatures, even though there is no true frosting or blanching of the epidermis—on entering a warm room certain areas may be observed to swell slightly, become red, and give rise to intense itching. This is termed a chilblain. But cold is probably not the only cause. The majority of sufferers are young people, as after the age of 25 very few are afflicted. Too little calcium in the blood has been blamed and, in some instances, the presence of anemia is thought to be responsible.

While there is no specific remedy, we can take proper precautions against loss of heat by additional safeguards for the ankles, feet, and hands. A quart of milk imbibed in each twenty-four hours will supply calcium needs and taking a sizable daily dose of cod liver oil will be helpful. A simple bland ointment such as zinc oxide will aid in allaying the irritation. Exercise of the affected portion is important and now and then the application of some mild antiseptic will be of value. Scratching should be avoided as this usually means that bacteria will be inoculated into the skin.

NOT HAZARDOUS.

S. S. writes: Some years ago I was struck in the left eye with a whip, causing it to shift off center, with loss of sight of that optic. Is there any possibility of having the eye straightened without danger to the other one?

REPLY.

Straightening the eye by surgical means is without hazard to the good eye.

AVOID EXTREMES.

R. F. writes: Is it injurious to drink a glass of cold water from the tap immediately after taking hot liquids, such as tea, coffee, or soup?

REPLY.

Quite a shock to the stomach lining. Even the skin would react rather violently. Extremes of temperature should be avoided.

LEARN TO DUCK.

A. R. writes: What can be done for discoloration beneath the eyes?

REPLY.

Avoid contact with hard objects such as the clenched fist, doorknobs, etc. Dark circles are usually manifestations of fatigue. More rest and better elimination will relieve the condition.

PHARYNGITIS?

M. W. writes: What causes chronic pharyngitis?

REPLY.

Constant irritation of the pharynx from continued infection, drainage from the sinuses, chemicals or dusts, lowered resistance, smoking, etc.

COLD VACCINATION.

N. R. writes: Do you approve of injections against colds each winter?

REPLY.

About 50 per cent of those vaccinated are relieved. The one who is subject to frequent colds is likely to receive more benefit.

IF YOU LIKE THEM.

R. L. writes: Is it wise to use slumber socks during the winter if one is in good health?

REPLY.

If they keep your feet comfortable, slumber in your socks.

CONVULSIONS.

K. G. writes: What causes convulsions in infants?

REPLY.

The commonest cause is high temperature. They correspond to chills in an adult.

PEACE INSURANCE.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—If the United States is going in for national defense in a big way, why not adopt the only system which is really adequate—universal military training?

The cost would not be excessive as government expenditures go nowadays; in fact it would be reasonably priced peace insurance in a world hell-bent for war.

In war only trained men count. If we were to train something like a million of our young men every year, we would within a few years have such a trained reserve that no nation or alliance of nations would want war with us.

The number of unemployed young men would be reduced by the number in training. College students could put in two summers training, with an opportunity to qualify as reserve officers. The physical benefits of a year's military training are too well known to require elaboration.

The system should not be made a variation of the CCC. There would be too much criticism to the effect that the sons of the poor were being made into cannon fodder for the next war. Neither should any vocational training be mixed with it. The best military training is effected when the boy is a soldier twenty-four hours a day. S. J. BORCHERS.

OIL IS WHERE OIL IS.

Chicago, Jan. 5.—I am interested in the article by Mr. Martin Baldwin suggesting an investigation of the possibilities for oil north and west of Chicago.

To answer first Mr. Baldwin's question as to why the drilling is confined to the southern section of the state. The answer is that they have found oil there. When some wildcatter goes into unproven territory and strikes oil then the large companies go there as a matter of self-protection and acquire leases adjoining the successful wildcat well.

Oil is found in pools and cannot be found like water by just simply drilling anywhere. There are often surface indications that such a pool exists, but it requires the services of a trained geologist who has to make a survey in order to determine whether there is an oil structure there.

In riding through the country north and west of Chicago I have often thought that the country might have some oil. This is only to be regarded as a pure hunch, but since the rewards are so large I agree that monied men might profitably send some geologists of experience, who know all the latest methods, to make an investigation of this section.

I suggest that Mr. Baldwin visit the library and read a little on this interesting subject; he will find that his apparently logical question based on his present information will not always work out. JOHN B. OKIE.

DEMOCRACY IN INDIA.

Chicago, Jan. 5.—What great strides democracy is making to compete with Hitler and Mussolini. We are now informed that Great Britain has done wisely and well by granting amnesty to hundreds of men and women held in Indian jails, for some nine years or less, jailed as "dangerous agitators" for demanding a free India. Remember, this was not any concentration camp affair; jails are more respectable and honorable. JOHN L. METZEN.

A CURE FOR RAILROAD ILLS.

Pasadena, Cal., Jan. 5.—A modern definition of a "railroad" might aptly be the following: "An industry that owes more than it is worth, provides jobs at high pay, and keeps going only on borrowed money."

There is no mystery about the real causes of the present desperate condition of the railroads.

The responsibility in the main belongs to the interstate commerce commission and the public, because of the confiscatory rate of compensation forced upon the railroads for the superior service rendered by them to the public. An average freight rate of less than a cent to haul a ton of freight one mile is downright confiscation, and has literally starved the railroads into bankruptcy.

If the railroads were given an immediate increase in freight rates of 25 per cent, which was done in 1920 after the railroads were returned to their owners, after the government literally bankrupted them, it would provide the roads with an average compensation of 1¼ cents to haul a ton of freight one mile, and all other aids, including the borrowing of further money to keep afloat for a time, could be forgotten.

L. C. FRITCH,

VICTORY BY SURPRISE.

Marcellus, Mich., Jan. 7.—All this talk about Germany's air might is probably camouflage to cover up some new terrible surprise weapon. Prussia has always won wars by surprise weapons or tactics. Frederick the Great and 30,000 Prussians defeated 90,000 Austrians at Leuthen through a new wedge formation of attack.

When restricted to an army of 42,000 men by Napoleon, they invented the conscript system, training one 42,000 after another till Bluecher with 300,000 trained reserves finished Napoleon. The breech loading rifle invented by Dreyse worsted the Austrians in 1866.

The French bronze cannons in 1870 were quickly demolished by the far-shooting cast steel Krupp guns.

The mobile 42 cm. siege guns helped the Germans to smash through Belgium and invade France, and poison gas nearly finished the allies. OBSERVER.

JURY TRIAL.

Chicago, Jan. 7.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. How much does it cost to have a jury trial?

2. My lawyer tells me he would work on a percentage basis and that I would not have to pay him anything if he lost the case.

3. Is this true?

4. Would a person be compelled to pay a lawyer a certain amount if he lost the case? We intend to sign an agreement to this extent?

5. Is it right to do so?

6. How much would I have to pay a doctor to testify for me? F. R.

1. Depends on the court in which the proceedings are pending. A common jury demand fee is $8.

2. If you have employed an attorney he is in a better position to answer your questions than we are.

3. If he enters into a written agreement with you his rights will depend on the wording of the agreement. It is not clear what question you intend to ask.

4. Not if it has been agreed otherwise.

5. Yes.

6. Work this out by negotiation with the doctor.

2. Does filing bankruptcy clear me of this mortgage debt?

3. If present mortgage holder sells this mortgage to another person in the future can this person sue me for the amount of the mortgage which I went into bankruptcy for? A. D.

1. Yes. If you fail to obtain your discharge, your position will be in some ways worse than if you had never started the bankruptcy proceedings.

2. If the debt were properly scheduled your personal liability is barred, but the mortgage holder would retain his lien on the real estate.

3. A purchaser of the mortgage would get no greater rights.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

PROBATE PROCEEDINGS.

Chicago, Jan. 4.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. If the title to a house reads, John Smith and Mary Smith, his wife [not in joint tenancy], and the husband dies, does the property belong to the wife, or must she go through any proceedings to have a clear title in her name?

2. There is one child, of age, married, and living elsewhere, who would sign over any and all rights.

3. There is no mortgage or liens of any kind.

4. How much would any necessary procedure cost if the property is valued at approximately $4,000?

5. How long would such procedure take? M. H.

1. The husband's half would descend to his heirs, which would include the child. Probate would be necessary in order to produce a readily salable title.

2. Probate would nevertheless be necessary to establish the identity of the heirs and to bar claims of possible creditors.

3. No question asked.

4. Depends largely on the attorney whom you employ.

5. Ordinarily probate should be closed shortly after the year allowed for filing claims. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

ROBERT M. LEE FUNERAL TODAY IN LAKE FOREST

Tribune Managing Editor Dies Suddenly.

Funeral services for Robert Morton Lee, managing editor of THE TRIBUNE, will be held at 2:30 p. m. today in the family home, 830 Waukegan road, Lake Forest.

The rites will be simple. The Rev. John Evans will conduct them. Only relatives and office associates of Mr. Lee will attend. The family has requested that no flowers be sent. Burial will be in the Lake Forest cemetery.

Mr. Lee died without warning late Saturday night. The cause of death was a coronary occlusion, a severe heart attack that soon produced unconsciousness from which he did not recover. He had spent an evening of leisure at home and, following an old practice, he had retired to read in bed. Later, members of his family heard him call out in pain. His wife, Virginia, and his daughter, Mrs. Donald J. Eaton, were with him when he died. He was 55 years old.

His Own Hand in a News Story.

If the decision were to be made by Bob Lee, the story of his death would be extremely brief, factual, free from every trace of sentiment or personal tribute. For years he had declined requests for biographical facts made by "Who's Who in America" and similar publications, which have included sketches of many of his subordinates. When possible, he stepped quietly out of photographs of the news room in action.

About ten years ago while he was city editor he decided, as he sometimes did, to put his own hand to a news story. It was the obituary of Jimmy Durkin, a veteran office boy. In that story Mr. Lee wrote:

"No matter what the length of the obituary, it is not likely it will stretch far enough to convert into type the estimate of those who knew its subject."

Bob Lee was a master of his profession, even the most complex, the most difficult phases, those ordinarily requiring long technical training. His first flair was for writing. He loved the production of news stories, whether they were in the hard boiled recital of history-making facts or the delicate bit of humor or pathos that to him became the gem of the day.

A Master of the Written Word.

It was that liking for the right handling of the written word that was his outstanding characteristic through the successive stages of reporter, copy reader, and rewrite man. As a rewrite man he could let that art have full sway. Even in his earliest work Bob Lee began turning out stories—many of them brief three paragraph tales on the first page—that were recognized at once as his work, not only in his own office but in other newspaper offices.

Nothing was more natural than that his skill should bring him a call to become an editorial writer. His works on the editorial page also were widely recognized. But the next step already was beginning to appear. Daily editorial conferences brought from Bob Lee comments on the big stories in the morning paper that proved him an exceptional judge of news and news values.

His Scope Widens.

Thus he became city editor, directing the covering of all the news of the great city, supervising its handling, and finally whipping it into form for publication. He was made assistant managing editor and his duties spread far beyond the limitations of the local news field. Supervision of domestic news, of foreign news, of the fields of business, and of sports came under his hands.

By the time he became managing editor and had full power in these and other fields covered by a great newspaper, he already had begun to familiarize himself with problems allied with his own. He studied type and type handling machinery. Color printing appealed to him.

Keeps Close Touch with News.

Many hours were given to building up the supplements of the Sunday paper and to the many enterprises sponsored for the Tribune charities. He knew radio broadcasting thoroughly. He understood newspaper circulation because he knew what people want to read and what makes them buy newspapers.

Such activities as these were seemingly incessant, but in spite of them Bob Lee kept in close touch always with the day's news.

Such was his love of the news that long after he rose to executive position, he would seize the opportunity to write. He went to Louisiana to cover the Ku Klux Klan slayings at Mer Rouge. He went into the courtroom to get and write the story of the Loeb-Leopold trial. For each national political convention THE TRIBUNE sets up its own bureau of staf men. Even while he was in charge of such bureaus Bob Lee would find time to write his own stories of what was going on.

Always that desire to write news was with him. While he was directing the whole flood of copy for the next day's paper he frequently would take full possession of a story that appealed to him, go to a typewriter and do it the way he wanted it. As soon as they glimpsed the edition carrying the story, the whole staf knew who wrote it.

One other characteristic, one that never has been recorded in the movies, was that Bob Lee, either as city editor or managing editor, never raised his voice in any strain of excitement, whether of jubilation or of anger. The biggest story found him calm. The appearance of the slightest frown in place of the customary smile did more than the raging profanity of any slave driving editor of the movies.

Bob Lee did not give minute instructions to his reporters or to his assistants. He told the reporter to go out and get the story. If the reporter failed once too often, there would be a new reporter in the shop before long. But the man who departed did not complain of his treatment at the hands of Bob Lee. Any member of the staf could go to him with a real grievance. Those real ones would be taken care of quietly.

Outstanding as Organizer.

The men who knew him best said he was a great writer. But in addition to being a writer he was a great editor. And he was outstanding as an organizer of all branches of newspaper work that came under his direction. They said many men have been good writers. Many have been excellent editors. Others have been successful organizers. Bob Lee, they said, was all of these. He was versatile.

Bob Lee was born on a farm near Estherville, Ia., on Aug. 16, 1883. His school education was limited to the public schools of Estherville and Washington, D. C. His schooling was but a small fraction of his education. He never ceased studying—English literature, history, philosophy, foreign languages. He had a deep appreciation and understanding of music. University graduates found themselves far behind him in conversation.

A Printer's Devil in Iowa.

Estherville was the scene of his first venture into the field where he was to spend the rest of his life. He became a printer's devil there. When he went to Davenport, Ia., he became a reporter. Then, in turn, he went to Des Moines, to Milwaukee, and finally to Chicago.

He joined the staf of THE TRIBUNE as a copy reader in 1906. Becoming interested with two associates in outdoor life, he deserted office work for a year to spend several months roughing it in the Canadian wilds.

When he returned to civilization he found a place as a rewrite man on the Chicago Inter-Ocean. After a year of this work he went into the service of the Associated Press in Chicago and was transferred to the Denver bureau in 1909.

Joins Tribune Second Time.

He returned to Chicago and became Sunday editor of the Chicago Examiner. In 1915, as a rewrite man, he joined THE TRIBUNE for the second time, an enlistment that continued until his death.

After approximately three years of rewriting he was called on to serve full time as an editorial writer. While he was in that work he displayed such keen news judgment that he was sent back to take charge, as city editor, of the department where he had served as a copy reader and rewrite man. That was on April 1, 1920.

Mr. Lee's promotion to the post of assistant managing editor occurred on Dec. 1, 1925. For eleven years he was second in command of the news department. On Jan. 1, 1937, he was appointed managing editor to succeed E. S. Beck, who had been made assistant editor in chief.

Funeral Attendance Limited.

Heads of the various departments of THE TRIBUNE said yesterday that if publication could be suspended for a day they and all their employés would attend the funeral. But because the simple services are to be held in the family home, the participation has been limited to the employés of the editorial department who are able to leave their duties.

The pallbearers will be J. Loy Maloney, W. D. Maxwell, Roy R. Atkinson, Elbert Antrim, Chesser Campbell, and Parke Brown, all of THE TRIBUNE.

Husband's Timely Arrival Saves Wife from Death

The timely arrival home of Joseph Cevulh saved the life of his wife, Katherine, 27 years old, last night. The Cevulhs live at 1632 Le Moyne street. He found her unconscious in the bathroom. The burning up of oxygen in the room by a heater had caused her collapse. Cevulh called Rescue Squad 6, commanded by John Widman. This squad and Dr. Preston Wolfe revived Mrs. Cevulh.

Few Toscanini Concert Seats Remain Unsold

BY JUDITH CASS.

WHEN the committee in charge of the Toscanini concert on Jan. 31 meets Thursday afternoon for tea at the home of Mrs. James Ward Thorne, the reports probably will add up to the sum total of there being no more seats for sale. On Saturday there were only 100 main floor seats and one-third of the boxes left and the balconies were almost sold out. So intense is the interest of music lovers in the first middle west appearance of the great conductor that orders for tickets have come from places in all the surrounding states.

It is the woman's board of the Passavant hospital, headed by Mrs. Walter R. Kirk, that is bringing Toscanini and his NBC orchestra to Chicago. Mrs. Kirk has worked for three years on the project, and aside from her satisfaction at having accomplished something into which she has put so much time and effort, she, as president of the board, undoubtedly will be happy to be able to turn over to the hospital a goodly sum when the net proceeds are counted. The expense of bringing Toscanini and his orchestra of 100 to Chicago is enormous, of course, but the main floor and box occupants are paying well for the privilege of hearing the concert so the hospital should receive a large sum. Those who sit in the balconies and galleries are paying from $1 to $5.

Gen. and Mrs. Wood and Daughter to Sail.

Gen. and Mrs. Robert E. Wood and their daughter, Mrs. Edwin E. Tullis, a pianist of no mean ability, are not going to be here for the concert, for they sail on Feb. 1 for a West Indies cruise. To assuage their disappointment it has been arranged for them to hear Toscanini and his orchestra broadcast in New York on Jan. 28.

Some of those who have planned dinner parties to precede the benefit are Mrs. Richard T. Crane Jr. and her sister, Mrs. Alice H. Patterson; the Farwell Winstons, the Walter R. Kirks, Mrs. Leslie Wheeler, the George B. Drydens, the Edward L. Ryersons, the Charles H. Swifts, Mrs. Emmons Blaine, Mr. and Mrs. James Norris, the Robert B. Bakers, and the John F. Jelkes. Most of these have boxes and among other boxholders are the James Simpsons, the Henry Ishams, Mrs. Kersey C. Reed, Mrs. D. Mark Cummings, the Theodore Robinsons, the Huntington B. Henrys, the Charles B. Goodspeeds, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cummings, the Robert Cabells, the Nathan Goldblatts, the Joseph M. Cudahys, the Bryan S. Reids, the John Paul Wellings, and the Laurance Armours.

Public School Art Society Offers Reproductions Today.

To have a colored reproduction of an old—or modern—master in your home is an up-to-date way to enjoy good art at a reasonable cost, believes the Public School Art society, which is sponsoring an exhibit and sale of reproductions of fine paintings today in the old Potter Palmer house. Some of these paintings have been framed by Mrs. Ernest A. Hamill II., acting president of the society, and Miss Margaret Fisher. They have framed in pink Velasquez's Infanta, Marie Laurencin's heads, and Dufy's Regatta.

The framed prints will hang along one wall; unframed prints will be displayed on another side of the red velvet hung ballroom of the house, which is being especially opened for the exhibit. Fifty colored chalk drawings by talented public school students will fill another corner.

The public is invited to the exhibit, which will open at 9 o'clock and continue until 7. Tickets will be on sale at the door. Fifty cents is the price of admission. Another 50 cents will be charged for tea during the afternoon. Teatime visitors undoubtedly will be charmed by a "surprise" tea table Mrs. John C. Murphy is doing. She is using old brocade curtains as a cloth and, having thought of plumes for further decorative motifs, the versatile "Peggy" Murphy has spent several hours in pet shops—getting ideas from the plumage on birds.

Pouring tea from the result of Mrs. Murphy's labors will be members of the board of the society, including Mrs. Potter Palmer, Miss Florence Dibell Bartlett, Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, Mrs. John Wentworth, Mrs.

The Honest Type.

A hurried clerk brought some merchandise to be wrapped to the cashier in a store and at the same time gave her a piece of jewelry—a pin—to be put in the store safe. The clerk erroneously inclosed the pin in the package and gave it to the woman who had purchased the articles to be wrapped. In the ensuing excitement the cashier said comfortingly:

"I know the woman is honest and will return the pin. Why, she bought bloomers with elastic for herself."

Letter from Michigan Reader.

"Our holiday evenings were enlivened by reading your Notebook for 1938 aloud in front of the fireplace—Marge of Sunrise Mountain Farm and all the quips. . . . You would, I think, like the fireplace—an old brick one with a shelf at either side and a crane and old black kettle, and an enormous very old copper pail filled with pine roots. . . . Across the chimney many white and jack pine boughs with their cones, and emerging, gleaming white, a plain white cross. The reds and blues of the rugs are partially covered by three English setters. The master is in his easy chair with his pipe, laughing uproariously over Green Fingers, undoubtedly planning to use some of it in his spring lectures in Detroit. [He is an ornithologist and landscape architect.] . . .

"Our colored houseman wondered why there were tears in my eyes when he greeted me with, 'Miss Kay, I'se awful sorry, but I broke that small green vase in there on the organ.'

"Small green vase. . . . Memories. 1911 and all the Sigma Chis and their wives invited to George Ade's farm in Brook, Ind., for the day. . . . "Kay, may I present John McCutcheon?' . . . Looking into that kindly, interesting face and learning a lesson. . . . That the great are always simple. . . .

Grace Moore Makes Mimi a Sturdy Figure

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Fresh from France, where she has been working in a filming of the opera "Louise," Grace Moore came to the Civic Opera house last night to play the rôle of Mimi in a Chicago City Opera company mounting of Puccini's "La Bohême." This was the first of the three post-season performances which are to carry some of the enchantment of the fall opera days through half of January.

Miss Moore sang in a spirited manner, with ample vocal power and with a great surge of feeling. She conceives the sickly little artisan of the story as a less wistful, less childlike character than most sopranos who have undertaken the rôle. Grace Moore's Mimi is mentally and vocally sturdy.

The soprano achieved some meltingly beautiful tonal effects in her first act "Mi Chiamano Mimi" and the third act "Addio." Her shorter exchanges with Rudolfo were enriched by countless nuances of tempo.

Armand Tokatyan, as the garret poet, sounded tired voiced through much of the evening. The ensemble singing in the first act quite failed to be ensemble singing, although the four Bohemians [Mr. Tokatyan, George Czaplicki, Nino Ruisi, and Reinholt Schmidt] gave generously as individual artists. Annunciata Garrotto, the Musetta of the evening, lacks the easy, impertinent vocal sparkle which her part demands. Vittorio Trevisan performed the comic rôles with the excellent Trevisan touches. Robert Moranzoni conducted vigorously.

At the Studebaker in the afternoon Myra Hess had a large audience willing to stay overtime and to call for encore after encore. She is the mild mannered English pianist whose playing, although ultrarefined and characterized by almost continuous understatement, has a heady quality which keeps confirmed Hessites coming year after year to her recital.

For there is great excitement in these subtle color differentiations, these delicate gradations of tempo, these gossamer webs of sound that the breath of a baby would blow away. Miss Hess uses all of these devices scrupulously—uses them to put her honest and finely feminine conception of the music before her listeners. Even the stormiest among these listeners are compelled to admit that this conception is not only imaginative but also plausible. Probably Scarlatti should sound like this, probably Beethoven's "Pathetique" sonata did sound like this on the shallow action instruments of the early nieteenth century. And in the Nocturne this pianist realized a legitimate ideal of Chopin fanciers, for the music came to sound as if it were materializing in the air instead of being struck from strings by mechanically actuated hammers.

If this gives the impression that Miss Hess whispered at us all afternoon, be it known that in the Chopin C-sharp minor Scherzo and the first movement of the Beethoven sonata she came within hailing distance of effects which might almost be called powerful.

The lusty young Civic Orchestra of Chicago gave in Orchestra hall yesterday afternoon the first concert of its season. Hans Lange on the conductor's stand kept the performance of the "Rienzi" overture reasonably smooth and exact without spoiling the effect of youthful verve which characterized every bar of the music.

Frank Bishop, soloist of the day, offered the Rachmaninoff C minor Concerto. He is an able pianist, capable of making a lyrical phrase talk right out at you by the eloquence of its inflection. He has a lot of technique. The performance, however, lacked at its big moments the tremendous communicative urge which permits a thoroughly inflamed soloist to take triumphant charge of the proceedings and to lay his listeners in the ailes by utilizing the full power of Mr. Rachmaninoff's ideas.

Gigli Recital Wins Volleys of Applause

BY CECIL SMITH.

Volleys of applause broke like bombshells in the Civic opera house yesterday afternoon, and hoarse cries rent the air asunder. Beniamino Gigli, noted Italian tenor, was thus acclaimed as he made his single recital appearance of the season before one of his characteristic audiences, whose admiration amounts virtually to idolatry.

Since returning to this country after an absence of several years, Mr. Gigli has already sung with the opera company three times. But a Gigli recital—especially the first one in a long time—is a special case in point. For in a recital all the favorite songs and arias come thick and fast, right on top of one another. There is no waiting through two acts of an opera for the singer's big moment.

Mr. Gigli understands that his recitals must consist solely of the kind of music that has always endeared him to his vast audience. So yesterday, as always, he let himself go wholeheartedly, sparing no sentiment and no overemphasis, and managing from the first to hold his hearers in the hollow of his hand.

Candidly, however, it was not nearly so good singing as we heard during the opera season. He was not in particularly good voice, and once came close to the abyss on the final high B-flat of the popular "Martha" air. And consistently he abandoned much of the restraint he employs in operatic rôles, frequently deserting that plane of aristocratic artistry on which he knows so well how to remain. No doubt I am both a prude and a mossback, but I found the recital a considerable disappointment.

The gratifying surprise of my afternoon came at the Auditorium theater, where Fabien Sevitzky conducted his Indianapolis Symphony orchestra for the first time here, under the sponsorship of Northwestern university. In a season and a half under Mr. Sevitzky's direction the orchestra has achieved admirable pliability, splendid balance, and a well fused, sonorous tone. In Berlioz' "Roman Carnival" overture, Dubensky's "Fugue for Eighteen Violins" and excerpts from Wagner's "Die Meistersinger," Mr. Sevitzky displayed musicianship of the first order. It is trying to watch him on account of his exaggerated mannerisms, but that is his affair as long as he gets such good results.

As guest conductor of the Illinois Symphony orchestra, Daniel Saidenberg gave capable presentations of three novelties—a "Hunting Symphony" by Leopold Mozart, father of the famous, Wolfgang; Igor Markevitch's ballet suite, "Rebus," and Jerome Moross' "A Tall Story." Mae Doelling Schmidt, Chicago pianist, played the seldom heard A major concerto of Bach with fluent clarity.

Molshe Oysher and Florence Weiss, featured players in Yiddish motion pictures, appeared in joint recital at the Auditorium theater last night. Harry Sukman assisted at the piano. The program consisted mainly of Yiddish songs, though Mr. Oysher turned his attention briefly to arias by Rossini and Verdi. A capacity audience attended.

The Housewife

Time was when the "born" cook used any old china cup for measuring. She had knack, or intuition, or something that told her just how much flour and butter and milk and eggs were needed to make a delectable cake, pudding or pastry. But unless you are a miracle worker you'll need an accurate device for measuring if you are to follow a recipe.

So invest in a set of aluminum cups. Instead of having to stop and peer inside to see if the flour is level with the one-half cup mark you use a cup that measures that amount. Another cup is equal to one-fourth, another equal to one-third, and a large one equals one standard measuring cup. All four are inexpensive and are handy little things to have about.

Vivian Leigh—Odds 1,000 to 1 that she'll play Scarlett O'Hara. [Acme photo.]

If David Selznick names British Actress Vivian Leigh for Scarlett O'Hara, and the odds are 1,000 to 1 that he will, he will answer arguments against the selection of an English girl in this wise: [1] That southerners pride themselves on their English ancestry; [2] that if Helen Hayes can play Victoria Regina, if Raymond Massey can play Abraham Lincoln—then an English actress can play a southern belle. I think he's got something there. He will release the picture in eighteen reels, which automatically solves the double feature problem. The picture will not hit the first run houses for at least a year, because it will be roadshowed at top tarifs in the two-a-day houses for the first twelve months. . . . Nancy Kelly and Eddie Norris an item. . . . Ditto Pat Wilder and J. Bentley Ryan. . . . Time Marches On Dep't.; Kenneth Harlan, silent films star, plays a juror in "On Trial." . . . Helen [RKO] Wood will be happier when Jack Tavelman gets back to town from Sun Valley.

Kay Sutton has switched to Vic Orsatti. . . . Unions will try to land Tom Mooney a Hollywood job. . . . In "Juarez" Bette Davis goes insane. This is a radical switch; generally the audiences go nuts. . . . The Joan Crawford-Charlie Martin romance has grown to four-alarm blaze proportions. . . . Brenda Frazier, Park avenue deb whose $50,000 coming out party hit page 1 all over the world, won't get a movie job—unless she agrees to turn over her salary to the motion picture relief fund, or some other charity. The major companies figure that any other arrangement would have a disastrous kick-back. . . . Jeffrey Lynn and Doris Carson will announce their engagement this week. . . . Vicki Lester will become Mrs. Dick Purcell any minute. . . . Richard Arlen and Virginia Gray aren't fooling. . . . Rhea Gable back from Texas. . . . Was that divorce fuss a well timed publicity blast for "Idiot's Delight"?

Good Morning!

At last I know!

After long sessions of listening to male and female voices inquiring in song over the radio of a mysterious "Jeepers Creepers" as to where did he get his—or her—peepers, I have discovered that Jeepers Creepers is a horse! It's always such a relief to get such things as that straightened out.

"Going Places" is a musical comedy potpourri that utilizes situations which have proved popular in other pictures. Its hero, a man who has never before ridden a horse and who finds himself hailed as a famous rider who is forced to enter a steeplechase atop a fire breathing steed named—Jeepers Creepers—will make you think of a Joe E. Brown movie. . . . Then, dipping into the story material of a film starring the late Will Rogers, in which a music loving horse wins a race to the tune of ta-ra-ra-ra-boom-de-aye, we discover Jeepers Creepers as a pony which can't withstand the strains of "Jeepers, Creepers, Where'd You Get Those Peepers?" and is lured to victory by a colored band's rendition of same. . . . And then there's the Sonja Henie movie in which the lady models clothes at a university while posing there as a student. . . .

If you haven't seen the aforementioned films "Going Places" will be fun for you. I found it a little stale.

Young Mr. Powell is first seen as a salesman in a sporting goods store which isn't doing much business. He conceives the bright idea of going to a much talked of meet as a famous steeplechaser—whose name the firm has bought for exploitation purposes—and while mixing with the horsy elite, display the firm's varied sporting clothes and accessories. . . . You can write your own from here and what I've hinted above.

The film is well acted and directed and has some catchy music. The story, of course, is too silly for words.

See you tomorrow.

A Stranger in the Dark

By Frank R. Adams

(Copyright: 1939: By Frank R. Adams.)

INSTALMENT I.
FATE WEARS A SCARLET CAP.

It was nine fifty-nine, A. M. railroad time. I remember noticing the clock dial high up on the Dearborn Street station as I drew near. Until then I had been pretending not to hurry.

But at the entrance everybody was in that last minute rush characteristic of approaching train time and I thought it safe to increase the pace to nearly a run.

Quite a crowd of prospective passengers, friends, and red cap porters swirled around the doorways. I mingled with the throng and, without seeming to push, zig-zagged my way to a position well up front.

Out of the corner of my eye I could see the man who had been following me. He was heavier than I and certainly not so agile. For that reason he was not able to imitate my own tactics which were similar to those of a football player with the ball running through a field of opposing tacklers.

He was a plain-clothes man or a detective. There is a difference but most people don't know how to distinguish one from the other. One looks more like a policeman out of uniform than the other, but for all practical purposes they are pretty much alike.

I had been dodging policemen for three years and I could recognize one no matter how he was dressed.

The fact that he was delayed by the jam at the entrance gave me about thirty seconds head start after I got inside the station.

As soon as I was clear of the main door I slowed down to a walk and, sauntering to one of the benches in the waiting room, took a seat with my back to the door. My plan was to wait there just long enough for my pursuer to pass on his way to the train gates, which he would normally presume I was headed for, and then double back on my tracks and leave by the same door I had come in.

It was a stratagem which almost certainly would have worked if it had not been for the arrival of another man, a little younger than myself, who staggered to the seat beside me and bent over in an attitude of cramped agony. Beads of perspiration stood out on his forehead. It was a moderately warm day in late September, but not that warm.

A red cap, laden with baggage, was passing and the sick man hailed him.

Before any one could reach him he fell face forward on the floor.

"Hey, boy! Get my grip, will you?" He held out a parcel room claim check toward the colored man.

"Can't stop now, boss," declared the porter, shaking his head. "You wait here jus' a minute. I'll be right back." He went on.

The same thing happened twice more. Finally the invalid turned in desperation to me.

"I've got—I've got to get some medicine out of my—out of my grip," he gasped. "Could you——?" He was stopped by a paroxysm of pain. "Have you got time to get it for me?"

I looked at my wrist. There wasn't any watch there. It was merely a habit from other days. But I didn't want to get tangled up in anybody else's troubles. I had a full set of my own and would have a lot more if I waited around that station till the law caught up with me.

"I'm sorry," I started to say.

A groan stopped me. "You've got to, man, I'm afraid—I'm afraid I'm dying."

"All right." I gave in.

With a sigh of relief the invalid placed the claim check in my hand and then, as I started away, he halted me. "There'll be some charges. Pay the attendant for me."

"Sorry."

"Broke?"

"Yes."

The sick man fumbled in his inside breast pocket and produced a large flat leather billfold. "Money in there somewhere. Hurry! My train leaving in a few minutes."

Even before I left he closed his eyes. I wondered if he would be alive when I got back.

The necessity for speed made me careless. I guess I'd half forgotten my own jam anyway. I'd only gone a dozen steps when an iron grip on my elbow stopped me. I hadn't even seen my friend the plain-clothes man.

"Wait a minute, young fella." There was a nicely shaded note of triumph in the big man's voice.

"What for?"

He flashed his badge. "I followed you over from headquarters. I thought I recognized you at the lineup this morning, but I couldn't place you in time to prefer charges before they let you go. But I've got it now. You was that teller in the Citizen's Commercial Trust and Savings bank who took it on the lam three years ago. My name is Clancy—Mike Clancy. Remember me now, don't you? I was a special policeman in the bank at the time and I saw you near every day. The insurance company's got 25 grand posted for you and it looks like I'm goin' to get it."

"Sorry, Lieut. Clancy. You must be mistaken. And I'm in a hurry."

"No dice, fella. And never mind that 'lieutenant' business. It's old stuff and doesn't work any more. Besides I got a camera eye and I'm plumb positive about you."

I looked around swiftly to see what my chances would be if I should make a break for it. Not good, I decided. There was a uniformed policeman on duty at the track gates and another was sauntering across the waiting room toward the men's room. If I made the least disturbance I would have three officers to contend with—perhaps more, because there is usually a detail of plain-clothes men at important railway stations.

Better to wait until I and my captor were out in the street. There might be a slim chance in the open.

The officer was urging my reluctant steps toward the main exit when suddenly there was a diversion. It came from the sick man on the bench.

He stood up suddenly, clutching at his heart and uttering a sharp, whimpering cry. Before any one could reach him he crumpled up and fell face forward on the floor.

Naturally all passers-by and others in the vicinity turned to look, even passengers with only a minute or so to spare. Human curiosity cannot resist melodrama when it is staged without an admission fee.

The officer, impelled partly by a sense of duty and partly by that same curiosity, hurried toward the man on the floor, dragging me with him. An elderly gentleman with a beard, who might have been a doctor, was kneeling beside the stricken sufferer, feeling at his heart.

"I think he's dead," he decided finally. "No—no, wait a minute. He's still breathing a little."

The crowd pushed forward and in the sudden jostling the officer lost his grip on my arm. Naturally I didn't waste any time. Torn between two emergencies the plain-clothes man choose the most urgent.

"Stand back, there!" I heard him say. "Give this man more air."

I was half-way across the waiting room when I met the uniformed cop coming up on the run. He did not pay the slightest attention to me which I thought was very thoughtful of him.

Just why I went to the check-room I am not entirely sure. Perhaps I was still acting under my original impulse to get the sick man's grip and find the medicine which would revive him.

The clerk brought out the baggage represented by the claim check which turned out to be a very large, handsome lether case.

As I entered the main waiting room again a red cap seized the grip and said, "You just got time to make it, boss," and started to lead the way toward the track gate.

I hesitated a moment and looked in the direction of the crowd which had gathered around the stricken man. A couple of attendants from an ambulance were gently lifting the sufferer to a stretcher. Obviously he was in competent hands.

The porter stood at my elbow insistently. "You better hurry, boss."

I shrugged my shoulders. "Fate wears a scarlet cap," I murmured and followed the colored boy with the baggage.

At the gate the Pullman conductor asked to see my ticket. I must have gazed at him blankly. He laughed.

"You've probably got it in there." The conductor indicated the billfold which I was still carrying in my hand.

Leonora Schinasi Becomes Bride of Wayne Morris

Beverly Hills, Cal., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Wayne Morris, 24 years old, screen actor, and Leonora Schinasi, 18, New York tobacco fortune heiress, were married in a café here last midnight. Mrs. Leon Schinasi attended the bride, her daughter. Municipal Judge Joseph Marchetti performed the ceremony. The newlyweds plan to sail for New York week after next on a honeymoon trip.

Her Second Choice

INSTALMENT XXXVII.
A SECOND HONEYMOON.

"Is it true that you love me?" Bob whispered, as he gathered Nora close to him.

"It's the only thing that is true," she said. "I had to let you know. There was just a chance that you might care a little for me. Perhaps it was a gambler's chance, but I had to take it even though you did say that about being glad you hadn't trusted me."

He held her off a little and looked intently into her face.

"So that was it! Listen, you silly little thing. If I hadn't mistrusted you where would I be now? In the soup, that's where. Between you and the other two and Mrs. Cooper and the missing key I couldn't tell where I stood. So I wrapped up the thing, addressed it to myself, and sent Beals off to post it. And a jolly good thing I did!"

"I suppose . . . even now you don't trust me."

"Not out of my sight!" said Bob.

She tried to feel hurt, but somehow she couldn't, not with his arms around her and his lips telling her how dear she was to him.

Presently, still holding close, he made her look through the telescope at the rosy pink star.

. . . .

And so there remains not much more to tell that can't be guessed. The young Mathersons went off on a second honeymoon, this time to Nice, and while they were away Mrs. Callender collected a bit of scandal for their return.

It seemed that Mrs. Almy and Jim Murdock had eloped and Mrs. Almy had filed her divorce petition. Jim's mother was silent on the subject, but apparently she had had word that he was in a very good post somewhere abroad.

Aunt Dorothy would have liked to know more about that "very good post," being entirely skeptical, but it was two years later before her curiosity was gratified.

Nora's baby, a little girl, was then nearly a year old, and it was Mrs. Callender's habit to pay a daily call to Fairways, unless the baby came to call on her.

But on this occasion she pounded up the lane with no thought of the nursery in mind, and at an hour when she was hardly expected. In fact, Bob and Nora were in the middle of lunch when she arrived.

"What do you think I heard?" she panted, as she burst in on them.

Of course they couldn't guess, but from Aunt Dorothy's glowing face it must be good news.

"I was out in the garden just now, getting some flowers for the house, and Mrs. Green happened to come by. It's her chance for getting out, you know, on account of the postoffice being closed from 12 till 2."

Yes, Bob and Nora knew that. It was an inconvenient arrangement, sometimes, for the people who lived in Green Mallows.

Aunt Dorothy got on with her story, although by degrees.

It seemed that Mrs. Green's son had gone over to Boulogne for a day trip yesterday.

"And who do you think was about the first person he saw when he got off the boat?" Aunt Dorothy wanted to know.

Well, they couldn't answer that question, either.

"Jim Murdock—that's who it was," she told them triumphantly. "In a peaked cap and that car of his that he's turned into a taxi. That's his very good post, that is.

"Wilbur Green didn't speak to him, but he nosed around and found another driver that spoke English—a French one—and it seems Jim Murdock and Mrs. Almy are married, or call themselves married, and live at a place named Le Portel, which is just out of Boulogne. I know it must be Mrs. Almy, because this man told Wilbur Green she had red hair and a little black dog she was very fond of."

Bob and Nora exchanged glances and Nora sighed.

"Well, it might be worse for them," she said.

Aunt Dorothy snorted indignantly.

"It's better than they deserve—in my opinion," she said. "People like that . . .!"

The Tiger said nothing, but in his heart of hearts he was inclined to agree with Aunt Dorothy.

Nobody had punished those two; they had done it entirely themselves. And as far as he knew they might be quite happy.

A New Hat Is Ideal Pickup for Midseason

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Hats continue to be the most soul satisfying pickup for low spirits, the best boost you can give a jaded winter wardrobe and a stimulant for the world at large. Mid-season showings are especially successful. Pert little sailors are made entirely of veiling [sounds pretty fragile, but the hats are anything but that]. Dashing new bicornes have a sky-scraping feather. Lovely new pastels have appeared for southern wear. And the new hats with draperies are going out fast.

The coarse or fish net, veiling has been a favorite material of one outstanding designer for a long time. She moulds, drapes, twists, and shirs it as others use crêpe. Small hats are disappearing. Even the long mists of veiling are slightly less popular, but the soft jerseys and the coarse net still are headliners.

Plaids and small checks in jersey and coarse net make snappy creations for daytime wear. Small, high hats with a strong masculine fedora flavor are femininized in silhouette and material, swathed artfully with chiffon —thin jersey or net and, presto, the smartest of new hats for suit or street wear.

High colored suede hats and matching bags feature capacity and outside bigness in the bags. The hats are made with swooping brims and exceedingly high pointed crowns. Off the face hats with a face framing brim are especially wearable. One made of multi-colored felt fastened in gently curving lines reminds you of nothing else as much as a stained glass window.

Tie silks are used for other mid-season hats, brimmed or small; this and wide, luxurious French ribbon make matching hats and scarfs.

Small high crowns and a certain dash and snap make the sailors and street hats outstanding, no matter what the material. For wit and charm see the poke bonnet effect or the beaked crown number with a tiny hole through which you pull a contrary curl.

Make Persistence Top Item in Your New Year Beauty Resolutions

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Taking stock is the first item in a beauty program for a new year. Check on last year's improvements over the year before, say, as to hair, skin and silhouette condition. Check on reasons why these features are better [or worse] today than last year. In other words, just check yourself up for a woman bent on getting somewhere in the beauty picture, or as one indifferent to her current and future self.

It's the few minutes daily, not the occasional energetic fits and starts, that will influence the net result at the end of 1939.

If it is the silhouette that is out of line right now, resolve it will not be six months hence, a year hence or even three months hence. All you have to do is to make up your mind about it. And only YOU can do that. No use sending for my reducing program if it is going to be tucked away out of sight for future reference. That future day never comes. As things are today, you can dictate almost to a pound what your figure shall be a few months hence.

If it is the complexion that needs repairs, again you're told, only you are to blame. Only you can make up your mind that it will not stay so. Only you can decide that those wrinkles in formation now, the dark shadows a-hinting of things you may not want known, such as birthdays, say, the muddy cast, the oily troubles, pimples, acne, etc., will not be your worry much longer. There's a remedy for almost every ill to which the complexion is heir. But the only real remedy lies strictly in the grasp of your determination to improve.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

This is the season for superfatted soaps. If you've been wondering why your elbows look particularly red, with the skin unusually washboardish, and why your complexion is peeling so much that little flakes of skin actually float in the breeze you might see what a change of soaps will do. There are several good soaps with a high fat content on the market now and they're getting less and less costly.

Snooping around, we came on one not long ago that is extremely reasonable in price; as a matter of fact, it's really inexpensive. It comes in bar cakes and it's well made so that it does retain its "body" down to the last thin sliver.

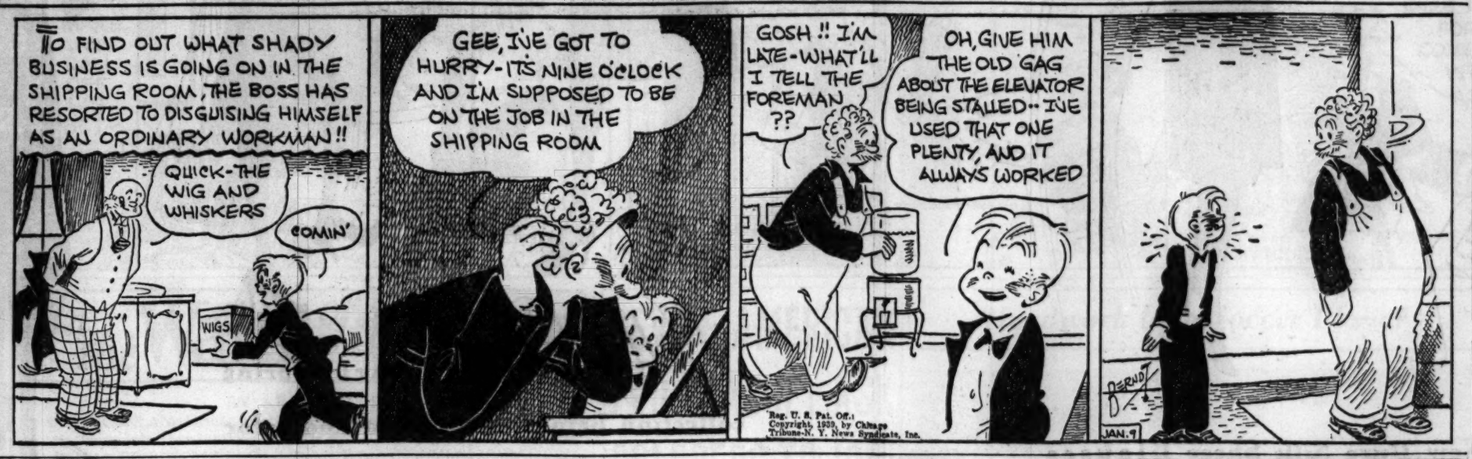

This superfatted soap is snowy white, makes a rich lather and is so bland that it has an entirely different effect on your skin from the average soap. This soap will play a big part in aleviating the extreme dryness. Its use removes at least one of the causes.

WOMAN'S AND MISS' HOME FROCKS.

Frocks that must keep a woman chic while she does her housework have just as much smartness, in their own way, as the gowns she wears for formal occasions. We're offering two home frocks today which are as flattering to slender silhouettes as they are to mature figures.

At the left is a simple model with V neckline, sleeves that are cut in one with the shoulders, a softly draped, pointed-up waistline, slightly flared skirt, and twin pockets. Around the neckline, sleeves, and pockets may be ruffling, lace, or braid trimming, and more of it may tip the sash ends.

The other frock is slightly more tailored, with a shirtwaist collar, shirtwaist sleeves, slenderizing center panel down the front, two pockets, and a sash that extends only from the side seams.

Both frocks make up well in light, dark, and figured cottons and linens. For dressier home wear you might fashion them of washable silks.

Style No. 2061 is designed for sizes 18 to 20, and 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, and 50 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3¼ yards of 39 inch material, with 2¼ yards of edging.

Style No. 3378 is designed for sizes 16, 18, and 20, and 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, and 50 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3¼ yards of 39 inch material, with ½ yard of 35 inch contrasting and 2 yards of braid.

Each pattern costs ten cents.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Station, NEW YORK CITY, inclosing ten cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be certain to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Few Toscanini Concert Seats Remain Unsold

Edward L. Hasler, and Mrs. John M. Simpson.

Orson Welles' lecture on "As I See the Stage," which he is giving at 8:15 o'clock tonight in Orchestra hall under the auspices of Northwestern university, should be exceptionally interesting, for apparently this young actor-producer sees the stage in a different light from most of his contemporaries. He is a former student at the Todd school in Woodstock, only 23 years old, and a son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Malcolm Nicholson.

Mr. and Mrs. Nicholson are entertaining from 5 until 6 o'clock this afternoon at the Fortnightly for Mr. Welles and his pretty young wife, the former Virginia Nicholson. Her sister, Mrs. James L. Abernathy, has come from Kansas City for the party.

Most of those who five weeks ago tonight went to the Erlanger theater to see Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne open in "Amphitryon 38" will go to the same theater tonight to see the same stars give their first performance here of Chekhov's "Sea Gull." There will be some regular first-nighters, however, who will wait to see the "Sea Gull" later so that they can hear young Mr. Welles' lecture.

The annual luncheon of the Service club will be held at 12:30 o'clock today at the Woman's Athletic club. New officers will be announced.

The annual meeting of the Evanston Infant Welfare Juniors will be held at 12:30 o'clock today at the Saddle and Cycle club.

Give Reception Today for Two Musicians.

Mrs. Ewald Herbert Seibel is opening her home at 3920 Lake Shore drive to the Woman's Symphony associates from 3 until 5 o'clock this afternoon for a reception for Winifred Christie, pianist, and Izler Solomon, conductor. Mr. Solomon is to be the guest conductor and Miss Christie the pianist at the closing concert of the Woman's Symphony orchestra tomorrow night in the Auditorium theater.

Mrs. Royden J. Keith, who is president of the board of the orchestra, is to be the guest artist at the Lake View Musical society concert tonight at the Blackstone.

The Arden Shore association will hold its annual meeting at 11:30 o'clock tomorrow at 12 South Michigan avenue. Luncheon will be served after the meeting.

Old friends of the Haskell and Hotz families in Chicago have received announcements reading: "Mrs. Frederick T. Haskell has the honor of announcing the marriage of her daughter, Lila Hotz Luce, to Sewell Tappan Tyng Friday, Jan. 6, 1939, Gladstone, N. J. Mr. and Mrs. Tyng will be at home after Feb. 15 at 1105 Park avenue, New York."

Miss Marilyn Martin, who spent the last half of her vacation at the Seigniory club in Quebec, has returned to her studies in New York.

Lake Shore Club to Start Movies of Past Tomorrow.

There will be laughs galore for movie fans in a series of great movies of the past to be presented by the Lake Shore Athletic club in coöperation with the Museum of Modern Art of New York on Tuesday nights at the club. The first program will be given tomorrow. The pictures, which will be continued through March 28, will form a summary of the rapid development of an art. The opening program will include "The New York Hat," a film of 1912 featuring Mary Pickford and Lionel Barrymore; "The Fugitive," with William S. Hart, released in 1914; a 1917 Mack Sennett comedy, "The Clever Dummy," and "A Fool There Was," with Theda Bara, another 1914 film.

Mrs. Laird Bell will give a tea in her home in Winnetka on Wednesday for Dr. Edith Summerskill, member of the British parliament and a widely known pediatrician. Like the duchess of Atholl, Dr. Summerskill, who will speak at the tea, has come to the United States in the interests of Spanish child refugees and orphans, who are being housed and cared for in "children's cities."

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 diamond	Pass	2 spades	Pass
3 spades	Pass	4 no trump	Pass
5 no trump	Pass	6 spades	Pass
Pass	Pass

South's bidding was overly aggressive. First, he made a jump take-out with only a shade better than three and one-half honor tricks on a four card suit. Actually, he should have had a strong rebiddable suit inasmuch as he had no fit with partner. His subsequent use of the 4-5 no trump convention added insult to injury: It is bad enough to stretch once on a hand; the least a player can do is to "back-water" thereafter.

Due to a perfect lay of cards, however, South was able to fulfill the optimistic contract. West opened the club king. Declarer won and counted tricks. By ordinary play he could see only four spades, four hearts [if the heart jack dropped], two diamonds, and one club—one trick short. He would not be able to ruff a club in dummy except by fatally giving up two club tricks. Nor could he hope to discard one of dummy's clubs on his own fourth heart because, to do so, he first would have to draw dummy's trumps, along with the opponents'. There was only one chance. A diamond was led to dummy, and the ace and king were cashed [declarer discarding a club]. The low diamond was ruffed. A low heart was led to the queen, and dummy's last diamond was ruffed. The ace and queen of spades were cashed, and another low heart put dummy back on lead. The spade king now was cashed and, to declarer's delight, drew the last outstanding trumps together, declarer discarding a club. A heart to the ace now dropped the jack and the heart ten was cashed for the twelfth trick.

The overbid contract had succeeded in this instance, but I doubt that that particular declarer will get rich with such bidding methods.

Question 32 of the recent examination was designed especially to trap players who do not respond properly to opening two-bids. It had come to my attention that a few players scattered throughout the country had been experimenting with an immediate ace-showing response to any opening two-bid in a suit. For months previous to the exam I had written strong and [I felt] conclusive arguments against this practice, and I was anxious to determine whether it had gained any real foothold. To my relief, the 20,000 answers that reached me proved that my fears were groundless. Less than one-tenth of 1 per cent gave two spades as the correct response in question 32, which was:

With both sides vulnerable, the bidding proceeds:

North	East	South	West
2 hearts	Pass	?

You are South and hold:
♠ A 6 3 ♥ 7 5 ♦ J 6 5 2 ♣ 9 5 3 2
What call do you make?

The correct answer was, of course, that South should make the negative response of two no trump, despite the fact that he held an ace and a jack. A few hundred contestants thought that South's hand was worth a positive jump response to three no trump, but at least 97 per cent answered correctly.

BY MARY MEADE.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune.]

"En brochette" is just a high sounding term for "on a skewer." This is another example of a French name carrying more appeal than a plain American food description. Most en brochette foods are broiled, but they may be braised if that method of preparation suits them better.

Pork is cooked by braising, since broiling dries it out too much and isn't a good tenderizer for the flesh of the pig. But the other skewered foods for which I'm giving recipes today are broiled. Meats served on skewers are attractive and a bit unusual. Wooden or stainless steel skewers may be used.

Calves Liver and Pineapple en Brochette.

[Serves Six.]
¾ pound calves liver
6 slices bacon
18 pineapple chunks or wedges

Cut the liver and bacon into inch squares and alternate pieces of liver, bacon, and pineapple on skewers, ending with bacon. Brush liver with butter. Arrange skewers in a slanting position on broiler pan so that the bacon will baste liver and pineapple as it cooks. Cook twelve to fifteen minutes in preheated broiling oven, at moderate heat, turning once or twice to brown all sides. The meat and pineapple may be pushed from the skewer onto a piece of hot toast, or they may be served as they are, on the skewers.

Chicken livers are delicious when prepared in the same way.

Veal and Pork en Brochette.

[Serves Six.]
1 pound veal steak, ½ inch thick
½ pound pork, sliced thinly
Flour, salt, pepper
3 tablespoons fat

Have the meat cut, or cut it yourself, into 2 inch squares. Alternate veal and pork on skewers, using about four pieces of veal and three of pork for each. Dip in seasoned flour, brown on all sides in hot fat, cover, and turn down the heat. Cook gently for half an hour, or until the meat is tender. Serve on the skewers. Make a gravy from the juices left in the pan to serve with the meat.

Lamb and Apricots en Brochette.

[Serves Six.]
1½ pounds lamb, sliced ½ inch thick
18 canned apricot halves
Salt, pepper
½ cup melted butter
¾ cup fine cracker crums [optional]

Cut the lamb into inch squares and alternate pieces with apricot halves on skewers. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Dip into melted butter and coat with crums. [The crums aren't necessary.] Broil under moderate heat, 350 degrees, until well browned, turning frequently. Serve on triangles of toast, on or off the skewer.

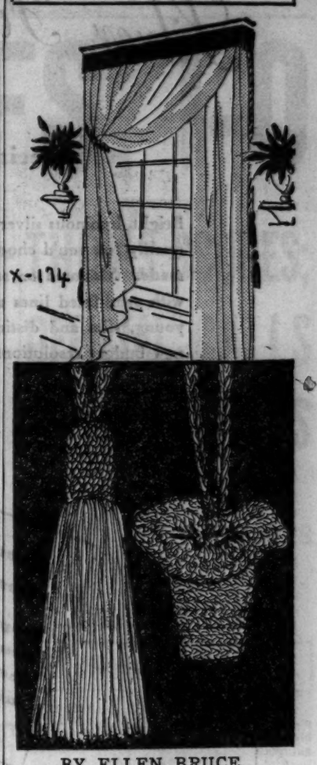

Sweetbreads en Brochette.

Allow half a sweetbread and a slice of bacon or ham for each skewer. Parboil the sweetbreads and cut into inch squares. Cut bacon or ham into the same size pieces. Thread on skewers, brush sweetbreads with butter, and broil for about ten minutes, or until bacon or ham has cooked and sweetbreads have browned, turning occasionally. The broiler temperature should be about 350 degrees, moderate heat.

Mushrooms always are attractive on skewers, and could be added to any of the skewered foods suggested. They are particularly good when broiled.

Other foods which may be cooked on skewers include shrimp, oysters, beefsteak, cubes of eggplant, and fruits such as prunes and pieces of banana coated with sirup.

Drapery Cords in Crochet Accent a Window's Beauty

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Pull ropes and window shade cords are in demand for draperies and other various types of chintz curtains. Hand crocheted cords give an added touch of distinction and individuality, and may match perfectly or contrast delightfully to the drapery material. These crocheted cords are simple to make and require little material and a minimum of time.

For instructions for crocheting the curtain and pull cords, No. X-174, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Repetition Delights Children and Helps Their Mental Growth

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

How many times have you read Mother Goose to your little girl; "When We Were Very Young," to your little boy, and "Peter Rabbit," "The Little Brown Bear," and a dozen other favorites? Children love repetition. They love to see again the things they have seen before.

In addition to recognizing the old familiar details, your child will discover something new on every trip to the same place. His games or his play on his return will be surer and clearer; his powers of observation will sharpen with use. One small boy I know, who loved to draw locomotives, discovered a new detail of mechanism each time he saw one and it went into his next drawing. He did quite a little traveling, and eventually could draw all the exterior of an engine correctly from memory.

So, too, in playing "docking the ferry boat," or being a monkey, or grooming the pony, or cleaning out an excavation with a steam shovel, you can do it better after the third or fourth trip than you can the first. Just so you can build it better, or draw it better, or talk about it better.

BIG 10 QUINTETS CLASH TONIGHT IN FOUR GAMES

Michigan Meets N. U. in Evanston.

Games Tonight

Michigan at Northwestern.
Indiana at Illinois.
Chicago at Wisconsin.
Iowa at Minnesota.
Duquesne at De Paul [132d Regiment armory].
Villanova at Loyola [132d Regiment armory].

BY WILFRID SMITH.

While the University of Minnesota basketball men, whom many have picked to succeed Purdue as champions of the Western conference, are seeking their second victory in the current campaign tonight on their home court against Iowa, Northwestern and Michigan, both defeated in their opening engagements Saturday, will meet in Patten gymnasium. The Wildcats were beaten by Purdue Saturday night, 35 to 24, in Lafayette, and Michigan, winner of six of its seven pre-season contests, dropped its Big Ten opener to Illinois in Champaign, 30 to 20.

Scores Are Lower.

In the series of five conference games Saturday night it should be pointed out that the home teams were victorious, perhaps bearing out the contention that the home team does have an advantage. Also, it is interesting to note the scores, tor Ohio State was the only Big Ten quintet tc garner more than forty points. The Buckeyes whipped Indiana, 45 to 38.

It may be conceded that in conference games the slower methods of attack are used more than in the nonconference games, which naturally would reduce the effectiveness of the offense and aid in keeping down scores, but the fairly equal caliber of competition also is a contributive factor. Purdue's quintet, which ran up high scores earlier, dropped to 35 points and Minnesota's veteran team, after leading Chicago 20 to 14 at the half, won 38 to 28.

Purdue Gets Rest.

Wisconsin opened the campaign auspiciously by trouncing Iowa, 28 to 24, at Madison in a closely fought contest. While the Badgers were defeated twice in nonconference play, they have established themselves as an important factor in the race.

Purdue will not play again until Saturday evening when it travels to Iowa City. Illinois and Wisconsin, still undefeated, meet Indiana and Chicago, respectively, and at home in each instance. Since the Illini remain undefeated for the entire season it may be logical to assume that they should be expected to whip the Hoosiers. Wisconsin naturally will be favored over Chicago, but those who have watched the Maroons know that if the Midway squad flashes top form the Badgers will have difficulty scoring their second Big Ten victory.

Hull, Fisher Lead Scorers.

Capt. Jimmy Hull of Ohio State and Dan Fisher, Purdue forward, each scored fourteen points in the opening games to tie for the conference leadership. It was Fisher's markmanship which largely accounted for Northwestern's defeat, although the return of Capt. Gene Anderson, previously injured, helped weld the Boilermakers into an effective unit.

Johnny Kundla was the scoring ace in Minnesota's opening conquest with six field goals. Chicago's Dick Lounsbury, who was forced out of the game on personals, still managed to get four field goals and three free throws.

LOYOLA, DE PAUL PLAY

Villanova of Philadelphia and Duquesne of Pittsburgh, among the finest college basketball teams in the east, will play Loyola and De Paul, respectively, tonight in the fourth college basketball double-header in the 132d Regiment armory, 2653 Madison street. The De Paul-Duquesne game starts at 8:15 o'clock.

The strength of the two invaders is shown by their records. Villanova has won six games this season, using four veterans from the 1937-'38 team which won twenty-five games. Duquesne is undefeated, having won five consecutive victories.

High Scoring Players.

Villanova is led by George Duzminski, a forward who made 296 points last season to top eastern scorers, and Jim Montgomery, center.

Duquesne and De Paul appear to be evenly matched. Coach Chick Davies of Duquesne has two teams he works alternately. The sophomore group, which played together as an undefeated freshman unit last year, will start against De Paul, with the other team, all juniors, taking over when needed. Duquesne numbers among its victims the strong Western Reserve team of Cleveland.

REVIVE AMERICAN PRO LEAGUE; ASK GOLDBERG TO JOIN

Six Cities Represented at Football Meeting.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Representatives from six cities today reorganized the old American Professional Football league and announced plans for resuming play next fall.

Jack McBride, who said his New York Yankees would play in Yankee stadium, predicted ten clubs would participate in the 1939 campaign.

Shortly after the reorganization session McBride held a long conference with Marshall Goldberg and said he was confident Pitt's great star "will be playing in the Yankee stadium next fall."

He's "Very Receptive."

"I had a very satisfactory conference with Goldberg," reported McBride. "We discussed various terms. He's very receptive. I am confident I will be able to satisfy Goldberg financially. He is certain to be a terrific drawing card in New York."

Goldberg already has been drafted by the Chicago Cardinals of the National league. Reports had it that Cardinal officials had interviewed him regarding his services next fall and that he turned down a $4,000 offer.

Goldberg denied tonight he had received a definite offer from the Cardinals.

"I met Charley Bidwill, owner of the team, in Chicago recently, but we did not discuss terms," he asserted. "I am listening to the various offers, but have not even decided to play pro ball. Everything is indefinite yet."

Drafting of Goldberg by the Cards did not prevent him from negotiating with clubs outside the National league, McBride said. The American magnates said they held a draft of their own today and that they would proceed with plans to bid for any player they thought worthwhile.

Plan Two Divisions.

Those who reorganized the American circuit insisted they would keep the official name of the American Professional Football League, Inc. They said they had obtained a charter in August, 1936, at Boston and that claims made last week by a midwest league which used the name American league in 1938 would be disregarded. The old American league operated in 1936 and 1937.

McBride said the league would be divided into eastern and western divisions with a playoff between the two at the close of the season. He said Providence, Boston, New York, Pittsburgh, or Buffalo and Newark or Atlantic City would be included in the east, and Pittsburgh or Buffalo, Cincinnati, Kansas City, St. Louis, Louisville, or Nashville or Indianapolis and possibly Los Angeles in the west.

Club representatives attending the reorganization session in addition to McBribe were Dana King, Cincinnati Bengals; John Slovan, Kansas City; Earl Seick, Buffalo; Myer Saul, who will operate either in Atlantic City or Newark; Richard Guy, Al Gormley, and Dr. Jess Quatse, Pittsburgh Amerks.

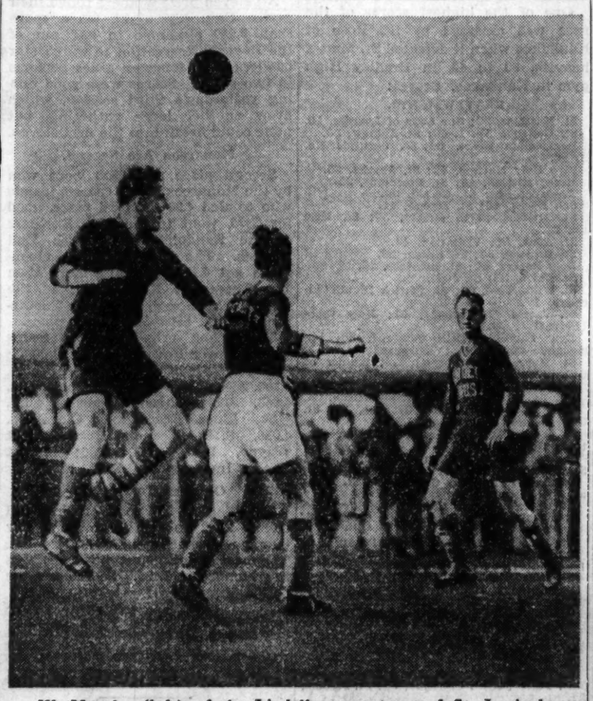

NEWSOM SAYS IT'S $20,000 OR COTTON FIELDS

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Big Buck Newsom, a twenty game winner for the seventh place St. Louis Browns last season, has a good start toward being the No. 1 holdout of the year.

Buck, who declares he is worth as much as Dizzy Dean, returned to his Hartsville, S. C., home yesterday after failing to get anywhere with Brown officials in his salary demands. He is asking for $22,500 and insists he will pick cotton before he will sign for less than $20,000. His 1938 salary was believed to be between $10,000 and $14,000.

Bill De Witt, Browns' vice president, said "We just can't afford" to meet Newsom's demands. He also admitted they couldn't very well afford to let him slip through their fingers.

Sparta Routs St. Louis, 7-1, in U. S. Soccer

BY OFFSIDE.

Sparta routed the Lindells of St. Louis, 7 to 1, in Sparta stadium yesterday to enter the western semi-finals in defense of its national soccer championship.

Jimmy MacDermott scored four goals to play the leading part in the victory. Wolf sent the champions away in front with a goal from four yards, then crossed to MacDermott, who made it 2 to 0 fifteen minutes through the first half. Goals by MacDermott and Vlcek gave the Spartas a 4 to 0 advantage at the intermission.

MacDermott ran the title holders' lead to 5 to 0 three minutes after play had been resumed. W. Murphy missed an open net as the Lindells pressed, then came back to score the visitors' only goal with a shot from 15 yards. Trimmell and MacDermott added the sixth and seventh Sparta goals in the final 15 minutes of play.

The Olympias, who meet the Oak Park Acorns next Sunday in a national amateur cup match, defeated the Wisla, 7 to 0, yesterday in Olympia stadium, and the Slovaks won from the Sparta Seconds, 4 to 0, in Sparta stadium. Sparta-Lindell lineups:

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Jimmy Demaret broke even with par 71 today and remained 5 strokes in front of the field at the end of the third round of the $5,000 Los Angeles open golf tournament.

The young professional from Houston, Tex., reached the end of fifty-four holes with a total score of 205. As a gallery of several thousand watched he missed a putt for a birdie on the eighteenth green.

Scores in general today were higher as the skies alternately beamed with sunshine and showered a gentle rain.

Dutch Harrison Has 210.

Tied in the second bracket at 210 were E. J. [Dutch] Harrison of Chicago, Harold McSpaden of Winchester, Mass., and Jimmy Thomson of Shawnee, Pa., who yesterday reentered the running with a 67 but needed even par 71 to get around the Wilson course today.

RANGERS' STRONG FINISH CRUSHES AMERICANS, 5-2

Winners Score 4 Goals in Final Period.

New York, Jan. 8.—(AP)—The youthful New York Rangers outplayed their older intracity rivals, the Americans, tonight in winning a National Hocky league game, 5 to 2.

A crowd of 16,000 watched the Rangers hammer down the Americans' defense in the third period and score four goals after the rivals had been tied at 1 to 1 since the first period.

Hooley Smith was serving a tripping penalty when the Rangers opened their scoring barrage, and Al Shibicky, George Allen, Clint Smith, and Bryan Hextall all found holes in Earl Robertson's goal defending armor.

Dutch Hiller had opened the scoring in the first period, but Art Jackson soon tied it up for the Americans and the teams remained deadlocked through the second period. The Americans' other goal was scored by Joe Jerwa midway in the final period.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Bill Thoms, obtained by the Blackhawks from the Toronto Maple Leafs just a month ago, last night scored a goal against his former pals in 14 minutes and 28 seconds of the first period of the Hawks-Leafs game in the Stadium. Thereafter came the most furious hocky played here in years, in which Paul Thompson and his boys made that lone marker stand up for a 1 to 0 victory.

When we say furious hocky we supply supporting statistics. There were 17 penalties in the game, including a misconduct assessment and an infringement by Goalie Turk Broda which gave the Hawks a penalty shot. At one time, just after the midway mark in the final period, three Leafs and two Hawks were locked in the penalty coop at the same time.

An Amazing Total.

Seventeen penalties under the current power play system is an amazing number of penalties. To give you some idea, be advised that in the hard fought Chicago-Boston game here last Thursday night there was only one penalty against each team in the entire match.

With all the penalty socking, Referee Ag Smith didn't wave 'em off to the full extent of his authority. There were four fights and only one of them brought penalties.

In the course of all the jamming Mike Karakas, Hawk goalie, moved right up in the shutout circle with his No. 5 as compared with six by Frank Brimsek of Boston, and Broda, who registered his sixth Saturday night with a 2 to 0 triumph over Brimsek and fellow Bruins.

Thompson a Defense Man.

Manager Paul Thompson played at defense, a new rôle, and judging from the manner in which the 14,000 customers received the performance, he need have no immediate fears of replacement. A few shows like last night's and Owner Frederic McLaughlin's new worry will be that there aren't 10,000 more seats in the Stadium.

Thoms' goal was made on assists by Mush March and Bob Gracie. March sped down the left boards until headed off by Bingo Kampman at the curve. Mush then nudged the rubber out to Gracie, who promptly passed it on to Thoms. Thoms then beat Broda with a neat looping shot for the night's solitary counter.

Speed and Excitement Galore.

After the Hawks went ahead excitement and speed never abated. Bespatted Sport Smythe, Leaf manager, frequently skidded out on the ice in his resplendent civic attire, sometimes to calm his belligerent chattels and other times to urge them to further violence. He was a ruffled and pathetic figure after the final siren. The Leafs on Saturday night supplanted the Hawks in fourth place. Last night the Hawks resumed fourth as the Leafs dropped back to fifth.

The outcome gave the Hawks the edge in the season series with the Leafs. The teams previously had played a 1 to 1 and a 4 to 4 tie here. In Toronto the Hawks have won, 2 to 0, and lost, 4 to 1.

WALTER BIETILA WINS SKI TITLE AT OCONOMOWOC

Oconomowoc, Wis., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Walter Bietila of the University of Wisconsin Hoofers Ski club, Madison, today won the class A championship of the Milwaukee-Oconomowoc Ski clubs' annual tournament on Devil's Hollow slide.

Competing on thin, sticky snow, he made the longest jump of the day—101 feet—and the only jump of more than 100 feet. Robert Pabst, Milwaukee, was second; Martin Wingness, Chicago, third; Gunner Oman, Chicago, fourth; and George Gunderson, Chicago, fifth.

MADISON CLUB REGISTERS 13 IN SILVER SKATES

'Dark Horse' Contestants Given Chance to Upset.

Thirteen skaters from Madison, Wis., will make a determined effort to win a Silver Skates championship in the twenty-second Derbies on Saturday and Sunday in Garfield park. The Wisconsin skaters, six of whom will compete in the men's senior race, represent the Madison Skating club, a member of the Wisconsin Skating association. Their names were submitted by Coach Carl Mueller.

All have exceptional ability or they would not make the trip to Chicago. Some must report on Saturday for their trials, those competing in the boys' junior, boys' juvenile, and girls' junior classes. The others will receive their racing numbers Sunday at the Garfield park boathouse between 10 a. m. and noon. Preliminaries on Sunday will start at 1 o'clock. Saturday's preliminaries in the lower age classes start at 2 o'clock and racing numbers that day will be passed out by the clerks between 11 a. m. and 1 p. m.

See Chance for "Dark Horses."

The Madison senior skaters are Harold Shelton, Ossie Schwab, Bob Lindsay, Don Chase, Alfred Wallner, and Daniel Jakovich. While these skaters may prevent some of Chicago's favorites from attaining their goals of becoming Silver Skates winners, it is more likely that some comparatively unknown may come through from the larger clubs entered from Chicago or immediate vicinity. One of these is the Tilden Skating club which this year has entered ninety-four contestants in five of the eight Derbies.

The majority of the skaters whose names were submitted by Louis P. Christoffel are students in the Tilden Technical High school. Eighteen boys will skate in the men's two mile race, the preliminaries, of which are held over a one mile course, forty-six will skate in the boys' intermediate class, twenty-seven in the boys' junior, one in the boys' juvenile class, and there are two entries in the girls' senior event.

One of the largest teams from the playgrounds is entered by John A. Mock of the Henry Playground Skating club. Mock has never missed a Silver Skates race since 1917 and has served for twenty-three years in the board of education playgrounds. Margaret Leimer, also an instructor at Henry playground, has entered a team of fourteen girls.

Tabulated Entries Tomorrow.

Fred L. O'Keefe of Swift playground, also has submitted a large entry. Other teams whose registrations were received Saturday are: Bosley playground, Owen T. Murphy, instructor; Corkert playground, William Woeltje, instructor; Ryerson playground, Henry Meyer, instructor; 33d Place playground, D. Gahem, instructor; Delano playground, George H. Senators Call on Men They Once Rejected

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Baseball must seem a screwy game to a couple of Washington rookies—they couldn't make good in the minors, but they're being hailed by the majors. When the 1938 season started, Pitcher Joe Krakauskas and First Baseman Jimmy Wasdell were found wanting and shipped off to the minor leagues.

Wasdell was sent to Indianapolis, tried a while and then returned to the Senators. The minors couldn't use him. Krakauskas was packed off to Trenton, and back he came by the next mail. The Senators couldn't farm them out so they had to keep them. Today, in the midst of rebuilding the Senators, Owner Clark Griffith is using them as a part of his floor plan.

Wasdell to Take Bonura's Place.

Confident that Wasdell can play first base, Griffith sold Zeke Bonura to the Giants, and announced young Jimmy would be the regular this year. Krakauskas, who turned up with the third best earned-run average in the American league, has been given a pay raise and called the team's best hurler.

"Wasdell," Griffith says, "has been hitting at bad balls. We'll teach him to hold back. He can hit the good ones, and he hits them for extra bases."

Of Krakauskas he's even more optimistic.

"He's got more speed than any left-hander in the league. He struck out 104 batters last year in 121 innings. By sin, that's almost one an inning. We'll teach him control."

Issues 88 Walks.

While compiling an earned-run average of 3.07—which was topped only by Lefty Grove and Ivy Andrews—Krakauskas walked 88 men, made four wild pitches, and hit three batters.

"That's all right," Griffith added. "We're going to sic Nick Altrock on Joe. He's going to haunt him like a ghost. He'll teach him control."

Gills' 4,244 Wins in Schalk Bowling Meet

BY HOWARD MARTIN.

The Joseph L. Gills, member of the Randolph, North End, and Gold Coast Bowling leagues, are $700 richer as a result of the third annual Ray Schalk sweepstakes which ended yesterday afternoon in the Beverly Recreation. The Gills topped sixty of the midwest's strongest five men teams by totaling 4,244 for eight games across four alleys.

All eleven prize winners rolled their series Saturday night when more than 5,000 streamed in and out of the Beverly Recreation to watch star bowlers from fourteen cities perform in two shifts. Scores were good during yesterday's third session, which drew another large gathering, but none could break into the first eleven.

Conn Is Hailed as Overnight Ring Sensation

New York, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Boxing fans of New York have a new favorite, young Billy Conn of Pittsburgh. They are comparing him with all the great Irish fighters they can remember—by sight, name or reputation.

Although Billy was quite a figure around his home town, he was unknown here and regarded suspiciously at odds of 14 to 5 before outpointing Fred Apostoli in his Madison Square Garden debut night before last.

All that has changed now. In its own little way, the outcome was one of the biggest fight upsets New York has seen in a long while and Promoter Mike Jacobs' henchmen scarcely could wait until Conn awoke Saturday to sign him for a return bout with Apostoli Feb. 10, this time at fifteen rounds instead of ten.

The haste was right in tempo with the swift rise of Conn, who in two years has fought some fifty bouts and won forty-one of them — including seven times from various champions and former champions.

He was a welterweight when he won his first important test, a decision over Fritzie Zivic of Pittsburgh. He was a middleweight when he beat Teddy Yarosz twice, Vince Dundee, and Babe Risko, all former middleweight champions, and Young Corbett III., who once held the welterweight title. He had become a light heavyweight before outpointing Solly Krieger, the National Boxing association's middleweight champion, and Apostoli, recognized for the same title by the New York and California commissions.

Over six feet tall, and weighing about 170 pounds, Conn still is growing.

HORNETS BEAT SHAMROCKS, 6-0; PLANERTS WIN

The Hornets handed the C. Y. O. Shamrocks their first defeat of the season before a capacity crowd, 6 to 0, in the feature hockey game at the Chicago arena yesterday afternoon. In the second game the Planerts upset Pepsi-Cola, 3 to 1.

The Pepsi-Colas scored their lone goal in the first period, Eddie Janelle cashing in on a solo effort. Planerts tied the score near the end of the period, Bun Lawler getting the tally. Art Anderson tallied in the second period and Herb Howie the third goal in the last period.

The Shamrocks had been undefeated nearly a year. The addition of Pat Wills and Bun La Prairie, newcomers at defense for the Hornets, gave them the needed punch they have missed all year.

Puppy Matches, Specialty Show on Dog Calendar

BY BOB BECKER.

Although Chicago's next big dog show is almost three months away, several puppy matches and a specialty show are going to keep local exhibitors and breeders busy during the coming weeks. Scottish terriers, Boston terriers, chows and other breeds will be exhibited in these events.

The Scottish terrier club of Chicago will hold a puppy match at 1:30 next Sunday afternoon, in the Atlantic hotel. Mort C. Heyer, Milwaukee, will judge. Scotty puppies between 2 and 12 months old are eligible for this event. Entries should be sent to Miss Evelyn Kennedy, 53 West Wacker drive, or puppy owners may enter their dogs at the match. Miss Kennedy will answer further inquiries at Randolph 3277.

Chow owners are getting their dogs ready for the specialty show of the Chicagoland Chow Chow club, to be held January 22 in the Boulevard room of the Stevens hotel. The Chicagoland club is newly organized, and this is its first show. Arthur E. Hoffman, Milwaukee, will judge. An entry of about 60 dogs is expected. Mrs. Myrtle Morrison, 2951 North Halsted street, is the club secretary, and entry blanks may be obtained from her. January 15 is the closing date for entries.

The Western Boston Terrier club will hold a puppy match in conjunction with a dinner to be held in the Wonderland ballroom, 2940 Milwaukee avenue, Chicago, on January 29. Helen Cook, Chicago, will judge. Boston terriers under one year are eligible.

Plans are not yet complete for a puppy match to be held in conjunction with the International Outdoor Sportsmen's show in the International amphitheatre January 21 through 29. A puppy match will be held during the week, with the cooperation of the Midwest Puppy Match association and other dog groups.

A dog show for sporting breeds and hounds also will be held as part of the amphitheatre show, as well as an indoor retriever trial in which Labrador retrievers, Chesapeake Bay retrievers, and other retriever breeds will take part.

The Cocker Spaniel club of the Middle West recently elected officers for 1939. Paul Moser was named president; Karl E. Leib, vice president; and Doris Flagg, secretary-treasurer. J. Paul Bishop and Fred F. Ecker were elected to the board of directors.

The German Shepherd Dog club of the Great Lakes is holding its annual midwinter meeting for fanciers of this breed next Saturday night in the Sovereign hotel, 6200 North Kenmore avenue.

GIBBS SEEKS TO EVEN SCORE IN BOUT WITH SAELI

Lightweights in Rematch at Marigold Gardens.

One of the most hotly contested battles of the season in the lightweight division is expected when Phil Saeli, Chicago's newest potential star, and Earl Gibbs meet in an eight round return bout in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street, tonight.

Gibbs, who lost a decision in six rounds in an earlier fight with his Italian opponent in the same arena Nov. 7, will be put to his severest test. In recent starts Earl has shown marked improvement, beating Gene Spencer, who in turn held Leone Efati to a draw last Sept. 30.

In a companion feature Verne Patterson, former Chicago Golden Gloves welterweight champion, clashes with Indian Billy Lee of Milwaukee. The winner may earn a match with Milt Aron, who has started training for his first ring start since his marriage late last year.

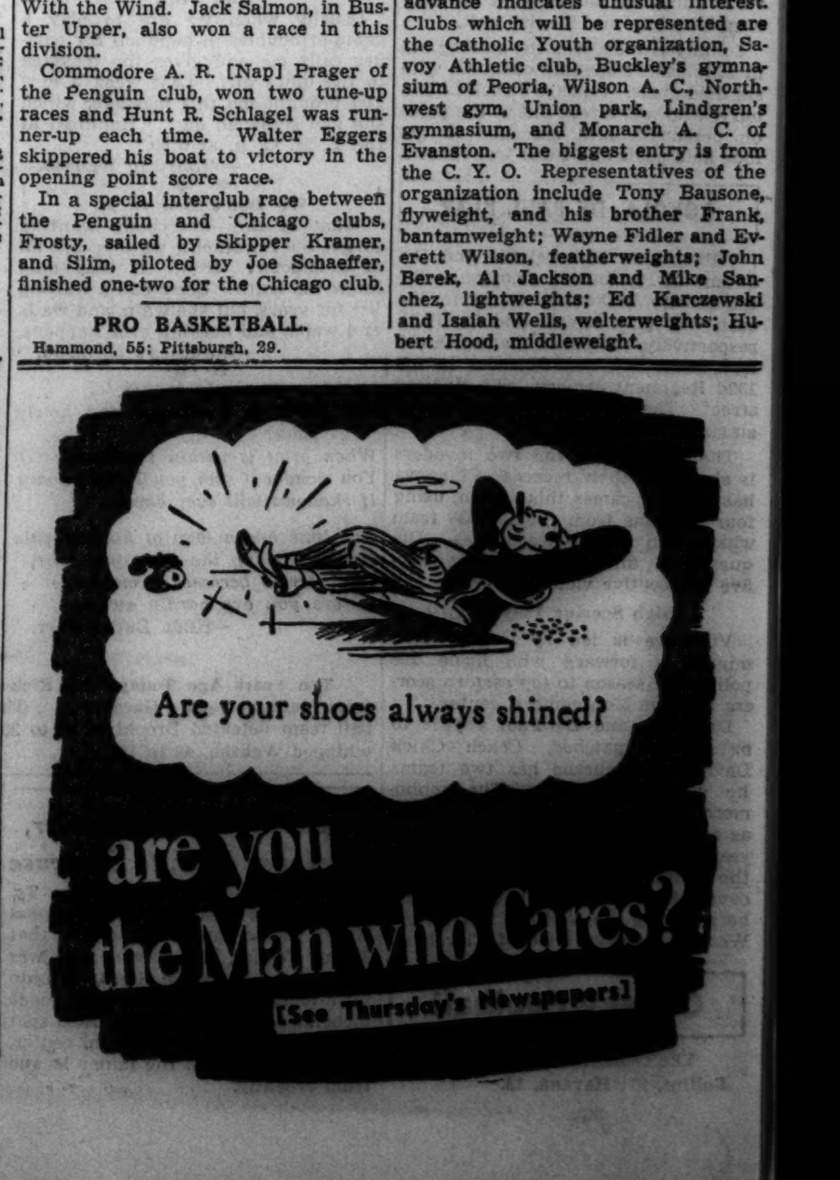

In other contests, Tony Motisi, Catholic Youth organization 147 pounder, will face Tommy Pallatin, South Bend, for five rounds; Tony Sopko, Elmwood Park 154 pounder, will meet Johnny Rock, Brighton Park, four rounds, and Marion Mosley will encounter Art Pavlis, his heavyweight rival, also at four rounds.

Jim McMillen, former University of Illinois football player, will wrestle Olaf Olson, Milwaukee heavyweight, in a one hour encounter in White City, 63d street and South Park avenue, tonight. . . . Supporting matches bring together Ray Clements and Ben Rubi, Babe Kasaboski and Rufus Jones, Bull Curley and Rocky Dempsey. . . . Another mat show tonight will be in Cicero stadium, 19th street and 52d avenue, featured by Stanley Pinta and Pat Murphy. . . . Additional struggles will involve King Levinsky and Jack Zeravitch, Pete Holtz and Frank Lehmann. . . . The rivalry between these professional actors is intense, but always on a friendly basis. . . . There also will be an amateur boxing card this evening in Coulon's gymnasium, 1154 East 63d street. Johnny Winter, Maywood welterweight, opposes Jack Broughton, and Gene Platt, Englewood junior welterweight, meets John Pecovitch in the top bouts.

A wrestling exhibition concerning King Levinsky and Pat Murphy has been added to the fight program Wednesday night at Park Casino which features a ten rounder between Pete Lello, 1936 Golden Gloves lightweight title holder, and Leone Efrati, newcomer from Italy, whose development has stirred fans . . . Verle Davis, Kankakee lightweight puncher, will appear against Willie Ross in a five round preliminary to the ten round event involving Frankie [Kid] Covelli and Umio Gen in White City Friday . . . Sammy Consolo and Orville Eighmey, rival junior lightweights of the South side, will meet in a five round amateur contest in 124th Field Artillery armory gymnasium Wednesday . . . Jackie Cellura, capable Detroit featherweight, is out with a challenge to Eddie Lander of Franklin park and Frankie Kainrath, Catholic Youth organization. . . . James C. Mullen, who displayed some of his old genius in his successful boxing promotion last month, may conduct another show in the Coliseum Feb. 10. Mullen, who is 55 years old, says "I will not promote any blarneys." Jim refused an offer to arrange a friendly match for Jan. 26. "I'm matchmaker for the Coliseum Boxing club and I don't want any black eyes at my age," he said.

Buddy Baer, California heavyweight, has signed to meet Tony Galento in Chicago Stadium Feb. 3 or 17. In order to get Galento's agreement Manager Ancil Hoffman agreed to have Buddy's brother Max meet Tony in Philadelphia in June, providing he eliminates Buddy.

Forty-seven entries have been received to date for competition in the annual amateur boxing tournament in the Illinois Athletic club Jan. 17, 18 and 25. Athletic Director Johnny Behr said the large entry this far in advance indicates unusual interest. Clubs which will be represented are the Catholic Youth organization, Savoy Athletic club, Buckley's gymnasium of Peoria, Wilson A. C., Northwest gym, Union park, Lindgren's gymnasium, and Monarch A. C. of Evanston. The biggest entry is from the C. Y. O. Representatives of the organization include Tony Bausone, flyweight, and his brother Frank, bantamweight; Wayne Fidler and Everett Wilson, featherweights; John Berek, Al Jackson and Mike Sanchez, lightweights; Ed Karczewski and Isaiah Wells, welterweights; Hubert Hood, middleweight.

LASH ROOSEVELT BUDGET PLAN AS INFLATION PERIL

250 Leaders Assail Deficit Burden.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8.—The National Economy league today issued a warning against the increased tax burden and decreased value of the dollar entailed in President Roosevelt's program of indefinite deficit financing. The league is composed of 250 civic leaders and economists representing 43 states.

The organization disclosed that it is preparing a platform showing "how the budget can be balanced without crippling any essential service, while providing for an economical and humane administration of relief."

"The administration," said the league, "has abandoned any pretense of a return to balanced budgets, even in principle. We are irrevocably committed to unbalanced budgets, debt increase and uncontrolable inflation, at least until the national income reaches the 80 billion dollar level of 1929."

Cites "Grim Realities."

If congress should adopt the budget as presented, said the league, the country must face the following "grim realities":

"1. The certainty of a full decade of successive federal deficits from 1931 through 1940.

"2. The public debt by June 30, 1940, will be 44 billions, an increase of 28 billion dollars; even the war only added 36 billions.

"3. During the current fiscal year and in the one to come, federal expenditures [exclusive of debt retirement] will run at 9 billion dollars a year.

"4. This level of spending can be covered by revenue only in boom years.

"5. A continuation of deficit financing will ultimately lead to currency inflation."

Foresee Dire Results.

Clear implications of a continuation of such a policy, according to the league, are:

"1. The adherence to this policy has caught us in an upward spiral of spending so that we are now threatened with a new permanent level of spending which is far in excess of revenues to be collected in any but boom years.

"2. The continuation of this policy makes it impossible, through debt retirement, to wipe out the deficits accumulated in lean years.

"3. Thus we may be heading in a few years into another serious business depression with a greatly swollen debt and a heavy interest charge superimposed on a high level of normal governmental expenditures."

Stock Market Lower in First Week of Year

New York, Jan. 8.—[Special.]—The stock market drifted lower during the first week of the new year. Only the utilities showed any strength.

The market's action was in distinct contrast with its firmness in the closing days of 1938 and with the generally optimistic year-end forecasts of business leaders.

Movements of the Dow-Jones averages showed the independence of utilities. This section advanced 0.47, while the railroads lost 1.05 of their recent gains and industrials fell 3.22.

React to Budget Message.

President Roosevelt's proposals for continued record spending in his budget message Thursday appeared to have the most dampening effect on the stock market. In contrast with a number of previous occasions, the prospective inflationary stimulus of spending was overlooked as traders focused on the aspect of continued big deficits and the soaring public debt.

Reports of an increasingly conciliatory attitude of the government toward utilities, was one of the reasons given by some observers for firmness of the power and light shares. Other analysts had different explanations. One viewpoint was that the preparedness and armament program will be a definite stimulus in that the government wants the nation's power facilities at top efficiency in short order.

Whispers About TVA.

Also making the grapevine rounds was the whispered hope that the Supreme court might declare the Tennessee Valley Authority unconstitutional. A decision on a pending case, delayed for some time, is expected soon by most Wall Street. Any decision cramping TVA, it is predicted, would be the signal for vigorous construction activities.

Business news was about as expected, and was not considered a factor in the general liquidation of stockings last week.

The decline in the British pound sterling, checked late in the week by the drastic move of transferring $1,500,000,000 of gold from the Bank of England to the stabilization fund, was an unsettling influence in the foreign exchange market.

Hormel Is Different.

Investors' Guide: I noticed recently in the paper that Hormel & Co., the meat packer, made more money last year than the year before. This struck me as curious, because most of the big meat packers seem to have lost money last year. Can you account for the difference? Please tell me something about where and how Hormel operates. Also, where could I buy some of its stock?—Mrs. J. G.

Answer: George A. Hormel & Co.'s improvement in earnings in the fiscal year ended Oct. 29, 1938, was due to a number of factors. The company's largest packing is of pork products, and prices of pork were steadier than prices of most other meats and meat products last year. Fluctuations in both supplies and demand in pork were less than in other meat lines. This helped to boost profits.

Another factor which helped Hormel last year was that it distributes its products largely through jobbers instead of through its own selling organization, as the big packers do. The jobber system made it possible for Hormel to keep its inventories low and to hold down losses from price fluctuations on stocks of goods held.

Hormel, moreover, was successful in pushing a number of meat specialty products, according to Jay C. Hormel, president.

Net income in the 1938 fiscal year rose to $1,031,574, or $1.96 a common share, from $767,386, or $1.39 a share, in spite of a 6 per cent drop in sales to $56,922,000. Profits were at the highest point since 1930, when net income amounted to $1,246,000. During the depression the company's only year in the red was 1931, when net loss was $609,000. Net income was $464,000 in 1932 and has exceeded $500,000 in every year since.

The Hormel plant is at Austin, Minn., and packing house branches are maintained in more than a dozen cities. The common stock is traded on the Chicago Stock exchange.

The dividend rate on the common stock is $1.50 a year. The company has 14,554 shares of $100 par preferred stock outstanding. It pays 6 per cent.

Dividends Since 1920.

Investors' Guide: As I understand it, the United Light and Railways company has paid dividends on its prior preferred stocks without a skip since 1920, when they were issued. Is this correct? Have dividends been earned? How big is the company? —H. R.

Answer: Yes, dividends have been earned and paid since 1920. Total assets are more than $500,000,000.

Steel Industry Relies on Rail, Arms Buying

The steel industry last week focused its attention on congressional attitudes toward aid for the railroads and toward armament. The trade magazine Steel indicated yesterday that consumption of steel during 1939 will be influenced by legislation on these two programs.

"Probable expenditures by the railroads for track material and equipment remain somewhat indefinite, but unless outside financial assistance is forthcoming, steel purchases will be regulated largely by revenue," the weekly summary stated.

Steel Output Expands.

The nation's steel mills last week stepped up the average ingot output 11.5 points from the preceding week to 51.5 per cent of capacity, Steel reported. This rate was almost twice the 26 per cent output in 1938 at the same time.

Improvement in steel ingot output was noted in most districts. The gain in the Pittsburgh area was 18 points to 44 per cent; Youngstown, 18 points to 50 per cent; Wheeling, 14 points to 64 per cent; Detroit, 12 points to 91 per cent; Chicago, 7 points to 53 per cent; eastern Pennsylvania, 5 points to 34 per cent; Cincinnati, 22 points to 72 per cent; St. Louis, 3 points to 45.5 per cent, and Cleveland, 4 points to 54 per cent.

Scrap Prices Unchanged.

Scrap prices were unchanged from last week, Steel's composites on scrap remained at $14.79, iron and steel at $36.36, and finished steel at $56.50.

The upturn in steel production was seasonal and was stimulated by a backlog of orders. Among the recent purchases of steel were 30,000 tons of rails by the Northern Pacific railroad and substantial orders by automobile makers. Automobile production was 50 per cent above that a year ago, at 76,685 units last week.

Executives of Merritt-Chapman and Scott are on the ground arranging for the employment of local labor and orders for construction materials are ready for release.

The mill buildings, power plant and equipment will cost $3,750,000. The total cost of the project will be about $6,000,000. Construction will provide work for about 700 men for about a year. The mill will have a capacity of 150 tons a day.

New Source of Nickel Ore to Be Exploited by Dutch

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

AMSTERDAM, Jan. 8.—[Special.]—A new source of nickel soon will be exploited on Celebes Island, Dutch East Indies, it was learned today. Nineteen concessions covering a large area near the coast of Bingkoka bay have been claimed by the Netherlands East Borneo company. The mines are expected to yield 2 to 3 per cent of present world production. Ore is to be smelted on the spot by means of a new process developed by Krupp. The Dutch company obtained a license for the process.

Postal Receipts in Fourth 1938 Quarter Set Record

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Postal receipts reached an all time high in the last quarter of 1938, Postmaster General Farley announced today. Receipts for the period totaled $210,155,624. This compares with the previous high of $209,594,469 in the same quarter last year.

REPEAL OF 1934 SILVER BUYING ACT PREDICTED

Called Failure as Monetary Aid.

New York, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Mining and metal using trades were informed today by Handy & Harman, bullion dealers, that "ultimate repeal" of the silver purchase act of 1934 appears probable. In an annual review of the silver market, the firm said:

"Without doubt, the treasury's purchases during the last five years have benefited this country's silver industry, but the act's apparent failure as a monetary measure and the seeming impossibility of its ever attaining its avowed objectives may raise the question whether it should be continued, even for the sake of such benefits, and particularly when consideration is given to the cost to the United States of the subsidy paid abroad."

The firm suggested, from its interpretation of existing laws, that the treasury could proceed with purchases of newly mined silver from producers in the United States even if the 1934 act is repealed.

64.64 Cent Rate Retained.

President Roosevelt, at the end of the old year, authorized the continuance of purchases of newly mined domestic silver through next June at 64.64 cents an ounce compared with the world price of about 43 cents.

The silver purchase act of 1934 required the treasury to buy the metal until silver in the nation's monetary reserves attained a ratio of one-fourth to gold or until the world silver price reached the statutory price of $1.29 an ounce.

Handy & Harman explained both these objectives were far from being reached, despite the fact purchases under the act exceeded 1,500,000,000 ounces and that total United States silver holdings, including coin in circulation, had risen to 2,575,000,000 ounces at the end of 1938.

Gold Holdings Rise Faster.

The treasury's holdings of gold, it explained, had outdistanced silver purchases so that the treasury would have to buy an additional 1,165,000,000 ounces to meet the act's requirements.

The firm estimated the cost of the silver purchases at more than one billion dollars, of which it figured 82 per cent had been paid for foreign silver and 18 per cent for the output of domestic mines.

Acquisitions in the open market last year were placed at 342,000,000 ounces, including metal from demonetized reserves of Spain and China. Part of the metal flowing into the open market at London, the chief world market, for Japanese account, was described as silver of Chinese origin.

Events of the year, it held, demonstrated the "silver market's complete dependence upon the support of the United States government."

Retailers' Sales Slump in 1938 Is 12 Per Cent

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8.—(AP)—The commerce department reported today that retail sales slumped about 12 per cent in dollar volume in 1938. Sales, based on preliminary estimates, totaled $35,000,000,000 in 1938, compared with $39,900,000,000 in 1937.

The year 1938 was the first since 1933 in which total dollar volume fell below the previous year's level. In the four preceding years there was a continuous expansion from the depression low of $25,000,000,000 in 1933 to $39,900,000,000 in 1937. The 1929 total was $49,000,000,000.

1938 Price Level Lower.

The report said actual quantity of goods sold in 1938 more closely approximated the 1937 volume than did the dollar value. This, it explained, was because the retail price level for the year averaged below that of 1937.

Sales in 1938 were under 1937 for all major groups. However, only two out of fifteen groups had losses greater than the average decline recorded for total trade.

Auto Sales Off 35 Per Cent.

The automotive group, which accounted for about 11 per cent of all sales made during the year, showed a 35 per cent loss. Furniture and household appliances dropped 17 per cent.

Lumber and building materials declined about 11 per cent. Sales by jewelry stores and farmers' supply and general stores showed a similar drop.

Open Washer and Ironer Appliance Show Today

The first annual national washer and ironer show will open today at the Stevens hotel. It is being held under the auspices of the American Washer and Ironer Manufacturers' association. More than thirty companies active in the home laundering appliance field are cooperating, and more than 5,000 buyers from the United States and Canada are expected to attend the show.

PRESIDENT TOLD U. S. ASKS TOO MANY REPORTS

135,500,000 in One Year; Cut Urged.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8.—(AP)—The central statistical board reported today that federal agencies required business men and just plain citizens to fill out 135,500,000 forms and questionnaires in 1937.

And a lot of the blanks, it said, asked the same information and wouldn't have been necessary if Uncle Sam had let one hand know what the other was doing.

Stuart A. Rice.

Stuart A. Rice was chairman of the board which made the survey.

Discussing its findings during a lengthy study, the board advised President Roosevelt:

That the reports covered a variety

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

Platters Heaped High

Jan. 8, 1939.

PLATTERS have been heaped high with knickknacks since hog killing day at the Du Page county farm Thursday. There has been a generous sampling of backbones country style, headcheese, sausage, spare ribs, jowls, hocks, knuckles, and pork tenderloin. Old Virginia hams and bacon will come later after time has been allowed for curing.

The fourteen backbones were left whole instead of being split down the middle, as is done by modern butchers. With the pig tail left attached, the bones can be conveniently hung on the hooks, where the vertabræ are separated easily for baking or boiling.

Twenty-eight shoulders taken from the fourteen porkers were made into sausage. Two hundred sixty pounds of meat from the shoulders and trimmings from the hams and bacon slabs were ground into sausage.

Seasoning for Sausage.

The farm's regular sausage seasoning mixture is made up of 1 tablespoonful of black pepper, 1 tablespoonful of common salt, and a dash of cayenne pepper to each 10 pounds of ground meat. This mixture is added after the meat has been shopped into fine pieces ready to be run through a motor driven grinder.

Families at the farm all use the same basic seasoning mixture in making pork sausage, and later add seasoning to suit the tastes of individuals. Some add an extra quantity of cayenne pepper, and some like sage in the seasoning mixture.

A small quantity of the sausage is fried and eaten soon after it comes from the grinder. This year a fair portion of it was put in casings. The casings are stuffed with a machine that forces the meat directly into the casings. Then links are formed by tying the stuffed casings every four or five inches.

With the bulk of the meat trimmed from the lean shoulders, a high grade of sausage is made. The superior quality of the farm's sausage is due primarily to the high percentage of lean meat used. All this week the farmers expect to start the day with liberal helpings of country sausage served with hot cakes and sirup or sorghum.

More than 70 pounds of liver sausage also were made. The liver was cooked, ground and seasoned and then put up in casings with the links about eight inches long.

51 Pounds of Headcheese.

From the fourteen heads fifty-one pounds of headcheese were made. After cooking and seasoning the headcheese was "sacked" in casings made from the cleaned stomachs of the animals.

Some of the pigs' feet are being pickled for later use. The knuckles or hocks are being saved for cooking with vegetables.

Twenty-eight hams and an equal number of bacon sides were carefully trimmed and started on the first stage in the old Virginia curing process. For several years hams and bacon have been successfully cured the old Virginia way at the farm.

PRESIDENT TOLD U. S. ASKS TOO MANY REPORTS

135,500,000 in a Year; Reform Urged.

of subjects from taxes to unemployment.

That while, in general, the agencies need the information they request there is "a substantial amount of unncessary duplication in existing requirements."

That some of the "more conspicious" instances of duplication arise from income and social security tax returns, which in many states are required also by the state government.

That the chief step needed toward attaining simplification is a statistical coördinating agency with authority to trim away duplicate requests and make information known to one agency available to all the others.

President Roosevelt asked the board last May to make the study. He expressed concern over "the large number of statistical reports which federal agencies are requiring from business and industry."

Urges Legislative Action.

The committee asked legislative action to give the proposed coördinating agency authority to approve or disapprove all questionnaires and report forms put out by all federal bureaus.

A private citizen would not be required legally to fill out a form duplicating information he had already given, unless the central agency had approved; address lists would be consolidated and records kept uniformly; tax returns would be merged and in some cases eliminated and information agencies would be telescoped where possible.

In discussing points at which duplication exists the report said that "in a number of lines of business a concern's total pay roll in a given period may be reported in as many as twelve different federal forms."

Local Loan Gives You the Service You Want

The easier we make it for you to borrow the more we save you in time and money. Our aim is to offer you whatever plan will enable you to borrow most easily. We make liberal Furniture and Auto Loans, but most of our loans are to employed men and women on their signature only because the average employee is entitled to this service. If steadily employed you are entitled to—

$25 TO $300
SALARY LOANS

On Your Signature Only
WITHOUT CO-MAKERS OR ENDORSERS.

You may make your own repayment terms [repaying any time within 20 months] and you are charged only for the actual time you have the money. We cannot tell you all about our service in an advertisement. Just phone or call at one of the following offices.

Your loan request can be taken over the telephone so you can obtain the money more quickly when you call in person. You'll be surprised to find how rapidly the money is advanced.
